FOOD MEN MASS IN CAPITAL TO FIGHT SUBSIDY

2,000 on Hand for Senate Hearing.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. E. D. Smith.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—Agriculture, business, and industrial leaders representing food production and marketing interests in each of the 48 states drew final battle plans here today in preparation for delivering what may be the knockout blow tomorrow to the administration's food subsidy plans.

At the invitation of the senate agriculture committee, cattle raisers, corn growers, egg producers, stock yards commission men, fruit growers, grain dealers, hog raisers, cotton growers — representatives from every branch of farm commodities trade—have gathered in Washington to, as Sen. Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.] put it, "speak their minds" on subsidies of all kinds and farm prices.

Defeat in Senate Predicted.

Sen. Smith, chairman of the agriculture committee, told reporters "subsidies will be definitely defeated in the senate." Congressional observers already have predicted death for the subsidy program in the house where it is opposed by the powerful house farm block.

Minimizing administration hopes of a compromise that will salvage at least part of the New Deal food program, Smith asserted "you can't compromise with evil. What the devil is there to compromise about? You are either for subsidies or you are against them."

Smith hesitated to estimate how many representatives would be on hand for the hearings, but officials of some of the trade organizations represented guessed as high as 2,000 would attempt to crowd into the hearing room when the session begins tomorrow morning.

Solid Front Expected.

At an organization meeting in the Raleigh hotel tonight the various producers' representatives united solidly against subsidies of any kind, Judge Joseph J. Montague, counsel for the Texas-Southwestern Cattle Growers' association and acting general chairman for the hearing, reported. Judge Montague has been invited to be the first speaker at the hearing.

The people, who are responsible for the meat on your table, the wheat in your bread, according to Judge Montague, are expected to brand the food program, outlined by President Roosevelt and calling for the payment of hundreds of millions of tax dollars to control food prices, as "totally unsound."

"We are unanimously opposed to subsidies," Judge Montague asserted. "I haven't found a human being in favor of subsidies, that is among

BRITISH 'MONOPOLY' ON ETHIOPIA AIRWAYS IS BARED BY BENTON

"Post-War Air Policy" was discussed yesterday on the University of Chicago Round Table radio broadcast by William Benton, vice president of the university, William A. M. Burden, special aviation assistant to the secretary of commerce, and Joseph Kastner, senior editor of Life magazine.

Benton, during the discussion, said that the British government had entered into a contract with Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia which would give Britain a monopoly of air rights in the African country. He said:

"Recently I saw a confidential, semi-public photostatic copy of a contract between the British government and Haile Selassie, in which Haile Selassie agreed that no planes could land in Ethiopia except with the O. K. and consent of the British government."

[Officials of the state department at Washington could not be reached last night to learn if such a document still exists.]

Talk Banning of Exports by Japs and Nazis

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 14 (AP).—The eventual treatment of Germany and Japan is the touchiest subject before 43 delegations here to shape policies for the united nations relief rehabilitation administration.

No official comment is available but sentiments of individual European and Chinese delegates indicate plans to cut Germany and Japan, two of the largest pre-war exporting nations, out of the world foreign markets. The plans aim primarily at preventing Germany and Japan from building new war machines. But the other nations also are eyeing their former markets as outlets for themselves.

Plans for Germany.

The Russian delegate, Vasili Sergeev, not only heads the major committee on general policy but the subcommittee on agricultural rehabilitation. Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko has been sitting in for him, in his absence.

P. A. Kerstens, delegate from the Netherlands, will be one of the leaders in determining post-war policy for Germany since he heads UNRRA's committee on rehabilitation of industries and transport. He says Germany must be permitted to rebuild only such industry as she needs for internal consumption.

Chinese After Japan.

On the other side of the world, the Chinese, who have had no time to settle on a definite policy, want Japan limited to production only for home use, and under supervision.

After the first conference of the finance committee tonight, it was said the nations are working on a flexible formula of assessments designed to produce about two and one half billion dollars as an operating fund. Only uninvaded countries will be expected to contribute—roughly, the British commonwealth and the American republics. This would exempt Russia from contributing.

The formula assaying the contributions must be flexible, it is argued, because it is not possible for all nations to meet an assessment of one per cent of their annual income—a formula which seems to have most support. The estimate for the United States, however, seems to be in line with this formula and is figured at about one and one half billions. It was said unofficially that the entire bill will not be presented to congress at one time.

3 Pct. of U. S. Soldiers Wed British Girls

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP).—Cupid is throwing the noose around approximately 30 out of every 1,000 American soldiers stationed in the British Isles. This estimate is based on a study of official data. So far there have been no reports on WACs or nurses marrying British men.

Those who are smitten soon find out that getting married over here involves problems and red tape. As one officer put it, "We make every effort to see that the man has thought it over and is sure of himself."

Girl Writes a Letter.

First, the soldier has to submit to his commanding officer two months in advance a written application for permission to marry. Marriage without approval results in trial by court-martial.

The girl is required to submit a letter showing:

That she has the consent of her parents; that she is fully aware of the regulations applying to her married life so long as her husband is in uniform; that she understands the details of her citizenship status and rules under which she may go to the United States.

The question of how many of these marriages are likely to go on the rocks is uppermost in the minds of authorities.

Several Have Children.

Most of the girls express eagerness to accompany their husbands back to the United States. While the wives are exempt from quota restrictions and may be granted citizenship in three years instead of five, they have to enter the United States as aliens. Transportation is furnished by the government.

A number of the couples have children. Pvt. Herbert Cooke of Cleveland, O., said to have been the first Yank to marry a Belfast girl, has a daughter, born Aug. 13. He was married April 13, 1942.

Forged Chart Is Mystery in Girl's Suicide

Coroner A. L. Brodie late last night said he would continue today his efforts to determine why Dr. Victor A. Lands, 29 years old, altered County hospital records to show that Miss Marjorie Tyler, 28, a suicide, died in the institution Saturday of natural causes.

Dr. Lands admitted tampering with the hospital records, the coroner reported. The young physician insisted he wanted to save the woman and her family "from the scandal attending suicide."

Forgery Admitted, Coroner Says.

Miss Tyler was taken from her $80 a month apartment across the street from Wesley Memorial hospital at 223 East Superior street, to County hospital last Wednesday afternoon. She was accompanied to the county institution by Dr. Lands, her mother, Mrs. Charles V. Tyler of Plano, Kendall county, and Miss Helen Peck, a close friend of the dead girl. Miss Peck lives at 321 Belden avenue.

Dr. Ole Nelson, medical superintendent of County hospital, called the coroner into the case when he discovered that three pages of the chart on Miss Tyler's case had been stolen and three others substituted for them. Brodie said Dr. Lands admitted "forging and substituting" these records.

"He admitted he signed the name of Dr. Samuel Willens to the third of these pages," Brodie said. Dr. Willens and Dr. George M. Whitacre, County hospital internes, were the ones who attended Miss Tyler from the time she was taken into the hospital until she died at 10 a. m. Saturday.

Record Showed Gas Poisoning.

Dr. Whitacre said he received Miss Tyler into the hospital and recorded she was suffering from gas poisoning. Dr. Lands at the time reported, Whitacre said, that he had found Miss Tyler lying on an ironing board in the kitchen of her apartment, her face over a gas burner, its jets open and covered with a blanket. Dr. Lands repeated this to Brodie early yesterday. Dr. Lands also said Miss Tyler's mother and Miss Peck were with him when he found Miss Tyler. Mrs. Tyler denied this. She said Dr. Lands had been at the apartment before she arrived in Chicago Wednesday and that when he took her and Miss Peck to the Tyler apartment, he had her daughter wrapped in a blanket.

"Dr. Lands told me she had pneumonia," Mrs. Tyler said. "Yes," added Miss Peck, "that's what he said—pneumonia." Mrs. Peck said she didn't have an opportunity to talk with her daughter, then unconscious.

Plans to Question Doctors.

Today, Coroner Brodie said, he expects to ask assistance from the state's attorney's office and to call in for testimony Dr. McNealy, the dead girl's employer; Dr. Lands, for further questioning; McNealy's Negro chauffeur, Timothy Hawkins, 1048 North Franklin street; several of the girl's neighbors, and the janitor of her apartment building, Louis Van Uffelen.

Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony Prusinski, who led police to the girl's apartment, said he found there 30 dresses and 15 pairs of shoes, "but no papers of any kind."

LUXURY RESORT FOR U. S. TROOPS OPENED IN CHINA

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN CHINA, Nov. 14 (AP).—A mountain resort has been opened as a rest camp for convalescent and tired American flyers and groundmen.

Situated on a lake 8,000 feet above sea level with year round sunshine and bracing weather, the camp provides boating, swimming, fishing, duck shooting, tennis and basketball courts, mountain climbing, and wild boar and mountain lion hunting.

It is named Camp Schiel in memory of the late Maj. Frank Schiel, ace United States 14th air force fighter pilot.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Dorland, 1665 Burling street, and another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Del Fino, who live at 1661 Burling street, returned to the Dorland home yesterday after dining at a restaurant.

As they entered the house, Mrs. Dorland, who is 23 years old, noticed that the front door lock had been broken. Inside the four heard a noise resembling the tinkling of coins. It came from the bedroom.

Housewife Guesses Right.

"O, I'll bet there's a burglar in there," Mrs. Dorland said, and she ran to the bedroom door to look. There was one. Mrs. Dorland yelled for the two men to come and capture him.

Dorland and Del Fino grabbed the intruder, tussling with him while the two women looked on. The burglar, however, was a powerful man, and Dorland and Del Fino were unable to subdue him.

The struggling trio fought its way from the bedroom into the kitchen, where Mrs. Dorland decided to take a hand. She seized a quart milk bottle and brought it down upon the burglar's head.

He seemed stunned for a second, but recovered and began wrestling with the men. Mrs. Dorland clouted him a second time, this time with such force that the bottle shattered. The burglar went down like a felled ox.

Burglar Glad to See Cops.

Del Fino telephoned Lt. Jack Canning at the Hudson avenue police station, while the other three stood guard over the unconscious burglar. Policemen Ambrose Mahoney and Walter Wagemann were sent to the home.

Mahoney, who did not know the burglar was out cold, drew his revolver when he entered the home. It was the first thing that the intruder, who later identified himself as Anthony Beretti, 35, of 1365 Sedgwick street, saw when he regained consciousness.

"Boy, am I glad to see that," he said fervently. "I was afraid it would be another milk bottle."

We'll Bet This Hunter Is Fit to Be Tied

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 14 [Special].—Some duck hunter must have received the surprise of his life this morning when he opened his black gladstone bag to reassemble his shotgun. When Mrs. Darius Conklin returned here yesterday, she found a shotgun and shells in the traveling bag she carried. Her bag, which she believes the hunter picked up by mistake in Chicago, contained pajamas, a new dress, a pair of shoes, and a wedding license.

CLAIM 500,000 RUSSIANS OPEN NEW OFFENSIVE

Dnieper Bend Line Cracks, Report.

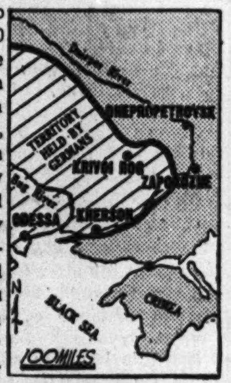
LONDON, Nov. 15 [Monday].—(AP).—Russia's northern Ukraine army drove to within 20 miles of the Korosten rail junction yesterday, while Berlin early today announced that nearly 500,000 Russians had broken thru German Dnieper bend defenses in a new assault aimed at closing a giant trap on the huge axis forces in the south.



Line which Nazis say Russians have broken.

A Moscow war bulletin and midnight supplement announced details of the continuing drive by Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin's army toward the old Polish border, less than 60 miles away, in which 50 towns were overrun, but did not mention the big push in the Dnieper bend.

A Berlin broadcast said 30 Red army rifle divisions and numerous tank formations had snapped German lines between Zaporozhe and the area north and northwest of Krivoi Rog "at heavy cost" and that a big battle was continuing thru the night. The German bulletin bore out previous German propaganda indications that a Nazi retreat to avoid encirclement in the south might be impending if not under way.

Push On from Zhitomir.

The northern prong of Gen. Vatutin's forces captured a rail station on the Kiev-Warsaw line only 20 miles southeast of Korosten, upper junction of the last railroad held by the Germans east of the Polish frontier.

The center units pushed on westward from captured Zhitomir toward Novograd Volinsk, near the Polish border, and also turned southward toward Berdichev, another rail junction.

The southern group battering toward Rumania ran into stiff opposition at Fastov, 35 miles southwest of Kiev, but beat off numerous enemy counter-attacks, the soviet bulletin said.

German Armies Split.

The loss of Zhitomir, which the Germans still have not acknowledged, threw the whole German Ukrainian communication system into confusion and split the German southern and northern Ukraine armies. Soviet seizure of Korosten and Berichev would force the enemy to decide between fleeing from his exposed salient along the lower Dnieper or risking encirclement and annihilation on a scale perhaps greater than the Stalingrad disaster.

There are two keys to German positions below Kiev in the upper section of the Dnieper bend still held by the enemy. They are the railway junctions of Znamenka, 60 miles northwest of besieged Krivoi Rog, and Tsvetkovo, 70 miles down the railway from menaced Belaya Tserkov. They are useful to the Germans as escape routes. Should they fall the enemy would have to retreat southwestward toward the Odessa-Lwow railway near the Rumanian border.

Reveal Longer Line Now.

Berlin's censors, however, permitted Swedish correspondents to say for the first time that the German front now is longer, instead of shorter, than when the officially described "line-shortening" retreat of the Germans began.

A Wilhelmstrasse spokesman was quoted as saying also that "it is impossible to have sufficient reserves in all sectors of the eastern front to halt the Russians."

Numerous battles raged at many points along a 900 mile front from Nevel in the north to the Crimea, Berlin said. A German war bulletin mentioned continuing Russian attacks near Kerch and on the Perekop isthmus of the Crimea, southeast of Kherson on the lower Dnieper and on both sides of Cherkasi on the river between Kiev and the bend.

Yanks Battle Foot by Foot to Win Heights

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lt. Maurice L. Britt.

WITH THE 5TH ARMY NEAR MIGNANO, Italy, Nov. 12 [Delayed].—Our capture of parts of the high ground surrounding Mignano has come after more than a week of the bitterest mountain warfare.

This successful assault by American forces combined with the onward thrust of other 5th army units in the Venafro area and the 8th army smash westward from Isernia is designed to crack the approaches to the German winter line.

The enemy fought back again today with frequent shelling directed from observation posts north of Mignano and also sent six Focke-Wulf 190s in a dive bombing attack on the city and road to the southeast, seeking out American patrols in these areas. I saw planes peel off and drop their loads.

Monastery of St. Benedict.

From my vantage point I also could look down the valley and see thru the mists the famed monastery on Monte Cassino. St. Benedict founded the monastery in 529 and it is the cradle of the Benedictine order.

To gain and hold the Camino heights, southwest of Mignano, and Rotondo hill to the north, the Americans had beaten off more than 20 counter-attacks. The Germans fiercely contested every foot of the rocky, steep graded soil from their dug in positions on the crests and reverse slopes, and then, when driven off, kept trying to infiltrate back into the doughboys' positions.

Adding to the Americans' difficulties was their supply problem. Some promontories were so steep and without any semblance of trails that pack mules fell to their death, and rations and equipment had to be transported from hand to hand.

An Example of Hill Fighting.

The seizure of Rotondo, more than 1,100 feet high, affords one of the best examples of American mountain tactics—and is a miniature of our whole hill campaign. The Germans had placed their machine gun and mortar positions on the hilltop to face southward—which looked like a logical place for any attack to come.

Our infantry outguessed them, traveling night and day across the neighboring hills and gulches to finally strike in powerful flankers from the north and northwest. The Germans fell back.

The Germans did not yield the prize without another effort. They counter-attacked and then it was that Lt. Maurice L. Britt of Lone Oak, Ark., and a squad of eight men distinguished themselves. Britt was a football star at the University of Arkansas in 1939-'40, and later played professionally with the Detroit Lions.

Football Ace an Ace Fighter.

"The Germans got one of Britt's best All-American receptions," related his superior officer, Lt. Col. Lionel McGarr of Phoenix, Ariz. "He fired his rifle at them, he threw grenades, and at the finish I believe he was even throwing rocks. He killed 11 Germans himself, and his men killed another 14. American losses were very slight."

In another encounter on Rotondo a German called in English to Britt: "Come over and surrender." Britt's reply was, "Hell, no. You come over here and surrender."

This colloquy was repeated and when the German did not show any intention of coming Britt shot him and the other enemy soldiers fled.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Nov. 15 [Monday]—(AP).—Liberator and Mitchell bombers, following up a strafing raid by fighter planes, plastered Alexishafen and Madang with 223 tons of bombs Saturday morning in the heaviest aerial assault yet thrown against the Japanese in New Guinea. Five other bases in the Southwest Pacific, including Rabaul, also were attacked.

P-40 and P-39 fighters swept the air strips at Alexishafen shortly after dawn, leaving fires at the expense of one craft shot down by anti-aircraft. Then came waves of Liberators at medium height, followed by Mitchells at three-top height, to give the enemy a thoro going over.

A strong force of P-47s and P-40s was on hand as a protective cover, but not a Japanese plane was in the air.

Rabaul Air Field Bombed.

Since earlier attacks on the Wewak and Madang air strips kept the Japanese from aerial interference with the Australians' progress up the Markham and down the Ramu valleys, it was presumed that a giant assault such as this was intended to hamper the enemy's aerial supply of troops in forward areas. The previous record tonnage on New Guinea was the 221 tons dropped on Sattelberg Oct. 21.

The oft-bombed Japanese base of Rabaul on New Britain was plastered anew by allied bombers which struck also at Gasmata, on the south coast of New Britain, and at the northern and southern extremities of Bougainville Island, Buka, and Buin.

Hit Air Field at Buin.

In the raid on Buin torpedo and dive bombers dropped 50 tons of explosives on Kara air field, damaging the runway and starting fires in supply dumps and Japanese living quarters. The Buka action consisted chiefly of bombing and strafing raids on coastal villages and Bonis airdrome.

A reconnaissance unit from Adm. Halsey's South Pacific forces bombed and strafed the enemy seaplane base on Kapinga-Marangi Island, destroying five float planes.

Our bombers in a night attack on the Kavieng area of New Britain Island torpedoed and bombed three enemy cargo ships with unobserved results.

Japanese torpedo bombers and float planes caused some damage to allied shipping in night attacks on New Georgia Island, the announcement added.

The Japanese attack cost the enemy two planes shot down.

TWO CRUISERS SUNK—TOKIO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Japanese radio, broadcasting another unsubstantiated report of heavy allied naval losses, claimed yesterday that naval planes had sunk two cruisers of an allied task force south of Bougainville Island Saturday and damaged a destroyer, a battleship, and a medium sized aircraft carrier.

This alleged engagement was the "fourth air battle off Bougainville Island," said the broadcast.

Berlin relayed a Tokio dispatch giving this total of allied losses since Oct. 27 in the Solomons as: 37 warships and transports sunk, including four battleships, two airplane carriers, and 12 cruisers. Damaged, said the Japanese, were 32 warships and transports, including two battleships, three aircraft carriers, and 11 cruisers.

Despite these wholesale sinkings, "the Anglo-Americans have such large reserves in this area that they could immediately form a further large formation of their fleet," said a second broadcast.

'I'LL QUIT WHEN ALLIES REACH ROME': BADOGLIO

Plans for Stop-Gap Rule Approved by King.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carlo Sforza.

SEAT OF THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT, Nov. 13 [Delayed].—Premier Pietro Badoglio announced today he will appoint an interim government of undersecretaries, who are "technical experts," to stay in office until Rome is freed.

Such an organization, which has the approval of King Victor Emmanuel, will work in conjunction with the allied control mission, he said, to perform the necessary administrative functions and to avoid any causes for disturbances in liberated areas and to comply with the desires of the heads of all political groups.

The 72 year old marshal reiterated his statement that he would resign as the head of the government as soon as Rome is set free. He refused to answer any questions concerning reports that the king might abdicate and a regency might be set up for the Prince of Naples.

Hopes Tenure Will Be Short.

Asked whether he would consider a role in the future government—he had been proposed for regent—he declared he did not like to make plans so far ahead. He said he had not yet decided who the undersecretaries would be, but was not designating them as ministers because he hoped Rome would be reached quickly and their tenure of office would be short.

An announcement later in the day said Dr. Leopoldo Piccardi, minister of corporations and a minor functionary in the old Fascist civil service, had resigned. He was the only civilian member of the Badoglio cabinet.

Badoglio issued a statement at a press conference in his villa. He sat flanked by an interpreter and Maj. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce, head of the allied mission, and Brig. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chief of staff of the commission.

Badoglio reviewed his unsuccessful efforts to form a government composed of statesmen in liberated areas, and disclosed what had been suspected—that Count Carlo Sforza and Benedetto Croce had refused to join such a cabinet.

Waits for Liberation.

"Sforza stated he was ready to give all possible support to my government," the marshal said, "but that he would not take any part in the same since it was his belief the king should abdicate, the crown prince should renounce his succession, and the son of the crown prince should be made king of Italy with a regent appointed because of his minority. Croce voiced the same beliefs."

Badoglio said he pointed out to other political leaders that the main problem was to free Italy from the Germans, that moves so radical in nature as the abdication should be avoided, and that in any event it should await the full liberation of Italy so that all Italians could openly decide on the form of government. Badoglio said that the political chieftains informed him that once Rome was free they wanted a completely constitutional government and not a military one.

King Gives Consent.

He then offered the technical experts' plan to the king to accelerate the administration. The king consented and the undersecretaries will have the authority by decree to sign documents within their spheres.

Badoglio's formal statement closed with the expression he would be delighted to yield his burden to "more expert hands and more youthful energies" when Rome was reached and that he had been happy at the king's order to assume responsibility for the armistice and the declaration of war against Germany and that he was continuing to coöperate with the American and British forces.

Then, answering correspondents' questions, he said he had informed Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in chief, what Italian forces were available to aid the allies and that some of them were particularly adapted to mountain fighting.

Freedom Being Restored.

Badoglio declared freedom of the press and trade unionism were being restored in Italy, that all political parties, including the Communist, were legal, and that shortly he hoped to reëstablish relations with Russia as Italy regards herself as a co-belligerent with the Russians. He said that most Fascist leaders had fled to the enemy occupied zone and that others had been interned. He added it is a task for his experts to check inflation.

Asked about how to keep down prices, the marshal smiled and replied, "Ask the allied troops not to spend so much money."

Pressed again for some statement concerning the king's abdication and his attitude toward the house of Savoy, Badoglio's fingers strayed to the four stars on his shoulder and he recited solemnly, "I swore loyalty to the king when I was 17. I will continue to keep that faith as long as I live."

"See You in Rome!"

Then he smiled again and asked, "Is the artillery fire finished?" Told there were no more questions, he remarked, "Happy to see you. Happier to see you all in Rome. The sooner the better."

It is apparent the political parties do not want the king and Crown Prince Humbert. As for the Italian people, their means of expression is blocked until more of Italy is taken by the allies. A plebiscite will be held, observers say, when the allies want it. The military emergency, of course, has provided some justification for this.

Stassen in Nebraska Presidential Primary

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 14 (AP).—Former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen, now a lieutenant-commander in the navy, became first official candidate for the Nebraska Republican Presidential preferential primary next April 11 with filing of sufficient petitions, the secretary of state's office said today. John B. Quinn, former Nebraska deputy secretary of state, disclosed last month that Stassen's name would be placed on the ballot, and announced that he would be the Stassen campaign manager for Nebraska.

PREDICTS HITLER WILL BE KILLED BY HIS GENERALS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Robert Vansittart, whose outspoken views on post-war punishment of the Germans created a storm of adverse criticism several months ago, predicted in a speech at Blackpool tonight that Adolf Hitler and other Nazi "big shots" will be murdered by German generals. Vansittart, formerly was chief adviser to the British foreign office.

Addressing a "win the peace" meeting Vansittart said the time would come when the German generals would see the cracking of their country's civilian and military morale and would try to call it a day by slaying the Fuehrer. He added:

"To fall for that would be giving the Germans a chance to start another war."

He declared that the German army would continue in control unless it was destroyed beyond resurrection together with the junkers and the big industrialists.

NAZIS' BIG GUNS AND PLANES BAR YANK ADVANCE

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 14 (AP).—The Germans blasted out with heavy artillery all day long on the Garigliano river front and sent large numbers of fighter planes into swirling dogfights to protect the road to Rome yesterday, but American troops improved their positions and the British 8th army advanced slightly at the eastern end of the battle front. The Nazi air blows were the heaviest since Salerno.

American troops advanced despite many German counter-attacks in hard fighting in the mountains north and northwest of Mignano which overlook the road to Cassino and Rome.

[Again indicating the see-saw nature of this fierce mountain fighting, Sunday's German war bulletin said "fighting in southern Italy, with the gravity center on both sides of the pass road leading to Cassino, has been continued. A mountain position south of Venafro conquered yestered [Saturday] was lost. Strong American forces carrying out a thrust west of Venafro suffered defeat." Venafro lies northeast of Mignano. The allied command on Saturday had reported recapture of high ground taken on Wednesday but lost to German counter-attacks on Thursday.]

Repel 2 Nazi Battalions.

United States soldiers routed elements of two German battalions with few casualties to themselves at a point a mile and a half northwest of Montaquila, six miles north of Venafro, headquarters said.

In a three mile drive in furious fighting, Gen. Montgomery's 8th army units seized Atessa, 12 miles inland from the Adriatic and four miles northwest of Casalagnida. They repulsed numerous Nazi counter-blows to hold the town of 10,000 population, giving excellent observation over the area to the Sangro river six miles away.

On the Adriatic coastal sector 8th army patrols again slipped across the Sangro to test enemy defenses.

Allied forces in central Italy, holding the wrecked town of Rionero, heard explosions from Alfedena and Rocca Cinqueniglia five and seven miles north, indicating the Germans might be dynamiting buildings preparatory to eventual withdrawal.

Down Nine German Planes.

Allied pilots downed nine Nazi planes in air battles over the western sector and the port of Gaeta. One allied plane was lost, but its pilot was saved.

More than 60 German planes were seen in action during the day as the enemy sent greater air formations into battle. They bombed the upper Volturno valley south of Venafro and the seacoast south of Minturno.

Altho bad weather in northern Italy kept the allied heavy and medium bomber fleets inactive, United States Warhawks bombed German air fields at Frosinone and Aquino along the Mignano-Rome road. American Invaders hit the same fields, the landing ground at Marcigliano near Rome, and gun positions west of San Pietro on the 8th army front.

R. A. F. planes bombed Atina, 25 miles west of Isernia, in Italy, and damaged the railway and highway at Palena, 25 miles north of Isernia. Other formations pounded rail and motor transports.

WIFE REJOICES: FLYER THOUGHT LOST IS SAFE

Casualty lists over the week-end announced Lt. James W. Hartje, a Flying Fortress pilot, was missing, but his wife, Shirley, 1703 North Ridgeway avenue, happily knew better.

She already had received a telegram from the war department saying her husband was safe and a prisoner of war in Germany. The telegram also cheered the lieutenant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Hartje, 2821 Cambridge avenue.

Lt. Hartje was shot down over Germany Oct. 8 while flying the Queen Shirley, named after his wife. He was officially listed as missing Oct. 19. Lt. Hartje is 28 years old, and a Chicagoan. He was educated at Culver Military academy and Southern Methodist university. He entered the army two years ago.

RIGHT TO SPEAK KEEPS US FREE: COL. M'CORMICK

Constitution Hailed at Ship Launching.

The constitutional right of every American citizen openly to speak out for freedom distinguishes the Republic of the United States from monarchic governments in Europe which are called "democracies," Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, declared yesterday.

Col. McCormick was the principal speaker at the launching of a patrol craft for the United States navy by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company. The launching was held in the company's yards on Lake Calumet.

Five thousand persons attended and the vessel was christened by Mrs. F. M. Gunn, wife of the works manager.

"Only Free People in World."

Col. McCormick said the 10 amendments of the Bill of Rights, enforceable by the courts, make us the only free people in the world, and our government is the only true republic.

Benjamin Franklin insisted that the new government he had helped to create was a republic, Col. McCormick recalled.

As Franklin was leaving the convention hall, a friend asked him, "What kind of a government have you set up?"

"A republic," the great statesman replied. "A republic if you can keep it."

"This government," Col. McCormick repeated, "is still 'a republic if you can keep it.'"

The early patriots and statesmen of America were outspoken in their republican beliefs, and in their love of America, he said. Patrick Henry, in 1775, said, "I am not a Virginian, but an American," and later the same year he uttered his immortal phrase, "Give me liberty or give me death."

Thought First of Own Land.

Nathan Hale, with the noose around his neck, and Paul Jones, who had fought the Bon Homme Richard until she sank, thought first of their country and their countrymen in their greatest crises, Col. McCormick related. Finally, he continued, there was that supreme moment in America's history, on July 4, 1776, when Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, which was followed by the Constitution, to "secure the blessings of liberty."

After reading the poem, "Old Ironsides," Col. McCormick told the audience:

"Those who would tear down the holy flag from every ship of the United States and every regiment are not only treasonous but blasphemous."

"It is by virtue of the Bill of Rights that we are here and I am speaking to you," Col. McCormick continued. "But for that, this peaceful meeting would be forcibly broken up and I would be imprisoned . . . imprisoned for speaking up for the freedom of my country and its people.

Many Definitions.

"Many statesmen have defined and described our government. Daniel Webster once declared 'Liberty and union, one and inseparable, now and forever.'

"At Gettysburg in the midst of our great Civil war it was Lincoln who said:

"'Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty.'

"Gladstone, no friend of the United States, wrote:

"'I have always regarded that Constitution as the most remarkable work known to me in modern times to have been produced by the human intellect.'

"Let no one therefore, try to deny that our institutions are all self-made and that they constitute a republic.

"Under the free doctrines of our Constitution, the American people spread across the continent and offered hospitality to the oppressed of all nations and races who fled from domestic tyranny to enjoy our freedom.

Republic a Challenge.

"Our Republic became a challenge to all governments. In consequence, certain of its institutions, but only some, have been copied abroad by European kingdoms. These are now called democracies, but hereditary monarchies with titled aristocracies, are a long road from our free Republic with a Bill of Rights enforceable in the courts. Any one who calls the United States a democracy shamefully traduces our Republic.

"We read in Hazen's 'Europe Since 1815' that when Norway won her independence in 1905:

"'There was a strong feeling in favor of a republic, but it seemed clear that the election of a king would be more acceptable to the monarchies of Europe, and would avoid all possibilities of foreign intervention.'

"This time King Edward VII., the ablest of modern kings, said:

All Stem from America.

"Whatever one finds of democracy anywhere in the world has hailed from this country.

"Beware of this word 'democracy,' a word used subtly to water down the sturdy word 'republicanism.' Especially beware of the users of the word. They are plotting the destruction of the republic.

"I am speaking here today because this ship is to fly the American flag and go to the succor of our hard pressed forces. I would not speak at the launching of a ship to be given away.

Shares Indignation.

"I am one of those sharing the nation's generous indignation at the information brought back by the five senators who have been investigating conditions around the world. They have reported that our resources and the products of our labor are being distributed with utter profligacy to any foreign nation which will take them on the understanding that it is to pay nothing to us in return; that ships and airplanes have been going freely to other countries while our forces in the Pacific, short of airplanes, short of ships, short of everything, have been fighting a heroic and desperate campaign, quite neglected by their own government.

"It is time to speak up for America and Americanism. It is time to insist that all of our war production be sent to rescue MacArthur's needy forces.

"During the years of our national youth, of our comparative weakness, the hatred of monarchies welded the patriotism of the people of this republic. It was only after we developed our great strength that conspiracies were formed to break down our national feeling and pass us under various foreign yokes.

Educate Own Against Us.

"Now we know that for 40 years American citizens have been hired and educated abroad to become alien agents among us.

"Even in our own city, the center of American patriotism, a college is conducted to teach sedition and treason.

"I have no sympathy and little patience with people who blame all the evils of the world on my country. If they are foreigners they are objectionable, but their attitude may be natural. If they are American citizens their conduct is unnatural. There is much precedent for them to copy. Millions of men born abroad but preferring this country have become naturalized citizens. Therefore let those born Americans who prefer other countries become naturalized aliens. It is not to be countenanced that they remain here and use their citizenship to betray your country and mine.

"As a humble disciple of George Washington, I believe with him that, I quote:

A Plan for the Willkies.

"So let Mr. Wendell Willkie and Mr. Henry Luce speak for the Chinese; Mr. Earl Browder and Mr. Harold Ickes speak for the Russians; Mr. Clarence Streit and Mr. John Davis speak for the British.

"I will speak for the Americans and only for the Americans. The foulest tongues and vilest pens will not deter me.

"The American people, long subject to a subtle and most insidious and violent campaign of vilification and intimidation, are seeing the light more and more clearly. Soon the conspirators who have been denouncing patriots will be themselves denounced and cast out.

"The plans to change our form of government will fall to the ground, the plan to make us a subsidiary state will fail, in spite of conspiracy and treachery, for in the words of immortal Lincoln:

"'We here highly resolve that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom . . . and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.'"

Gets Son's Medal

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Mattie Eriksen receives medal from Lt. Col. Claude P. Rowan.

The air medal with two oak leaf clusters was given to Mrs. Mattie Eriksen, mother of Sgt. Raymond H. Eriksen, 20 years old, yesterday in Kildare Avenue Baptist church. Sgt. Eriksen is a prisoner of war in Germany, according to the citations read by Lt. Col. Claude P. Rowan, who presented the medal. Sgt. Eriksen was given the awards for gallantry in 15 bombing raids before his plane was shot down over enemy territory. A graduate of Kelvyn Park High school, he lived with his parents at 4248 Belden street.

ENSIGN TELLS HOW NEW BOATS SLIP BEHIND FOE

Ensign John Kennedy, twice torpedoed hero of the battle of Java, arrived home yesterday for a visit minus 25 pounds and six teeth, but bristling with praise for the role his service is playing in the island warfare in the southwest Pacific. Kennedy is in command of one of the navy's new landing craft.

"We haul soldiers, supplies, and fighting equipment," he said, "and fan out when we near the beaches like a football team of iron men. We operated for several weeks, landing soldiers behind the Jap lines before they discovered our men weren't paratroopers dropped during darkness."

Kennedy said he lost his teeth when he was struck by shrapnel dur- an attack. He saw action at Nassau and Milne bays, Lae, and Finschhafen. He was torpedoed twice while serving as an ordinary seaman aboard the tender Langley and the tanker Pecos. He was cited for swimming to safety with $50,000 of his ship's money and for downing a Jap plane when it attacked the Pecos. His parents live at 4654 Barry avenue.

FROZEN TURKEY PROMISED YANKS SERVING IN ITALY

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 14 (AP).—United States army quartermasters today promised turkey, cranberry sauce, real butter, and pie to American troops in Italy, Sicily, and North Africa for their Thanksgiving dinner.

Only extraordinary battle conditions can interfere with the delivery of feasts even to troops in the front lines, it was added.

2 CHUMS RETURN TO AURORA, EACH WEARING A D. F. C.

Their home town of Aurora knew them as comrades in mischief—always together in the pranks that amuse quiet neighbors in a quiet midwest town. Then the Bachert boy from 2d avenue and the Seidelman kid from Watson street went away in April, 1942.

They came home yesterday, each wearing the distinguished flying cross, and the folks of Aurora spread the word with pride.

For Sgt. Kurt Bachert, 24 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bachert, 561 2d avenue, and Sgt. Kenneth Seidelman, 23, son of Mrs. Mame Seidelman, 621 Watson street, gunners on Flying Fortresses in 25 missions over Europe, who had shot down Nazi fighter planes and taken part in the bombing of Stuttgart, Germany, were still chums as they were when they dared the rapids of the Fox river or traded answers in classes at East Aurora High school.

GERMANS DRIVE BETWEEN ALLIED FORCES ON LEROS

Hold Line Across Island at Narrowest Point.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 14 (AP).—Striving to capture the little Dodecanese island of Leros at all costs, the Germans have landed still more reënforcements and in the third day of bitter fighting they outnumber British and Italian defenders, the allied middle east command announced today.

German forces have straddled the island at its narrowest point [1 mile], it was reported officially, separating the Anglo-Italian forces in the north and the south. However, the city of Leros, on the east side of the island, still is in allied hands.

The British made slight gains in the Clidi area in the northeast and the Germans have not been able to establish a foothold in the southern half of the island, it was stated. Italian troops were said to be holding up well.

Make Local Gains.

A middle east allied bulletin said the hard fighting defense forces made local gains in the northern sector of the island while in the central part, where German parachutists have landed, the Nazis improved their positions slightly.

That the position of the garrison was precarious and the issue in doubt, was indicated by the disclosure that the defenders, altho well equipped, were faced by superior forces.

The allied middle east air force again gave full support to the beleaguered island by bombing nearby axis air fields from which aid could be sent to the German landing force. A small axis vessel west of Leros was attacked and direct hits scored.

Threat to Rear of Crete.

Leros is an island only eight miles long and three miles wide at its widest point, but in allied hands could be a threat to the rear of Crete as well as one of the stepping stones to Greece. Deep inlets cutting into the island complicated the defenders task.

[The German high command declared that "our troops landed on Leros are waging a successful battle against strong enemy resistance." Its conservative tone may have indicated the Germans were not at all sure of the outcome. A Berlin radio broadcast said a German submarine chaser sank a British submarine in the waters of the Sporades Islands, of which Leros is one, and took prisoner one officer and 13 men.]

GUNNER WANTS MORE COMBAT, BUT AS A PILOT

Chicagoan Downs 6 Enemy Planes.

Sgt. Faurot.

Alexandria, La., Nov. 14 [Special].—Tech. Sgt. Doyt Faurot of Alexandria army air base, who shot down six enemy planes while completing 50 missions as a gunner of a Flying Fortress in Africa, wants to go back into combat as a pilot. The 20 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Faurot, 4219 Ozark avenue, Chicago, hopes to qualify at Alexandria for aviation cadet training. He has been awarded the air medal with 11 oak leaf clusters.

Sgt. Faurot told here today of the knock down which gave him the most satisfaction. It occurred over the Mediterranean.

"A FW-190 came over our formation and aimed at the waist position on our plane," the sergeant stated. "He wounded both of our waist gunners. That made me mad. As the fighter started climbing, I threw down both trips and literally burned that plane with lead. I watched it turn over on its side and go into a tight spin. Smoke was pouring from it as it headed for the Mediterranean."

GIRAUD IS GIVEN FREE HAND WITH MILITARY POLICY

Reds Demand 2 Posts

ALGIERS, Nov. 14 (AP).—French Communist leaders reiterated their demands today during a party mass meeting for control of the information and labor commissariats in the revamped French committee of national liberation, while their party organ, La Liberte, called for support of the Moscow conference accord. A resolution was adopted calling for Communist participation in the new provisional government.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Nov. 14 (AP).—Gen. Henri Giraud submitted his resignation as commander during the reshuffling of the French national committee, but consented to remain on fulfillment of four conditions giving him a free hand in directing France's military affairs, it was learned reliably today.

Giraud was said to have given his resignation to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, now sole president of the French provisional government, but De Gaulle asked him to continue as military chief.

Purge of Some Sought.

Giraud, with many of his family imprisoned by Vichy or Gestapo authorities, was pictured as irked by charges of some De Gaullists that he has Vichy ties.

Giraud returned last night from an inspection of French mechanized units and said he was confident the national committee would comply with his four conditions.

Many De Gaullists are determined to purge some army officers whom they say Giraud is protecting.

It is also believed that Gen. Eisenhower again has reaffirmed his confidence in Giraud's generalship, requesting that he stay on to assist in the forthcoming campaign to liberate Europe and the French motherland.

Freed of Fetters.

The national committee adopted a resolution Nov. 11 thanking Giraud for leading the North African government in the last year, and expressing confidence in his future military leadership. This fullfiled the first of Giraud's four conditions. The others were:

Complete freedom in direction of French war operations, which would mean that he would not be required to inform De Gaulle or the national committee of contemplated military operations.

No French officer is to be examined by any purge commission without Giraud's consent. This would enable him to retain officers whom he considers both loyal and essential.

FRENCH TROOPS FIGHT LEBANESE IN NEW CLASHES

Egyptian Sympathizers Stone De Gaullists.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 14 (AP).—Sharp clashes between French troops and Lebanese over the issue of a free Lebanese government continued today along the eastern coast of the Mediterranean and disorders broke out in Egypt where student mobs in sympathy demonstrations stoned the French national committee's headquarters in Cairo, shouting "Down with France! Down with De Gaulle!"

Egyptian students also stoned a French officer and tore down French flags at Alexandria.

French authorities, contending that the fighting in Lebanon is not as serious as has been reported, rushed Gen. Georges Catroux from Algiers to Cairo by plane to confer with Egyptian Premier Nahas Pasha.

Pledges Egypt's Aid.

Before the conference, Premier Nahas told a vast gathering at the opening of the three day Wafdist [nationalist] jubilee last night that Egypt would use her influence with the allies to force the French committee to release imprisoned members of the Lebanese government.

The Arab news agency reported that Lebanese deputies still at liberty had formed a "free government" cabinet and moved to Baalbeck to function while their president and prime minister are detained by the French.

From its seat at Baalbeck in the hills of eastern Lebanon, the provisional government was reported to have ordered continued resistance against the French.

Conflicting advices have been received here concerning the extent of the actual fighting. A French announcement said only four persons were wounded during the latest disturbances, but reported a student demonstration at Damascus, capital of Syria, and acknowledged fighting and "manifestations" at the Lebanese capital of Beirut.

British Minister Off to Parley.

It was announced tonight that Richard G. Casey, British minister of state resident in the middle east, had left Cairo for Beirut to confer with Maj. Gen. Edward Spears, British minister to Lebanon and Syria.

Various unofficial reports told of numerous deaths and scores wounded by machine-gun fire. A French officer was said to have been killed by a mob when he attempted to prevent destruction of a French flag.

[In a Jerusalem dispatch quoting a traveler from Beirut, Reuters, British news agency, said six students at the American university were among the wounded when troops opened up with machine gun fire and later charged crowds outside the British legation on Saturday. The dispatch added that one unidentified man was killed.]

Protests against the French were coming in from other parts of the Arab world. One report from Bagdad said that Iraq's parliament at a special meeting today adopted a resolution protesting the French stand.

Arab shops in Palestine, including many at Jerusalem, Jaffa, Haifa, Gaza, Nablus, and Tulkarem, were closed yesterday in sympathy for the Lebanese.

[In New Delhi the All-India Moslem league urged Britain to act immediately to restore normal conditions in Lebanon and obtain the country's full independence. Another resolution asked that North African countries freed from Italian control be made sovereign states. It recommended abolition of mandates and appealed to the allies to urge France to liberate Morocco, Algeria, and Tunis.]

May Disavow Action.

Designation of Catroux to settle the differences, following a virtual threat by the British government to seize control in Lebanon unless the French maintain peace, was viewed as a step toward the French committee's disavowal of the action taken by its Lebanese representative, Jean Helleu, in arresting the government chiefs.

Gen. Chadobeo de Lavalade, commander in chief of French forces in the middle east who arrived in Cairo yesterday, declared he was "shocked at the false reports" on the Lebanese situation and that it would be "easy to guarantee the security of Lebanon if the French and the Lebanese were left alone to discuss matters without outside interference."

[The Berlin radio continued to describe the situation as tense, with British and Indian troops "all around Beirut and ready to take over power." One broadcast claimed that "Turkish circles" took the view that a British plot to oust the French from the near east was behind the crisis. Another reported new clashes and said French reënforcements were arriving.]

MOSQUITOS RAID BERLIN AGAIN IN NIGHT ATTACKS

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP).—Britain's swift and elusive Mosquito bombers dropped explosives on Berlin last night for the second night in succession in a new series of "morale" attacks on the German capital.

Other groups of the plywood twin-engined planes hit targets in western Germany. The raids all were carried out without loss and were the only air activity of the night announced by the British.

It was the fifth straight night the Mosquitos had been over Germany keeping the sirens going. They went out in darkness following a heavy daylight battering of objectives in the German port of Bremen yesterday by American Fortresses and Liberators which together with escorting fighters shot down 43 German fighters. Fifteen bombers and nine fighters failed to return.

The Germans broadcast that 29 allied planes were shot down.

Nazis Don't Wish to Repay Any of Billions in Loot

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 14.—Speaking of the $6,800,000,000 accepted by the Nazis as yearly tribute from invaded and occupied countries, the Wilhelmstrasse says it is only a "humanely small installment payment on all the toil and sacrifices Germany has been making toward the creation of a free Europe." Therefore, a defeated Germany should not be held to pay back one cent of this loot, runs the Nazi argument.

NAZIS PLAN NEW DRIVE IN ITALY, MADRID REPORTS

Travelers Tell of High Command Quarrels.

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 14 (AP).—The Nazis are preparing a surprise winter operation from southern bases, probably a counter-offensive in Italy, in the opinion of persons recently returned from Germany and occupied Europe.

They base their belief partly on recent southward troop movements and on Germany's urgent need of a victory to bolster home morale.

The Germany hierarchy is torn by inner quarrels, these travelers say, but the German war machine has plenty of punch left. They insist there is more than mere propaganda in the Nazi claim that the defensive strategy on the Russian front makes more reserves available than Germany had at her command last winter.

Produce Secret Weapons.

These reserves are estimated at 150 divisions. Few of them, the Germans are said to believe, will be needed in the Balkans because of differences among the anti-German elements there. The French are rated as incapable of real revolt, according to the informants.

One industrialist returned convinced that the Germans are producing "secret weapons" in large quantities and storing them for the surprise blow, He believes they are no more sensational than allied improvements of their own weapons.

"What to the allies is routine improvement in weapons, and even new weapons like the American bazooka and landing barge, are 'secret weapons' to the Germans," he said.

"Everyone seems agreed that Germany's new weapons are connected in some way with air power, although whether bomb or plane no one knows."

Triumvirate in Power.

The travelers confirm reports that an "executive triumvirate" emerged in Germany after fascism's fall, composed of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering, Admiral of the Fleet Karl Doenitz, and Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command.

Hitler, in their opinion, adroitly played the triumvirate off against another powerful Nazi combine, that of Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and Martine Bormann, Rudolf Hess' successor as deputy chief of the Nazi party.

They said it is popularly believed in Germany that Von Ribbentrop's star is already in eclipse and that the "blood and force" policy of Himmler and Bormann in dealing with satellite nations is replacing the foreign minister's more conservative policy.

BOUGAINVILLE DRIVE 'AHEAD OF SCHEDULE,' ADM. HALSEY STATES

WITH U. S. FORCES ON BOUGAINVILLE ISLAND, Nov. 12 [Delayed]—(AP).—Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., allied commander in the South Pacific, today visited this point at which American forces have made their deepest penetration into enemy positions in the Solomons and commented: "Our program here is ahead of schedule."

Halsey expressed gratification at the progress made since the Nov. 1 landing at Empress Augusta bay and added: "This was perhaps the toughest beach landing of the entire Solomons campaign but the job was well done." He heaped praise on the United States air force for "knocking out every Jap air field on Bougainville and keeping them knocked out."

Asked whether he thought the Japanese might put up another last ditch stand here as they did on Guadalcanal, the admiral said, "the situation isn't the same here as during the invasion of Guadalcanal. We've got the stuff now. The Japs haven't."

HURLEY CONFERS WITH CHINESE AND STILWELL

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 14 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, President Roosevelt's personal representative, left today after a three day visit to Chungking and conferences with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, War Minister Ho Ying-chin, and Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell.

En route to the China sector of the China-Burma-India theater, Hurley had conferences in New Delhi, flew into China with Maj. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commanding the United States air forces in the India and Burma sectors, and saw Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

PARTISANS SEIZE 2 RAIL CENTERS IN JUGO-SLAVIA

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP).—Jugo-Slav Partisans announced today a crippling blow to Adolf Hitler's inland Balkans communications with capture of two rail centers just across from the Hungarian border while Berlin claimed the occupation of three Adriatic islands in the battle for the Balkans' offshore approaches.

A broadcast bulletin from Gen. Josip [Tito] Broz' headquarters said Croat guerrillas had seized Koprivnica on the main railroad from Budapest to the Adriatic coast by way of Zagreb, and Virovitica on a branch running to Belgrade in one of the Partisans' biggest strikes in weeks.

The twin successes severed two arteries over which the Germans have been moving troops and supplies.

Big Haul of Prisoners.

One of the guerrillas' biggest hauls in prisoners and booty also was reported with capture of two towns, the bulletin listing 900 officers and men taken captive. Booty at Virovitica included five guns, 20 machine guns, 300 mines, and 500,000 rounds of ammunition, the Partisans said.

On the western Balkan flank, German broadcasts said Nazi troops had seized the Adriatic islands of Cherso, Veglia, and Lussin, which guard Fiume naval base and are links in the island chain extending down the Dalmatian coast.

The German Sunday bulletin said 3,600 guerrillas had been killed and 4,500 captured during several weeks of fighting northeast of Fiume. Thirty supply depots and a quantity of heavy artillery were reported seized.

Report Sofia Bombed.

New York, Nov. 14 (AP).—The Budapest radio, quoting a Hungarian news agency report, said tonight that Sofia, Bulgaria, had been bombed today by "enemy planes, flying in several waves," and that several persons were killed. The broadcast said the planes appeared over Bulgaria about mid-day.

Hundreds of U.S. Troops Reach Port in England

AN EAST COAST PORT IN CANADA, Nov. 14 (AP).—Several hundred United States soldiers, army air corps men, and WACs, and a contingent of R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. personnel who left this port recently have arrived in England, it was announced today.

ANTI-POLL TAX LAW IMPERILED BY FILIBUSTER

Southern Senators Set to Talk It to Death.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. Frederick Van Nuys.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—Another effort to outlaw by federal statute the payment of poll taxes as a qualification of voters in eight southern states has collided in the senate with another threat of southern senators to filibuster the bill to death.

The bill has been passed by the house and favorably reported by the senate judiciary committee. It is pending on the senate calendar, where any senator may call it up. Organizations supporting the measure are pressing for its immediate consideration, but Sen. Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], chairman of the committee, is not disposed to precipitate a battle that would impede dispatch of war legislation.

Majority Assured.

An ample majority is assured if the bill can be brought to a vote, but Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo [D., Miss.] and other long distance southern orators proclaim that ft will pass only over their breathless bodies. They killed the anti-poll tax bill in the last congress by a filibuster. A filibuster could be circumvented by cloture, which, however, requires a two-thirds vote for adoption and is rarely invoked.

Two senators from southern poll tax states tonight called on congress to defeat the house approved bill to outlaw poll taxes as a prerequisite to voting and thus "stop the march of communism in this country."

Plot for Socialization.

In a joint statement Senators James O. Eastland [D., Miss.] and John L. McClellan [D., Ark.] charged the bill is sponsored by the Communist party and the "radical hybrid" American Labor party as part their scheme to "put over their program to socialize America."

The bill, they said, would transfer control of election machinery to Washington and "the last vestige of constitutional government would be gone."

Poll taxes are not confined to the south. They are imposed also in Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, and a few other northern states in which, however, failure to pay them does not deprive a citizen of the right to vote. Poll taxes were enacted in 11 southern states between 1889 and 1908 for the purpose of disfranchising Negroes and poor whites. They were repealed later in North Carolina, Louisiana, and Florida but still obtain in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

10 Million Disenfranchised.

This device was successful in securing white political supremacy in the south and is still considered essential to that purpose by the eight states affected. According to the National Committee to Abolish the Poll Tax the device has disfranchised 10 million persons.

At first, the Republicans were the sole champions of warfare on the poll tax and other devices for the disfranchisement of Negroes, who were almost unanimously Republican. In the thirties, however, when the northern Negroes went overwhelmingly Democratic, the northern white Democrats found it advisable to get in line for poll tax repeal. President and Mrs. Roosevelt and most other New Deal leaders espoused it, not without incurring the charge that with the new allegiance of the Negroes they envisaged the unhorsing of the anti-New Deal Democratic bosses of the south. Mrs. Roosevelt is still an active champion but the President, with the fourth term campaign in the offing, has faded into the background.

Constitutionality Questioned.

The current debate turns chiefly on the question whether the poll taxes can be outlawed constitutionally by act of congress. Many eminent lawyers contend that such legislation would be valid while others equally eminent argue that an amendment of the Constitution is required.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] has introduced such an amendment in an effort to avoid a filibuster. It would require approval by two-thirds of the states.

The senate judiciary committee will consider the resolution tomorrow. It approved the house bill last Friday by a 12-6 vote.

Collapses

[Acme Photo.]

BARBARA BENNETT.

New York, Nov. 14 [Special].—Barbara Bennett, actress daughter of Richard Bennett, collapsed today and was removed in an ambulance to Doctor's hospital from the Mansfield theater, where she was appearing in a comedy. According to a representative of the management of the play, "Victory Belles," Miss Bennett will undergo an operation tomorrow and will be in the hospital several weeks.

TYPHUS APPEARS IN PARIS.

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 14—Four cases of typhus have occured in Paris this month, the official medical service has admitted. They are described as exceptional and presenting no cause for alarm in view of the measures immediately taken.

U. S. SUBMARINES SINK 7 JAP SHIPS AND DAMAGE 2

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 (AP).—American submarines in new raids on Japanese supply lines have sunk a plane transport and six merchant ships and damaged two other merchant vessels.

Boosting the total of enemy vessels sunk or damaged by submarines to 496, the navy issued the following bulletin today:

"United States submarines have reported the sinking of seven enemy vessels and the damaging of two others in operations against the enemy in waters of these areas, as follows:

Special significance is attached to the destruction of each new Japanese freighter or cargo transport because the enemy is understood to be so hard pressed for shipping that he is having extreme difficulty in supplying his scattered island bases and maintaining profitable communications between the industrial heart of the Japanese islands around Tokio and the sources of raw materials in southeast Asia and the Dutch Indies.

BRITISH PROTEST SECRECY IN CASE OF YANK SLAYER

Paper Insists His Fate Be Made Public.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Mystery still enshrouds the ultimate fate of the American soldier Lee Davis, who recently was convicted of murdering an English girl and raping another and sentenced to be hanged, according to the Sunday Dispatch. The sentence was subject to review and confirmation by the judge advocate general.

The Dispatch reminded its readers that at the time the case was closed, "It was publicly stated that as far as the British public is concerned the matter was closed. No statement would be made by the reviewing authority and the fate of the man concerned would remain a secret."

Secret Verdict Hinted.

This, the newspaper said, is a "procedure drastically different" from that of English legal processes. "It is our belief that not merely must justice be done, but it must manifestly and undoubtedly be seen to be done."

The newspaper complained that when it approached United States authorities and sought assurance that the findings of the reviewing authority would be made public, the answer was negative.

Gets Different Answer.

When the authorities were approached a second time, the editorial stated, "The answer this time was substantially different," a spokesman of the United States army apparently having said, "The reviewing authorities have not yet sent any word. As soon as it comes thru an announcement will be made."

The Dispatch, while thanking the United States authorities for this "gesture," said: "We are anxious to know if this man's guilt is confirmed. If the verdict is reversed we shall no doubt be informed upon what grounds the reversal is made. If the man's guilt is established we shall study with interest the form of his punishment."

The Dispatch concluded by citing as proof of the "disquiet which this new and bewildering situation" has created, the correspondence which it has received from the public on the subject.

COOPER URGES WORLD PACT ON PRESS FREEDOM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 (AP).—A crusade for guarantees in future peace treaties of world-wide press freedom on the promise that universal dissemination of the truth would make the chance of war remote, is proposed by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, in a survey on "Journalism in War Time," published today.

The study, released by the American Council on Public Affairs, includes contributions from more than a score of leading news executives, writers, advertising men, and others on various phases of newspaper responsibilities and contributions in war time.

Particularly, Cooper argues for free and direct access to news of all governments, by foreign correspondents equally with domestic reporters. Altho he says it is "too much to expect" that newsmen will sit at the peace table after the present war, Cooper expresses doubt "whether any politician or soldier can have any better understanding of most of the causes of war than accomplished newspaper men of international experience."

THREE ROBBERS TAKE CAR.

Pattern Four Engine Craft After 'Fort.'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 14 (AP).—Germany is now manufacturing a rocket-driven four-engined bombing plane patterned along the lines of American Flying Fortresses and Liberators, a Berlin dispatch to the Swedish press said today.

A new twin-engined long range fighter also has been developed and is now being used by the German air force in defending Germany, the dispatches said.

The new multi-engined rocket bomber was said in the dispatches to have been designed to make dive bombing or level bombing attacks on invasion fleets and convoys, and is being saved until 1944.

Predicts Destructive Air War.

Reichsmarshall Hermann Goering talked to Nazi party members at Munich for two hours on Nov. 9 disclosing information on the air force's new planes, and to have predicted that the next year would be the most destructive yet in aerial warfare—so destructive that "human beings will wish they had never learned to fly."

The rocket plane is being produced in mass in a Heinkel factory and is so constructed that use of its rockets will permit the pilot in an instant to multiply its speed five times, correspondents were told.

Claims New Fire Power.

Few other details were permitted, but the Stockholm Tidningen correspondent hinted it may already have been used over London.

It was said to be equipped with only half the number of guns of American four-engined bombers, but was said to be armed with a sensational new weapon which equals the fire power of the Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

The Messerschmitt company is reported to be producing the new fighter, described as a machine which can carry two-ton bomb loads and fly to Scotland without a reserve fuel tank.

The emphasis Nazi leaders have placed recently on "secret weapons" has led to talk among Germany army officers and civilians of gas warfare, according to other reports received here.

Many Nazi officers are predicting the use of gas because it is a defensive weapon and the high command may fall back on it in desperation to keep allied armies from lunging into the heart of Germany, these reports said.

Frequent reports recently have held that Germany is experimenting with new types of gas and to be camouflaging the odors in the hope of baffling allied experts.

"Take It From One Who's Been There"

Says Ernie Pyle

To American Women:

If you could have been there for even an hour during the bitter fighting in Tunisia or Sicily, there would be no need for this letter—no need for anybody to ask you to save your used cooking grease and turn it into your butcher.

Here's the idea—your used cooking grease is urgently needed to make gunpowder for the rifles and cannons of our men and our allies. And not only for gunpowder but also for sulfa drugs, vaccines, hypodermic preparations, tannic acid salve to treat powder burns, and for a score of other battlefield uses. Having sufficient ammunition and all these other vital supplies may mean the difference between life and death to our soldiers, sailors and airmen.

Saving used fats is no round-about way to help our fighters. In just twenty-one days after you turn your used cooking grease in at your butcher's it will be transformed into gunpowder or medical supplies.

You are not asked to turn in your used kitchen fats until you've got the cooking good out of them. But after that, every spoonful, every drop is urgently needed. So fill up a tin can as fast as possible and take it to your butcher.

The next time you get a letter from someone you love at the front, or see a newsreel of Allied troops in action or a photograph of American wounded being cared for . . . you'll feel a lot better if you know that your used cooking grease is helping to furnish gunpowder, medical supplies and other battle needs.

Sincerely,

Ernie Pyle

COL. LANZA SEES NO SIGN NOW OF NAZI REVOLUTION

Army Strong; Leaders Plan Long War.

In the following article Col. Lanza discusses the psychological strength of Germany. It is a continuation of his previous article on the growth of Hitler's army.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

Early in November, 1918, a revolution was started in Germany by mutinous sailors. It quickly extended to the army. President Wilson had been calling upon the Germans to overthrow their monarchy and install a democracy. If they would do so, he promised them a just peace. Germany was to abandon her conquests and disarm, but her territory was to remain intact. The allies announced they would disarm after the Germans had done so.

The German generals then felt that the war was indeed lost. There seemed to be no sense in fighting on for a lost cause. President Wilson's 14 points were reasonable, and considered to be acceptable. Of 39 German generals interrogated on the question, 38 were willing or in favor of ousting the kaiser and accepting the democracy on President Wilson's terms. The kaiser went out peacefully.

Situation Now Is Different.

In 1943, the situation is not a duplicate of that in November, 1918. There is no sign as yet of a revolt within the German army. There is no possibility of revolution within Germany unless the fighting men favor it.

No promises have been made this time to Germany. Instead there have been threats of severe punishment. The threats are personal and apply to many German generals for commission of war crimes, or for having failed to prevent them. The very men that might overthrow Naziism see a disgraceful death if any action of theirs results in their falling into the hands of the allies. They are not above getting rid of Hitler, but under the circumstances will not do so unless some advantage to them is foreseen.

Seek Way Out.

Yet their situation is serious; they know it, and they seek a way out. They have a plan. To start with they have increased the power of the German army during this year as already explained. They are striving to increase it still more.

Reds Approach Old Polish Border

In his speech of Nov. 8, Hitler, while expressing regret at the loss thru allied bombings, stated that German industrial production wasn't bothering him. The Germans think they have solved this difficulty. They expect to have the troops and the munitions to meet the promised onslaught of 1944.

No German general, probably, now expects to defeat the allies. Their plan reverts to the seven years' war, from 1756 to 1763. At that time, Frederick the Great fought off a combination of superior states which had Prussia surrounded. Often beaten, he managed to survive and eventually assured the independence of his country.

Follow Frederick the Great.

Altho they may not win, the German generals believe that the issues of this war are far from decided. They plan to follow the example of the great Frederick, and continue on maybe for several years. Hitler's speech of last Monday expressed this idea. The hope is that as before, the situation may ultimately improve for them. The Germans are strengthening their defenses on all sides.

Churchill seems to have correctly expressed the existing situation as to Germany. He stated Tuesday:

"Unless some happy events occur, on which we have no right to count, unless the hand of Providence is stretched forth by some crowning mercy, 1944 will see the greatest sacrifice of life by the British and American armies. Battles far larger and more costly than Waterloo or Gettysburg will be fought. Sorrow will come to many homes in the United Kingdom and thruout the great republic of the United States."

Germany is not willing to accept unconditional surrender. She is still strong, apparently more so than ever. Her leaders think they can keep going for a long time. So the war is to go on.

Russia Acts to Set Up Relations with Egypt

Cyanide Fumes Kill 3, Put Two in Hospital

Perth Amboy, N. J., Nov. 14 (AP).—Three persons were dead and two others in critical condition today from asphyxiation by cyanide fumes which Police Lt. James Nolan said escaped into a tavern-apartment building from an adjoining warehouse which was being fumigated. Nolan identified the dead as Frank Check, 42 years old; Helen Check, 16, his daughter, and Hugh McArdle, 72, a porter in the tavern. In the hospital were Check's two sons.

SURGEONS FIRED ON BY JAPS AS THEY OPERATE

Bullets Rip Tents of Hospital.

Lt. Leo Halatek.

"We set up our tents near the beach on the left flank," he said. "At noon marine casualties from that sector began coming in and at 1 o'clock we had 32 patients. The Japs began their attack on the hospital then.

"My surgeons were operating on a marine when shots ripped thru the tent. I ran to the beach with a couple of corpsmen and unscrewed three machine guns from Higgins boats which were smashed in the original landings.

"We brought the guns back to the hospital and I drafted a few marines to operate them and set up a defense line. A sniper's bullet, thru the top of the tent, went into the lung of a chief pharmacist's mate. We evacuated him at once.

Water Fills Tents.

"It began to rain and water filled up our foxhole operating rooms. At 2 o'clock the firing increased and I sent a runner to ask a marine commander on the beach for help. He had only 15 men and couldn't spare them. Then I got two marines plodding up a jungle trail to take up guard positions in the jungle 30 feet from the tent. The corpsmen piled sandbags around tents. Finally a platoon of marines came to our aid and set up a defensive position.

"My surgeons continued operating until 9 o'clock. Only then did we evacuate the patients, now numbering 50. Not one died. Once during the fighting I was told we had better evacuate, but we couldn't because some marine patients required delicate surgery for brain injuries before they could be moved."

Surgeons performing operations under fire included: Lt. Comdr. R. R. Callaway, Birmingham, Ala., and Lieutenants James Emert, New York City; William Peck, Falls City, Neb.; Frank Adair, St. Paul, Minn.; W. F. Barker, Corpus Christi, Tex. Helping the wounded was 1st Lt. Leo Halatek, Chicago, marine quartermaster.

Two Marines Slain.

Bruce said Capt. Gordon Warner, Long Beach, Cal., one of the heroes of the original marine landing at Cape Torokina, was brought in with his knee shattered. The surgeon said he was hopeful of saving Warner's leg.

"The two marines I impressed into service," Bruce added, "were found late that afternoon. They had been killed by rifle fire and stripped of everything except their pants. The Japs even took their identification tags. I feel terrible about those two boys who were so willing to help.

"Our operations were performed under small battery-powered lights. I can't pay enough tribute to my men. Lt. Herbert Hawley, Elwood, Neb., dentist attached to our unit, is the most completely fearless individual I ever knew."

FIND 5 CHILDREN HUNGRY, COLD; ARREST FATHER

New City police last night arrested Edward Marcinkowski, 30 years old, when he returned to his home at 1441 West 48th street, where, police said, they had found his five young children suffering from neglect. The police said the children were hungry, half clothed, and suffering from cold in the heatless home.

A search was started for his wife, Stella, 26, who he said had left home two days ago. Marcinkowski admitted he is on probation on a child abandonment charge, had been absent from the home most of the day, and apparently had been drinking, police said.

The two youngest children, Robert, 2, and Dianna, 3, were taken to St. Vincent's orphanage. The others, Geraldine, 5; John, 6, and Edward Jr., 7, were taken to the Juvenile home after they had been fed by police.

Orders Death for Croats Who Shield Saboteurs

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 14 (AP).—A Budapest dispatch to the Basler Nachrichten said tonight that the Croatian government of Dr. Ante Pavelic had decreed the death penalty for any one who knew or heard of an act of sabotage and did not tell the police.

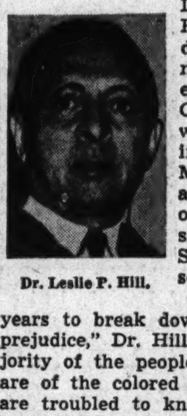
NEGRO TEACHER ASKS WORLD TO DROP PREJUDICE



Dr. Leslie P. Hill.

The defeat of the axis powers will not in itself liberate the world, Dr. Leslie Pinckney Hill, Negro president of the Cheyney State Teachers' college at Cheyney, Pa., warned yesterday in Rockefeller Memorial chapel at the University of Chicago. He spoke at regular Sunday morning services.

"It will take years to break down the walls of prejudice," Dr. Hill said. The majority of the peoples of the world are of the colored races, and they are troubled to know if they will have the freedoms promised by the world's bibles and humanities, he added.

"They will refuse to accept the thesis that vast future development must be predicated solely on economic realism," he said.

Sister of Soldier Sees His Picture in Tribune

WOMAN, BEATEN IN HER TAVERN, KILLS PAROLEE

Mrs. Marcella McKenna.

Bruno Wisz, a three time paroled convict, was shot and killed yesterday by Mrs. Marcella McKenna, 35 years old, in what police said was an attempted robbery in her tavern at 4501 South Hermitage avenue. Mrs. McKenna was severely beaten in the encounter.

She said Wisz, who was 31 and lived at 46th and Honore street, entered her tavern just before 3 a. m., refused to pay for a drink, and then demanded her money. He struck her when she resisted, she told police, then emptied the till and a cigar box cache of $175.

As Wisz was putting on his hat and coat to leave, Mrs. McKenna picked up a revolver from under the bar, and fired five shots at him. One bullet struck him in the forehead, and another in the right side. Police said that Wisz, also known as Wiszof, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell in 1932 for larceny, and to Joliet prison in 1934 for auto theft. He was paroled in 1935, returned for parole violation in the same year, paroled again in 1936, returned for violation in 1938, and paroled a third time in June, 1942.

Going to call tonight, when he's off duty. He won't have much time and that call means a lot to him.

Might be to a mother or dad or sweetheart right in your town or on your street. It can be as near to you as possible.

You can help him get better service if you don't do any Long Distance calling of your own between 7 and 10 week-day nights. That's about the only time he can get to the telephone.

ALLIED PATROLS DRIVE BACK JAPS ON BURMA COAST

Inflict Many Casualties North of Akyab.

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 14 (AP).—Allied patrols clashed with Japanese troops in the Arakan and Chin hills sectors of Burma, inflicting many casualties, and United States bombers slashed again at enemy communications, two bulletins said today.

The Japanese were defeated and forced to retire in a number of engagements in the last two weeks a few miles above Maungdaw, 60 miles north of Akyab along the western coast.

Many Japanese were cut down in patrol actions in the Kalemyo area in the Chin hills 200 miles northeast, with slight cost to the allies, one war bulletin added, and other clashes occurred near Falam south of Kalemyo.

Engine Shops Blasted.

Engine shops at Nyitnge were blasted yesterday with nearly 37 tons of explosive and incendiary bombs by Liberators and fighter bombers of the United States 10th air force, setting many fires, an air bulletin said.

Fighter bombers raided Japanese headquarters and a supply dump at Washawng, 12 miles east of Myitkyina, destroying buildings, and Mitchells and fighter bombers bombed and strafed the enemy communications center of Hopin, wrecking many buildings. Other planes damaged the railroad bridge at Nankwin.

The R. A. F. struck at the enemy near Kalemyo yesterday, made a damaging attack on five steamers on the Irrawaddy river near Mandalay, shot up oil field installations farther downstream, and sowed fires and explosions in a supply dump and buildings at Toungoo.

Action in Burma

(Story in adjoining column.)

Chinese Hurl Japs Back.

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 14 (AP).—Striking southward in several columns, reënforced Japanese invasion forces were thrown back and are still engaged in a stiff battle in the mountains south of Ichang after a sweep thru the central rice bowl region, the Chinese high command reported today.

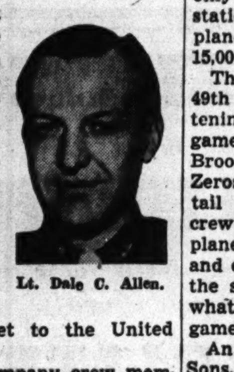
The Japanese were reported using 60,000 troops in their drive below the Yangtze between Ichang and Tungting lake and employing extensive air cover, but United States 14th air force headquarters announced several bombing missions in support of the Chinese.

The Chinese said the Japanese had been unable to advance on their left wing near Tungting lake, and on their right wing near the Yangtze, and that Chinese attacks north of the Yangtze were developing satisfactorily.

In northern Burma in the area west of the Salween river the bulletin said several townships had been reoccupied since the end of October and a number of Japanese captured.

AERIAL RAMBLER OF BURMA FAME BACK WITH CREW

Lt. Dale C. Allen, public relations officer of the 10th air force, in India, returned last night to his home at 336 Hillside avenue, Glen Ellyn, after more than a year in Egypt and India. Flying in the "Rangoon Rambler," a B-24 Consolidated with 80 missions to its credit, he traveled more than 15,000 miles in nine days to get to the United States.



Lt. Dale C. Allen.

Allen will accompany crew members of the Rambler on a nation-wide "morale" tour and will handle publicity during the trip.

He revealed that he accompanied the crew on the bomber's 50th mission. Altho the plane was fired on by the Japs over Burma, he said the trip was a routine one. Other than that, he declined to report his own adventures and told instead of those of the "Rangoon Rambler's" personnel.

First Back from India.

"The Rangoon Rambler is the first bomber to come out of India," he said. "Its crew is as hot as any gang to come out of there or any other theater. Three times the ship flew a 2,800 mile combat mission—the longest in any theater. Twice it made a 2,000 mile over-water trip to Car Nicobar, the war's longest over-water combat flight."

The crew, Allen said, averages 390 combat hours each, while the average in the 10th air force is 250 hours, higher than that of any other theater. He lauded the work of the force in India which he said dropped 1,300 tons of bombs on Burma in a month.

"They hit every key point in Burma," Allen said, "When the invasion starts, I'm convinced we won't have any trouble. We've hit at their shipping and other supply lines and I know the Japs aren't getting sufficient stocks to maintain their fighting forces."

Hear American Programs.

The lieutenant reported the bomber crews look forward to going on combat missions because the only time during which American stations can be heard is when a plane is flying at approximately 15,000 feet altitude.

The co-pilot on the Rambler's 49th mission over Burma was listening to a broadcast of a baseball game between Philadelphia and Brooklyn, Allen said, when Jap Zeros attacked. Half the plane's tail was shot away and several crew members injured. When the plane was back at its home base and casualties had been taken from the ship, the co-pilot asked, "Hey, what's the score of that baseball game?"

An employe of R. R. Donnelley & Sons, Allen enlisted in the army on Aug. 19, 1942. He was the second American officer to enter Tripoli. He is spending his leave with his wife, Gweneth, and his two children, Julie, 8 years old, and Stewart, 5.

FINDS BENGAL FAMINE RELIEF SETUP IS WEAK

BY PRESTON GROVER.

CALCUTTA, India, Nov. 14 (AP).—The famine is still on in Bengal.

Hungry persons are on the streets, crying for food as they have been for the last two months, indicating defects in the relief setup.

But one thing is certain, the great hordes of beggars which made the second city of the British empire the first city of starvation have largely been dispersed.

Completing my fifth tour of the famine stricken city, I found the situation noticeably improved from what it had been on my previous trips, but it still is grisly enough. All reports coming in from the remote countrysides where relief has not yet penetrated indicate the situation in the rural sections still is bad.

[Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem league, speaking to his followers in New Delhi, asserted the Bengal famine "is the greatest blot on the administration in India." Jinnah, reelected president of the league, said "It should be the effort of every Indian citizen to end this man-made famine."]

Indian land sharks, according to reports reaching here, are buying up land and crops from the hungry people for a pittance, and greatly enriching themselves.

Some Indian peasants, unable to wait for the full ripening of the rice harvest, were reported selling their unharvested crops for one cent a pound. The government's fixed price for rice is about 70 cents a pound and the black market is more than twice the government figures.

However, relief efforts were having their effect in Calcutta and the larger Bengal towns. Units of the Indian army under British officers now are on the job and are working with great efficiency. Grain is moving from Calcutta into the countryside.

The death rate from starvation in Calcutta slowly is decreasing as the government rounds up hungry persons for removal to camps.

Too Fat?
MAKE THIS 10 DAY TEST
See How Easy Reducing is this New Vitamin Way!

Don't think you have to go on starvation diets—do violent exercise—or take dangerous drugs and cathartics in order to lose weight. You can now give your body correct nourishment and yet, at the same time, shed those ugly pounds of figure and health-spoiling fat . . . and do it so easily you will think it is fun instead of trouble.

Lose Lbs.—
EAT PLENTY

Here is all you do. Merely take 2 teaspoons of VEE-MOR in a glass of any fruit juice with a light breakfast. Have your regular dinner or supper. But for lunch, take 2 teaspoons of VEE-MOR in any suitable beverage. With it, if you like, a cup of tea or coffee and you won't need anything else.

VEE-MOR provides all the nourishment you need for lunch—probably far more than you usually get. It contains Vitamins A, B, D, G, and other B complex factors as well as calcium, phosphorus and strength-building proteins, so that while you are foregoing the foods that make or keep you fat, you are actually adding to your nourishment — building up your strength and energy. Best of all, you DON'T MIND confining your lunch to VEE-MOR and a beverage because it satisfies your appetite.

Test VEE-MOR for 10 days. If you don't start losing that ugly fat—and if you don't feel fine—peppier and more vigorous than you've been in months, bring back the unused VEE-MOR and get every penny back. Start losing today this modern pleasant way. VEE-MOR costs little to use.

125,000 AUTOS MAY GET TIRES MADE OF WASTE

Tribune Alcohol Factory Could Supply Rubber.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14.—Raw materials for synthetic rubber sufficient for 125,000 passenger car tires a year is now being salvaged from waste sulphite liquor at the Canadian paper mills of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The newspaper's privately financed plant, first of its kind in the western hemisphere, is no longer an experiment. It is now seen as a pioneer in a process destined for rapid expansion in the United States and Canada within the next year.

The raw material from this pioneer plant is alcohol, cheap and of a quality superior to standard specifications. It was learned today that the dominion's controler of chemicals, in charge of all alcohol sales, has assigned the entire output, at a rate of 650,000 gallons a year, to synthetic rubber production.

Expansion Held Essential.

Dr. M. M. Rosten, Polish consulting engineer who designed the plant, has just returned here from Washington, D. C., where he conferred with war production board officials and with Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], chairman of a synthetic rubber investigation committee. Dr. Rosten reported opinions in Washington were that the waste sulphite liquor alcohol process must be expanded promptly to sustain the wartime rubber program and to maintain America's 800 million dollar synthetic industry in post-war competition with natural rubber.

Dr. Rosten said that the Defense Supplies corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is now paying from 60 cents to $1.20 a gallon, an average of 90 cents, for alcohol. He gave the Gillette committee an estimate of 12.4 cents as the cost of manufacturing alcohol from waste sulphite liquor at an average size woodpulp mill, exclusive of profits and amortization.

Huge Savings Possible.

Before the Gillette committee, Dr. Rosten estimated that 50 million gallons of alcohol a year might be produced in the United States from waste sulphite liquor at a cost of 20 cents a gallon. He said that this would save the United States treasury between 30 and 35 million dollars in alcohol costs in one year. He estimated that plant construction for this production would cost 25 million dollars and that it could be placed in operation in eight months.

President Roosevelt has expressed doubts whether the synthetic rubber plants, financed with income tax money and war bonds, can be operated in competition with natural rubber after the war. Dr. Rosten said such doubts might be warranted with alcohol at 90 cents a gallon, but not at 20 cents. The rubber industry could use 300 million gallons of alcohol annually.

Total alcohol requirements in the United States for 1944, as ascertained by Rosten, are estimated at 640 million gallons. The 1943 consumption is estimated at 450 million gallons. Grains are being used at a rate of 120 million bushels a year.

Process Boosts Output.

Molasses, according to the engineer, can be available for no more than 100 to 150 million gallons of alcohol a year. He said that any expansion in facilities for synthetizing alcohol from petroleum costs three to four times as much as plant equipment for waste sulphite liquor recovery, aside from the fact that oil is scarce and sulphite liquor is a pollutant waste.

With refinements perfected at the Chicago Tribune plant, the potential yield of alcohol from waste sulphite liquor in the United States and Canada has been boosted to 115 million gallons a year.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, is giving the entire industry the benefit of his plant's experience with this process.

A related process, the disintegration, fermentation, and distillation of waste wood, according to officials of the United States forest service, could produce 5 billion gallons of alcohol annually.

SPANISH LEADERS DEMAND RETURN TO RULE BY KING

London Told Franco Faces Showdown.

Generalissimo Franco.

LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP).—Confirmation of reports that some of Spain's most influential military and political leaders have formally demanded restoration of the Spanish monarchy was brought to London today from Spain.

Informants with inside information said that Generalissimo Francisco Franco faces a showdown with his principal generals who favor a monarchy. They declared Franco could not ignore the wishes of the army since it and the increasingly unpopular Falange [Fascist] party constitute his main support. If the army insists, they said, Franco must accept Prince Juan—youngest son of Spain's last king—as ruler and diminish his own status.

All Still Active.

So far no reply is known to have been made to the monarchists' demands, but neither has Franco made any overt move against this challenge to his supreme authority. Most notably, he has not reprimanded eight top army men who joined the monarchist movement.

Altho Franco has shrewdly countered previous attempts to reduce his office, these informants noted also that he did not punish severely any of the several prominent members of the cortes who signed a letter given to him on June 17 proposing restoration of the monarchy. Those who were Falangists were dismissed from the party. Others who were not party members were told merely to mind their own business. All still are active.

These reports pictured Franco's opposition as consisting not only of Bourbon monarchists but also of a strange mixture of republican masses, middle class Catholics, disgruntled land owners, big capitalists, smaller business men, and a few young intellectuals.

Add Force to Movement.

It was indicated, however, that proponents of a monarchy had more chance of success than advocates of reviving the republican government overthrown by Franco in Spain's civil war.

The monarchist movement has acquired tremendous force by the adherence of the eight top army men who signed a letter to War Minister Gen. Carlos Asensio.

MARRIAGES DROP IN STATE SINCE '37 HEALTH LAW

Either the custom of getting married is losing popularity in Illinois, or its citizens are going to other states for their weddings, Baxter K. Richardson, representative of the Illinois state department of health, said yesterday. Baxter characterized the influence of the premarital health examination law in this state as "not altogether encouraging."

The number of licenses issued in 1939 was 48 per cent below the record for 1936, he said. The law was enacted in 1937. For the next three years the record showed a drop of 35 per cent, 27 per cent and 30 per cent respectively, below 1936.

In the three years ending June 30, the tests were responsible for the discovery of 2,514 cases of syphilis, of which 1,305 persons were treated, Richardson said. Average cost of treatment was $918 per case. He added that the test for gonorrhea is "unreliable," and that public health officials believe it should not be required as a part of the premarital health examination.

THE scene above is not a candid camera shot. It was carefully posed by our art director to convey an idea to you. The idea is—December Cosmopolitan is great "theatre"!

Yes, December Cosmopolitan is a thrilling variety entertainment of romance and beauty, comedy and surprises and drama. Curtain time? That's any time you happen to have a little spare time on your hands!

Perhaps your first act will be a fashion show staged by Margaret Culkin Banning on page 30. Her story—"My Mink Coat"— presents an unusual "triangle"—a Lieutenant, his wife and $2800 worth of fur!

Next, a romantic interlude. Boy meets girl—with a case of amnesia arranging the date. That's the plot of "Dark Continent," Richard Sullivan's shamelessly romantic book-length novel you'll find on page 69.

There's a great true-life drama set in a German war prisoners' camp—"Behind Barbed Wire"—on page 36 of the December issue.

And a flashback to the Paris we used to know, "One Night in the Rain." Louis Bromfield, Faith Baldwin, Carl Van Doren—the biggest box office names. And an orchestra seat, best in the house, is only 35c!

MILK AT RECORD HIGH WITH CENT BOOST IN OFFING

Selling at 14 Cents When Last War Ended.

Doubts Price Raise

Arthur G. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk association, which represents milk producers in this area, said yesterday that he did not believe the milk dealers, petition for an increase of 1 cent per quart, which was placed before the office of price administration in Washington Saturday, would bring about a milk price boost in Chicago for some time.

"The increase demand was based on higher producer prices, an advance of $2 a week given milk wagon drivers, and a recommended wage increase of $2.80 per week to inside dairy employes which is now pending before the war labor board," said Lauterbach.

He said it was his opinion that the WLB first would dispose of the wage recommendation before turning its attention to the milk dealers' petition.

Approval by the office of price administration of a Chicago milk dealers' petition requesting that milk be raised 1 cent a quart for home delivery, would place milk prices at an all time high in the city, a survey disclosed yesterday.

In World war I. milk did not hit the present 16½ cent a quart ceiling. When the United States declared war in April, 1917, milk delivered to homes cold at 10 cents per quart. By October of that year it had spurted to 13 cents and in November, 1918, the month of the armistice, milk sold at 14 cents.

Modern inventions and discoveries have brought about tremendous consumption of milk and the advancement of the industry. The Babcock test, a simple means of determining the fat content of milk, was discovered in 1890. The same year, the centrifugal cream separator made its appearance. Another great advantage was the bottling of milk which began about 1889, but was not brought into general use until about 1900.

Discovery of the important vitamin A in milk in 1910 and B in 1919 increased milk's popularity. Another highlight was the application to milk of pasteurization, which was made compulsory by Dr. W. A. Evans, former health editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, while he was city health commissioner in 1915.

Peddled Door to Door.

Less than a half century ago, milk was still a household industry in Chicago. Many families, mainly those living on the outskirts of the city, kept cows and peddled milk from door to door. Growth of the city sent farmers in search of larger quarters where good grazing lands were available.

Realizing the value of milk to hungry persons, Ald. David L. Sutton [8th] sought to provide milk to Chicagoans at a low cost early in the depression. On Jan. 26, 1932, Ald. Sutton asked the city to open 100 emergency milk stations to sell milk in wax paper cartons at 6 or 7 cents per quart to those unable to pay the 12 cents delivered charge. Chicago spurned this proposal when the corporation counsel ruled that the city had no authority to engage in the milk business while private companies were able to supply all needs.

Strikes, threats of strikes and mob violence have marked the history of milk in Chicago during the past century. A cow — that of Mrs. O'Leary, which produced milk to be sold to neighbors, is said to have kicked over a lantern which started the great Chicago fire.

Knows His Horses

Joseph Hawley with one of his charges.

Joe Hawley, a hostler at the Chicago traffic stables at 262 East Illinois street, will be 63 years old Thursday. Retiring is mandatory at that age in the Chicago police department, but Joe's statement regarding the matter is a simple and nostalgic, "I am, and I aint."

Because of the ruling, he retires. On the other hand, because of the illness of two hostlers and the fractured arm of a third—catastrophies adding up to a light man power shortage at the stables—Joe hopes to stick around a little longer. There is more than his salary involved. Joe loves horses.

Born and reared in Chicago just a mile from his present home at 3317 Emerald avenue, where he lives with his wife and two daughters, Hawley began taking care of neighbors' horses after school hours when he was 14. At 17, he had a full time job driving horses delivering sewing machines. Then came years of driving a wagon for a South Water street commission house and finally a job at the traffic stables in 1932.

PREDICT BRICKER WON'T RUN FOR GOVERNORAGAIN

Columbus, O., Nov. 14 (AP).—A source close to Gov. John W. Bricker strongly indicated tonight that he would forgo a bid for a fourth term and concentrate on his avowed candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The informant, who insisted upon anonymity, was a guest at a dinner in the executive mansion tonight at which Bricker was host to four potential candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in next May's primary.

Bricker told newsmen he would make an announcement relative to his 1944 political plans at 9 a. m. [Chicago war time] tomorrow.

Efforts to arrive at "a gubernatorial ticket satisfactory to all" were unsuccessful at the dinner because "nobody indicated a willingness to withdraw as a prospective candidate," said the same anonymous source.

"The reference to withdrawal implies that Bricker does not intend to seek a fourth term as governor?" the source was asked. "That is 100 per cent correct," he replied.

SET REPUBLICAN VICTORY RALLY FOR WEDNESDAY

A Republican victory celebration and nationalist demonstration will be held in Orchestra hall, 220 South Michigan avenue, at 8 p. m. Wednesday under auspices of the Republican Nationalist Revival committee.

Announced speakers are Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] and Dr. Albert P. Haake, nationally known radio speaker. Sen. Nye is known for his opposition to all forms of world super-governments, and Dr. Haake has recorded his opposition to administration social trends.

Announcing the rally P. H. Moynihan, committee chairman, and William J. Grace, secretary, said that the great issue in 1944 would be nationalism versus internationalism.

UNION NOW BLOC OPENS DOOR FOR CHINA AND REDS

BY GUY GENTRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 14.—Action was taken at the third annual convention of Federal Union, Inc., which closed here today to permit Russia and China to enter the international organization of "union now" when they adopt democratic processes.

Delegates amended the organizations' statement of policy to leave the door ajar for the entry of Russia and China to the international federation "when willing and able to accept its constitution, practice its duties and responsibilities and enforce its bill of rights."

The policy amendment was a personal triumph for Miss Hilda Yen, a convert to "union now" from the days when she fled from Jap-occupied China to Chungking. Miss Yen spent five hours presenting China's cause to Clarence K. Streit, founder and president, in which she told him 25 million Chinese had learned to read and write since the outbreak of the war.

Back Streit's Stand.

The delegates agreed the Moscow conference was a step forward toward world federation but backed up Streit in his stand that the earliest steps toward global government should be confined to those countries that now are democratic.

"All countries, including Germany, Italy, and Japan, when they have been defeated and new governments have been set up, should be included in the world-wide international organization," said P. F. Brundage, secretary of the board. "But the early steps toward federal union should be left in the hands of those countries who have been educated in democratic government and practice it."

Raise Funds for Work.

Funds were raised at the closing session of the convention to provide for the operation of the organization the coming year, Peoria, Chicago, and other chapters pledging $100 a month. The convention voted to finance a mass educational campaign on the meaning of Federal Union and authorized a committee to work with eight other similar committees in foreign countries to bring about a world government on "union now" lines.

Streit was reëlected president. Vice presidents are Mrs. Sara Sommer of Peoria, sponsor of this year's convention, and Clyde T. Ellis, former Arkansas congressman. Harris Wofford of Scarsdale, N. Y., 17 year old head of the Young Federalists, the youth organization of "union now," was elected to the board of directors.

Woman Burned; Rescuer Stops Fire with Blanket

Miss Janet H. Warrick, 37 years old, was severely burned on her hands, arms and legs yesterday when her dress caught fire as she was lighting a gas burner in her third floor apartment at 1406 Harrison street. Hearing her screams, Michael Cugliato, 31, living on the second floor, ran to her aid, and beat out the flames with his hands and a blanket.

THE OLD SCHOOL SPIRIT SPEEDS UP A JOB AT STEVENS

Today an extra crew of workmen starts renovating the huge grand ballroom in the Stevens hotel. Their goal is to finish the job before Nov. 24, as a salute to Schurz High school by one of its alumni—Arnold S. Kirkeby, operator of the Stevens.

A little more than 20 years ago, Kirkeby was graduated from Schurz. Since then he has progressed far in the hotel world. His most recent achievement was the acquisition of the Stevens from the army, and its reconversion, now in progress, for civilian use. The hotel already is partially occupied, but some sections, including the grand ballroom, are still unfinished.

Then came an emergency appeal from Schurz. The school's annual military ball was scheduled for the grand ballroom the night of Nov. 24. Kirkeby gave an order: Get the ballroom in shape for the ball! Predictions are that the huge room will be ready ahead of time for his old school.

GREASE MONKEY QUIET MAN, BUT KEEPS 'EM FLYING

Devoted to Planes and Proud of His Work.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH ALLIED AIR FORCES IN ITALY, Nov. 4 [Delayed].—There is plenty of glamor connected with the air force and plenty of blood stirring adventure in the sagas told by pilots returning from combat. But there is the other side where glamor simply does not exist and most of the adventures are second hand.

This is "on the line" of any air field where "grease monkeys" work hours on planes which other fellows will fly to glory; armorers load guns and bombs which others will turn on the enemy, and radio men tinker with sets that will carry other voices in the heat of battle—voices of thrilling pride over victory or barking terse advice and commands to outwit the German airmen.

Not Easy to Talk To.

They are mostly a taciturn crew needing shaves and with begrimed faces and dirty, wrinkled overalls. Used to seeing pilots the center of attention and receiving the lion's share of the plaudits, the mechanics are not easy to talk to either. It is not because they are sullen or don't want to talk. They just don't know what to say.

And you have to be prepared for a few minor surprises when you crawl on a wing to interrupt one of the crews working on a plane, hanging all over it like bees around a honey pot. For example, you learn it is really their plane. The tax payers may have paid for it, the army may have bought it, and, of course, it is flown by the pilot who probably has his pet name stenciled on it. However, these details are incidental.

Know Every Nut and Bolt.

These men know every part, every nut and bolt, every wire and rivet head from tail to propeller. They have slept beside it, worked over it for hours on end, guarded it, nursed it, fed its hungry bomb racks and guns, watched it soar away to battle, and then waited anxiously on the runway for it to return. When, as sometimes happens, the plane fails to return, they mourn the loss of the pilots, but also grieve openly of the loss of their plane as bereft parents suddenly deprived of their only child.

"A good plane?" exclaims Staff Sgt. Joseph Immekus of Sullivan, Mo., the crew chief, wiping his hands and lighting a cigaret. "Why, you can't beat my plane. It'll outfly and outfight anything in the sky. Good pilots? Damned right. Swell boys. I have a laugh when the new ones ask how they'll take off with bombs under their wings. I just tell 'em to open up and she'll take off herself. She hardly needs to be flown. And she brings 'em home, too."

Officers Know Their Worth.

It is to the credit of the pilots and flying officers that they will pay high tribute of the work of the maintenance crews.

"Without those men on the line we wouldn't be in the air," declared Maj. Edwin A. Bland Jr. of Waurika, Okla. "Their work is what made it possible for us to get to Italy. They'll work all night if necessary to make sure the mission takes off on time. When we went to Sicily the only way we kept going all day was their working until midnight and then beginning again at 4 or 5 in the morning.

"They'll work a plane over until she goes like a fine watch, and then when we return from a mission you should see them hop up with operational forms, practically daring us to say anything was wrong with the way the plane flew."

Work Starts Early in Day.

Ordinarily the work day of these crews starts before anyone else's at the base since they must check the planes and warm them up before the first flights. They are usually the last to leave the field too.

Altho behind the lines theirs is not a bulletproof job by any means. When based at Sele during the Italy invasion they performed their tasks while the navy was tossing big shells over their heads at the Germans and the enemy was replying in kind to the navy. Air raids were commonplace.

"I remember asking a pilot once whether we were close to the front, and he told me the front was a long way off—a mile or a mile and a half," reminisced Tech. Sgt. John R. Ball of Stamping Ground, Ky. "I took a look from the top of a plane and sure enough I could see smoke and German planes. I wrote home that night I'd sure arrived at the war."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. J. Wilson, 6217 Kenwood avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

What mannerisms are most typical of you when you're concentrating?

WHERE ASKED.

Lake street at Laramie avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

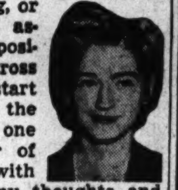
Norma Reitinger, student, 1640 Linder avenue—If I never did any thinking, I'm sure my jewelry would last a lot longer. Whenever I'm deep in thought, I start snapping and unsnapping my wrist watch. I wind it tighter than it should be wound and wreck it in general. I also have the habit of twisting the ring on my finger.

Margaret Nolan, ticket agent, 225 Long avenue—If I have some thinking to do, no table cloth, magazine, or piece of paper within reaching distance is safe, if I have a pencil. I doodle worse than Mr. Deeds, and don't realize at all what I'm drawing until I've thought out the problem I've been concentrating on.

Hildred Hoganter, student, 5211 North Christiana avenue — After each session of prolonged thinking I have to take time off to give myself a fresh manicure. I unconsciously start to peel the polish from my nails and before I have come to any definite conclusions my nails are in an awful state.

Mrs. K. H. Murray, office worker, 52 North Waller avenue — There's one curl on the back of my head that's reserved for more curling whenever I start to concentrate. I often sit for hours wrapping it around my finger and unwinding it again. Now it's curlier than any other lock and represents a lot of thinking.

Marge Pedersen, bookkeeper, 5407 Walton street—Really to concentrate must be quite an effort for me because I distort my face in every direction. I frown, raise my eyebrows, and bite the corner of my lip, and put on what really must look like a pained expression. It's a good thing that I don't think too much.



Mrs. Russell W. Davis, office clerk, 5656 Race avenue—When I'm day dreaming, thinking, or waiting, I always assume the same position. I sit down, cross my legs, and start drawing circles in the air with the toe of one foot. The number of circles increases with the intensity of my thoughts and my musings.

MARIGNY SELLS HOUSE AND BOAT TO PAY LAWYERS

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 14 (AP).—Alfred De Marigny has sold a small house and his Star class sail boat, the Concubine, to help defray expenses of the trial in which he was acquitted of the torch murder of his wealthy father-in-law, Harry Oakes, it was learned tonight.

DeMarigny visited the Nassau prison today to pick up personal effects he had gathered there during a four months stay following his arrest 36 hours after Oakes' battered, burned body was found.

Will Continue Investigation.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 14 (AP).—Raymond Schindler, New York private detective retained by Nancy Oakes de Marigny, said here today he would continue his investigation of the case. "When she retained me, Nancy's one idea was to find the murdered and she is still more concerned with that than anything else in the world," he declared.

COMPASS STOLEN FROM SAILBOAT.

Stanley Saluski, 7151 Wentworth avenue, reported to police Saturday that thieves broke into his sailboat in Burnham lagoon and stole a compass, valued at $200, and other boat equipment.

FOOD MEN MASS IN CAPITAL TO FIGHT SUBSIDIES

what I refer to as 'the ole dirty shirt boys,' the farmers.

"We are damn sick of seeing government by regulation rather than by law—regulations written by men who wouldn't know at which end of a cow to put a bale of hay."

At a press conference representatives of the various trade groups to a man predicted the nation would face serious shortages of beef, pork, mutton, and poultry from the first of the year until mid-1944.

"We are not a scare group here," declared P. O. Wilson, secretary of the Livestock Producers' Marketing Association of Chicago. "We have been talking this thing for a year. From January thru June you are going to be scouring the butcher shops for a piece of beefsteak."

New Deal Displeased.

Frank S. Boice, president of the American National Livestock association, from Sonoita, Ariz.; W. D. Farr, secretary of the Colorado-Nebraska Lamb Feeders' association; Theodore Anderson, president of the American Pork Producers' association, from Montreal, Mo., and R. W. Beauchamp, president of the Del-Mar-Va Broiler association joined with other cattlemen in giving short accounts of their predicaments, which they said were chargeable to OPA and New Deal rules and regulations.

Congressional sources disclosed that this latest "march on Washington" has caused great displeasure at the White House. Such united strength against New Deal "price roll backs" and subsidies, which have labor backing, was not anticipated, these sources reported.

"The President's program is one of inflation rather than a program to control inflation," asserted Ralph Moore, secretary of the national farm committee, and a representative of a large group of cotton growers. "These commodities people have been treated like a bunch of illegitimate children at a family reunion rather than a vital cog in our national economy."

Hearings are expected to last thru Tuesday at least, Sen. Smith said, as the committee will attempt to give time to a speaker from every branch of each commodity group.

Cattlemen Protest Prices.

Among the major complaints expected to be aired during the hearings are:

1. The cattlemen's charge that OPA price ceilings have been imposed in such a way as to make feedlot feeding of cattle unprofitable.

2. The hog raisers', dairymen's, and the corn growers' protests that present ceilings on corn have disrupted normal marketing to such an extent that many sections of the country are virtually without grain for feeding purposes, and milk and egg production has been curtailed.

3. The citrus growers' opposition to administration plans for purchase of the entire citrus crop this year.

4. The hundred and one complaints that may be heard every day against the OPA and its price policies, New Deal "snoopers," gas rationing, etc.

Man Taking Walk Shot; Gunman Flees in Auto

A Sunday stroll ended in a hospital room yesterday for Arney Torp, 55 years old, 2638 Lincoln avenue, a woodworker. He was walking near Clark and Maple streets when a man ran down the street, and fired half a dozen shots aimlessly. One bullet struck Torp in the right thigh, and he was taken to the Henrotin hospital. Witnesses told police the gunman fled thru an alley, and drove away in a car. The license number was obtained.

PACIFIC PARADOX.

The story of last Thursday's raid on Rabaul—the raid in which three Japanese warships were sunk and a dozen more were damaged—was published alongside the dispatch from Murlin Spencer of the Associated Press confirming once again Gen. MacArthur's lack of men and equipment.

Mr. Spencer was very emphatic about the difficulties under which Gen. MacArthur is laboring. The correspondent had only recently returned to the Southwest Pacific from a trip to the United States, where he had been led to hope that adequate reënforcements at last were being sent. It isn't true, he says. There may be a considerable movement of men and supplies out of our west coast ports, but they aren't going to MacArthur. Mr. Spencer's references to the much heavier bombing raids from India than MacArthur has been able to stage indicate pretty clearly where Mr. Spencer thinks the ships are going.

"While it is true," he says, "that since June 30 MacArthur has had available for his campaigns in the Solomons much of the force already assembled and acting independently in the South Pacific, it doesn't mean that the total strength of the two areas has been increased greatly."

And yet very considerable successes are being achieved. The expanding victories despite limited means are, of course, a great tribute to Gen. MacArthur's strategic and tactical skill. Perhaps it is the judgment of the higher command that he is so competent that he can get along without much help. If so, the judgment is singularly short-sighted. If MacArthur can accomplish as much as he has with as little as has been placed at his disposal, common sense says that he can make better use of any available reënforcements than any other general is likely to make.

It is no secret that MacArthur wants to move on the Philippines in long strides. Mr. Spencer says that the task cannot be undertaken with the means now at hand. Anybody who will take the trouble to look at the map can see for himself the strategic value of the recovery of Mindanao, the big island at the southern end of the Philippine chain, which would be the first important goal. From it, the Japanese communications to the empire they conquered from the Dutch and British could be cut by submarine and air blockade. The push into Burma from India would be made far easier. We could look forward to a gradual reconquest of the Philippines and thus bring the war so close to Japan that its navy almost certainly would have to come out and fight the decisive naval engagement of the war against a superior force.

That is what Gen. MacArthur wants to bring about and what he has shown he can do if he is given anything like adequate support. Magnificent as his victories have been thus far, they are only a token of what will lie ahead if he is granted the means.

A PRESS SUBSIDY.

"Our press and radio," Sen. Truman told a Chicago advertising gathering, "are so dependent upon revenues from advertising that it would be dangerous to entrust government burocrats with the spending of huge sums for advertising, and the distribution of advertising among various newspapers and radio stations. Even if there were no abuses, public confidence in the integrity of press and radio might be undermined."

He is right. Listening to the proponents of the bill to appropriate some $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 for government advertising, one might assume that the prosecution of the war had suffered from lack of publicity. Sen. Truman cited some figures. Last year the value of advertising space, time, and services voluntarily contributed for war purposes by the publications, radio industry, and advertising agencies of the nation was estimated at $250,000,000. This year the value of these free services is even greater.

These figures, of course, do not include the value of space in the news columns. Every governmental agency has been granted a tremendous linage in the news columns of every newspaper in the country. THE TRIBUNE's experience in this respect may be enlightening. As our readers are well aware, this newspaper long ago ceased to give the New Dealers credit even for good intentions in their bungling. Nevertheless, in one typical category of news—food—THE TRIBUNE has devoted far more space to official information regarding ration details and point lists than it has to all the stories of the official incompetence and interference that are destroying the nation's food supplies. And this despite the fact that the latter type of story is more interesting to its readers.

The advertising appropriation provided in the Bankhead bill is sought, not so much to inform the public about the conduct of the war, as to win editors to support the fourth term and to whitewash New Deal bungling of the war. A publication that would accept one of these ads might just as honorably accept money to help elect a slot machine sheriff.

EXPLANATION IN ORDER.

The family of Richard A. Aageberg, 31 years old, of Hammond, Ind., reported the other day that he died in Great Lakes Naval Training station hospital in a diabetic coma a few days after his induction into the navy thru the draft.

They charge that his death resulted from "criminal negligence" of examining physicians at his draft board and at the induction station in Indianapolis who failed to recognize that he had diabetes even after he had told them about it. The family also blame the navy physicians at Great Lakes for failure to give Aageberg the proper treatment after he became ill from lack of insulin.

These charges are so serious that the Indiana selective service officials, those in charge of the army-navy induction station, and the navy must give a full and immediate explanation. If criminal negligence is shown, it should be punished.

The fear of being called a slacker might restrain any man from pressing his valid claims for physical deferment against the verdict of a careless examiner. Doubtless there are many more conscripts who try to mask physical defects than there are malingerers.

All drafted men must be protected by honest and thoro physical examinations, for their dependents' sake as well as their own.

THE REPUBLICANS PICK UP THE BALL.

The majority of the people are now Republican, as recent elections have reëmphasized, the executive department remains in the hands of the New Dealers, but neither group controls congress. Congress is Democratic, but anti-New Deal, thru the combination of the strong Republican minority with the conservative Democrats.

This is a state of political affairs that rightly displeases the people of America. The administration stubbornly, even treacherously, follows a line of action to which the people are opposed, and which has alienated their trust and support. Congress, on which they should be able to depend to curb the executive, frequently has been ineffective because the coalition that should exist in congress has failed to coalesce.

The conservative Democrats are as bitterly opposed to the measures of the New Deal as are the Republicans, but the New Deal controls the machinery of their party. These Democrats are apparently bound in inaction by the fear that if they curb the New Deal they will damage their party, perhaps fatally. That the present domination of it by the New Dealers is bound to destroy it in any event they seem unwilling to comprehend.

In these circumstances, the Republicans, who are nominally in the minority in congress, but who form the majority of the majority group that disapproves of the New Deal program, are presented with a challenge of leadership. That challenge has been accepted, thru the formation of the Republican action committee in the house. The committee, rightly charging the Democrats with failure in leadership, has brought forward a four point program for immediate action.

This is its program: to settle the question of food subsidies at once, that farmers may plan next year's crops, and to force the appointment of a single food administrator with authority to end the chaos that the New Dealers have inflicted on food production; to take action to stimulate petroleum production, ending the present gasoline and fuel oil shortages; to provide citizens with appeals to the courts from the autocratic administrative orders of burocrats, and to investigate all appropriations and a means of enforcing a real policy of governmental economy.

This is a patriotic, not a partisan program. It will help win the war, and it should appeal to those Democrats who are of like mind with the Republicans in their disgust with New Deal bungling and tyranny.

Specific legislative action on its program is being sought by the committee thru three bills pending in congress. The first measure would prevent Mr. Roosevelt's foolish, deceptive, and inflationary scheme of food subsidies by providing that they cannot be paid except to encourage increases in production. The second, introduced by a Democrat, Rep. Disney of Oklahoma, would stimulate petroleum production by raising crude oil prices. The third measure, introduced by Rep. Dirksen of Illinois, would grant citizens the protection of the courts against the imbecilities and malice of burocratic rule.

The Republicans cannot fail to turn Mr. Roosevelt and his heterogeneous rabble out of office next year if they satisfy the people in two respects. The Republicans must defeat the efforts of the internationalists, the millionaires, and the Communists to bewilder their convention and maneuver the nomination of another Roosevelt stooge, and they must demonstrate that they can deal effectively with the evils that the New Deal has brought on the country. The action committee has brought forward a workable, patriotic program on vital domestic issues. The Democratic party, paralyzed by its split personality, has fumbled the ball. The Republicans in congress have picked it up, and the country will cheer when they start running with it.

NEW MEDALS FOR FOOT SOLDIERS.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

With all the emphasis on aerial and mechanized warfare in this global conflict the aphorism describing the infantry as the "queen of battles" has become true again. Inevitably the foot soldier has to go in and win his own fights.

Establishment of two new infantry medals—one for "satisfactory" service in combat and the other for meritorious records in battle—is a needed and proper recognition of the fact. Infantrymen who handle themselves coolly, bravely, and efficiently when face to face with the enemy may not necessarily so distinguish themselves as to rate one of the higher awards for heroism or distinguished service, which call for actions beyond the normal call of duty.

But men who acceptably pass thru the grueling ordeals of fighting at close quarters, and do their hard job well, are deserving of the recognition of their quality as fighters. This the new medals are designed to afford.

The proposition now up is a 6 year old Savoy to succeed Victor Emmanuel. Kings in sunny Italy all seem to run to one size.—Detroit News.

ONE LITTLE FINGER.

After following the Case of the Little Finger Print to its expected conclusion, this column's opinion is that there was nothing funny about it except the prosecution.

The Nassau trial was unique in criminological lore, we suspect, because of its dependence upon a single print, representing the most insignificant finger. The touching of an object or surface with this feeble and almost unused digit, and it alone, is a rare occurrence in unconscious manipulations. Such a print might have been made, of course, if the accused had been wearing gloves with a hole in a little finger, but then a number of prints should have been found.

The possibility of finger print faking gave the late Augustus Thomas the plot for a fairly good play which was acted in Chicago in the 1900s. It was called, we think, "The Harvest Moon." Thomas was skeptical about finger prints in general as hanging evidence.

Within the next year several murder mystery novels will probably present the Oakes murder case in disguise and offer far-fetched solutions. The author of our choice would be H. C. Bailey, whose Reggie Fortune, the mastermind among Scotland Yard medical experts, would soon have a correct interpretation of the scorching and bludgeoning of Harry Oakes. His attitude toward Nassau high life, moreover, would be rich with British satire. Dorothy Sayers would be brilliant on the theme, of course, but it is hardly her dish. She is at her best around universities.

Among the great departed, Dr. John Thorndyke would be better than Sherlock Holmes, whose practice was largely among footprints. From a single footprint Mr. Holmes could deduce a one-legged man named Jonathan Small who had once lived on the Andaman Islands, but a little finger print would cause him to go on a cocaine jag.

THE FREEDOMS AT HOME.

"Four Freedoms" has majestic sound
With accents seeming too profound
To be defined for use and ken
Of worlds devised for little men.
Yet in a life as small as mine,
The simple things those words define;
"Freedom of Worship" lets Grandma read
Her precious Book, recite her creed;
"Freedom of Speech" lets Dad relate
Opinions on affairs of state;
And "Freedom from Want" its meaning tells
In Mother's savory kitchen smells.
Thus "Freedom from Fear" itself explains
With the wealth of content a home contains.
These, indeed, spell peace for me,
These shall ever keep me free!

The Days of Innocence.

One of my sweetest memories of the dear old days that are gone is how charmingly we children behaved.

Do you remember the wood-backed blackboard erasers? When teacher left the room, some one in the back would let go with one directed at the unfortunate child standing at the front blackboard. Wham! O, boy, what a dizziness. I wonder if that is why the present harmless cloth-backed erasers were adopted?

If an eraser were not at hand there was always a bit of chalk to be hurled at some one. This was not as much fun as the eraser method, as the casualties were fewer. Talk about automobile accidents! Phooey on them! They were nothing compared to the eraser-chalk fatalities.

Shh! Here comes teacher, O, happy, carefree days when all was sweetness and light. Even with teacher in the room we had our lighter moments. We could always place a pin in a wad of paper on the seat of the desk of a child standing up to recite. And when she sat down, how she screeched.

There were other refined forms of torture. There was the paper wad and the bean shooter. We had a boy in class who could hit a fly on the front blackboard from his rear seat. Ouch! Was that ever a stinger! Sometimes we dipped girls' braids in the ink wells, or snipped off the ends, and in winter we put rocks in snowballs.

My, my, what sweet memories. There was a certain boy who always sat in a front seat, but he loved it. He was in the spotlight where he could wiggle his scalp, wag his ears, and make faces at the other "students," which sent them into howls of titters.

He not only could, but still does, and intends to keep on. Roy Engel.

It's time for some one to reveal
An elver is a little eel,
And that his parents' sweet romance
Has one peculiar circumstance!
In mating season, strange but true,
The eel world has a rendezvous;
And in the far Sargasso Sea
They meet each other, socially,
Then swim back home, all travel worn,
To be on hand when junior's born.
It may seem queer till one recalls
Our visits to Niagara Falls.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SILENCE IS GOLDEN—FOR HOARSENESS.

HOARSENESS following an acute cold—particularly when the symptom is associated with coughing — is a temporary matter. About all the victim needs to do is to give the voice box a vacation. The cords are congested and, when they are obliged to vibrate, will fail to function normally. Thus the individual emits crowing noises or whispers.

When huskiness comes on subsequent to influenza or a severe bronchial infection, all the structures within the larynx are involved. At such a time, there is usually some pain on swallowing. There may be a temperature altho the upper portions of the throat may be relatively free from inflammation. Nevertheless, if we could see further down, as can the physician via a suitable instrument, we would find that the cords are red and edematous.

Treatment demands rest, with suitable remedies for the "starter." This means not only confinement to bed but silence. The patient may employ pencil and pad to convey his wishes. Another helpful aid is to fill the air of the sickroom with moisture. The ordinary croup kettle may be utilized so that water impregnated with tincture of benzoin compound may be vaporized constantly—day and night.

Why is it important to get the upper hand of these acute sieges? The answer lies in the fact that chronic laryngitis may fasten itself upon the victim. This is a stubborn affliction and may attack those who overwork the vocal machinery. Professional singers and public speakers regard this condition as a stubborn ailment. The period of quiet—the interval when not a single word will be spoken out loud—must be long enough to allow for complete healing. During the football season, the day after attendance at a game may find us uttering harsh and grating sounds.

If there is a previously existing infection within the sinuses, or about the throat or the teeth, we may anticipate that trouble will ensue thru the extension of bacteria to the inflamed areas. Every raw surface within the larynx will be seized upon immediately by noxious germs as suitable places to rear their families. The original focus must be cleared up before we can expect the voice box to return to normal.

Should hoarseness hang on, and fail to disappear after ordinary treatment, examination by a skilled throat physician is in order. In other words, any bout that has persisted for longer than two or three weeks, will need expert attention.

As we know, the body springs back to par as promptly as resistance is built to standard levels. This means that with acute seizures, quiet and comfort will bring recovery quickly. If the obligation to report to work is paramount, the least the patient can do is to become a man of few words. For him, silence is golden.

It may be difficult to confine these sufferers to their homes because they feel all right otherwise. They fail to realize that breathing dusty air will keep alive this type of irritation. In addition, the malady may linger and become a steady boarder.

RAYNAUD'S DISEASE.

W. S. writes: What are the symptoms of Raynaud's disease?

REPLY.

Intermittent attacks of blanching, involving the fingers and toes. Women are highly susceptible. Seizures may last from a few minutes to several hours. The parts feel cold. Later, the cuticle may become dusky. Sufferers should avoid chilling and emotional stress. Drugs, such as mecholyl have been helpful. In extreme cases, severing the sympathetic nerve fibers has been advocated. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on the subject.

POOR CIRCULATION.

Mrs. F. Writes: I went on a diet and lost 30 pounds in a short time. Since then my feet are always cold and my arms and legs become numb at night. What can I do for relief?

REPLY.

Your feelings may be likened to a battery that has run down. Warmth, massage, and a balanced diet are now in order. Reducing is desirable with overweights, but it must be practiced slowly—approximately one pound per week.

BLOOD VOLUME.

A. W. writes: How much blood does the human body contain?

REPLY.

The volume is usually figured at one-thirteenth of the body weight, or a pint to the pound. Thus a man of average weight would harbor approximately 6 quarts.

TOO MUCH.

M. K. writes: Is it all right to give a 2 year old child 4 oranges daily?

REPLY.

This Changing World.

Reservation.

Rickenbacker and his crew were rescued a year ago yesterday, and the anniversary brought to mind a tale, of his favorite restaurant, Louis XIV., in Rockefeller plaza in New York. When in town Rickenbacker ate there so often that a table on the mezzanine was known as "Rick's office." The day news came that he was missing the French proprietor put a heavy gold rope around the table and put up a large placard, "Reserved." It remained so until he was found. "I knew he would be back," the proprietor said calmly.

Recipe.

Take one civilian, slightly green. Stir from bunk at early hour. Soak in shower daily. Dress in a blue jacket. Mix with others of his kind. Grate on chief's nerves. Toughen with booting. Add liberal portions of beans and soup. Season with wind, rain, and snow. Sweeten from time to time with chocolate bars. Let smoke occasionally.

Bake in 110 degree temperature summer and let cool in below zero weather. Serves 130,000,000 people.

Hungry Man in Our Midst.

The woman who wrote "Chicken Every Sunday" had nothing on Melchor Serra, 22, who has just enrolled at the Illinois Institute of Technology as a freshman in mechanical engineering. When he arrived in Chicago from his home in Buenos Aires, Argentina, Serra knew only three English words for food—chicken, bread, and butter. On his first trip to a restaurant he ordered chicken, bread, butter. The waiter understood, so for an entire week Serra repeated the order. He then learned to say eggs.

This Is America. XVII.

The man with hand upon the plow
Will have no wreath to crown his brow,
And he who works within a mine,
Where sun or moon will never shine,
Sees in each day a victory won
And his reward in duty done,
For wage alone does not appease—
Walt Whitman sang of men like these.

He sang of joy in little things—
A hill, a brook, a bird that sings;
For wealth is where you look and see
A road that winds to set you free.
There are no rich; there are no poor,
And money is a silken lure
That leaves no loop in which to roam:
A gypsy makes the world his home.

MARTHA WENDT.

"Art" via Sinatra.

In our school days, besides being drilled in the three R's, we had a little drawing on the side. This consisted of making circles, squares, and oblongs, followed by getting the hang of perspective, composition, color relationship, and values.

Our fair haired offspring now comes home with her "art work." I squint at the somewhat childish scramblings and ask what it is. She says: "Upon entering the classroom we are given a blank sheet of paper. A phonograph is played which should put us in the mood to give birth to rhythm. Then we put down our impressions in charcoal."

Now she practices her "art work" at home with Sinatra singing. Perhaps she should quit school and get a job in a factory camouflaging tanks—accompanied, of course, by inspirational music.

SERMON STORY.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Death is so real now to many of us, as some face it directly and others thru their dear ones, that I thought a brief summary of a sermon I heard my rector preach Sunday might make it a little easier to meet it without fear. He said death was the one event we all some day must face and no one knows what comes after. Faith during life on earth, and living with God near to us in our daily life, gives us the faith that keeps fear away and gives us the strength to enter the unknown when our time comes and the door is opened to us.

To illustrate this faith and love of God, the minister told of the Englishman who was a champion cricketeer and who became totally blind before his son became old enough to play the same game. The young son developed into even a greater player than his father, but altho his father attended the games when the boy played, he could not see him in action. The night before the champion game of the son's career, the father died and the rest of the team thinking the captain would not play because of his father's death, gave up hope of winning, but on the next afternoon the captain came on the field in his flannels and played the greatest game in his whole career and won the championship. After the contest the team and friends gathered around him and asked him how he was able to do it. He answered, looking radiantly happy, "that it was simply because it was the one game his father could see him play."

FRANK M. MCKEY.

PERHAPS THEY'D BE GLAD TO PAY.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—In response to William Lavery, who wrote on "postage due," the postoffice department states emphatically, that all mails [with the exception of prisoners of war] sent by civilians to men serving in the armed forces, must be fully prepaid before leaving the office of origin. Reasoning behind this ruling is obviously sound. Realize what a great hardship would be incurred, if the army and navy postoffices had to make collection of the thousands of short paid letters. It might also tend to delay the mail should the service man fail to have the necessary funds.

HARRY B. FLANIGAN.

SACRED COWS.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 11.—Every one realizes the deplorable conditions that must prevail in a country where 6,000 people die daily in one of their great cities. But do we also realize that the same country is overrun with the so-called sacred cow? These animals give less than 100 pounds of milk a year. Ignorance is no excuse for these people. My children would never starve in the street while cows walked around "sacred" or otherwise. DISGUSTED.

SEN. JOHNSON'S PRAYER.

Clinton, Wis., Nov. 8.—I am happy to know that there are such men in our senate as Sen. Hiram Johnson. His sincere, patriotic prayer, said in the senate, should be reprinted and hung in every law-making chamber and executive office.

We've had too much political oratory, insincere promises, and selfish planning in these most serious days of our national history. It's time that many of our leaders followed Sen. Hiram Johnson's lead.

AN AMERICAN ALWAYS.

ANOTHER "SECOND FRONT."

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 8.—The talk one hears of a second front in Europe and the admitted cost of lives reminds me of the thoughts expressed recently by Archbishop Spellman in a national magazine.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the United States is fighting a world war on many fronts and Russia is fighting on only one front, on her own soil against an invader that attacked her. Many wish Russia would open a second front against Japan, or at least permit us the 'use of bases' as the phrase goes. However, there are no mass meetings held in Russia demanding that the Russian authorities go to war against Japan to help us with a second front."

It is too bad that more of the leaders of our country don't speak up for our interests as does the archbishop.

HAROLD BALDUS.

DRAFT INEQUALITIES.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 9.—If the government is really in earnest about keeping family men at home, why don't they start action on putting the draft on a national basis instead of the unfair way it is handled now? Some of the cases one hears of are really pitiful, the way homes are being broken up. Family men in many cases will never recover from the effects of being drafted, many of them being in business for themselves. There are still many men in this town who have no families and yet haven't been drafted and it really hurts to see men with children go when this is the case.

MRS. K. W. LEE.

NOT A SALES TAX.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—We have been reading and listening to much legal sophistry about the "Illinois sales tax." Thus far nobody has even closely approached the crux of the "Illinois retailers' occupational tax." The entire business is illegal from start to finish. First—it was and still is a retailers' tax. Second—it was an unemployment relief measure and as such is no longer effective. To some this tax is a joy forever but right now it is no thing of beauty. I believe our good state requires a 1944 model streamlined legislature.

AFTER FINAL PAYMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am about to make the final payment on the mortgage on my home. Will you please tell me what papers I should obtain and from whom?

G. H.

If the papers are in the usual form of notes secured by a trust deed, the debtor should, at the time of final payment, secure from the holder the last coupon and principal note, the trust deed, the guaranty policy, or other evidence of title, and fire insurance policies. He should take these papers, with the previous coupons that should be in his possession, to the trustee named in the trust deed and secure a release deed which the debtor should record. Also, he should have the trustee write on the mortgage riders on the insurance policies a notation that the trustee's interest has closed, and should later clear this with the insurance companies. Whether the debtor can handle such steps for himself depends on his experience and resourcefulness. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TRAIN CARRIES AUTO 600 FEET; DRIVER KILLED

Engineer Reports Giving 4 Warning Whistles.

Ernest Anderson of Tinley Park, 42 years old, a war plant worker, was killed yesterday when his automobile was struck by a Rock Island railroad train near Oak Forest avenue and 167th street, near his home. His car was carried 600 feet. Arthur V. Bennett, 11818 Hale avenue, the engineer, told Policemen Nicholas Guglielmucci and John Lesko of the Homewood county highway police that he had given four warning whistles. Fireman Walter L. Hilliard, 1539 East 61st street, said Anderson turned off Oak Forest avenue, which parallels the tracks, and crossed in front of the train. Anderson was a widower.

Retired Worker Killed.

Nels Mygren, 77, of 10807 Indiana avenue was killed by an automobile at 119th and Loomis street. He was a retired employe of the Pullman company. The driver was George Muskievicz, 23, of 11706 Sangamon street, a blacksmith.

Arthur Weese, 37, of 559 Market street, Joliet, was killed by a hit and run auto last night as he was crossing Meadow and Throop streets in Joliet.

Joliet Driver Arrested.

Police reported they later arrested as the driver George Sumderry, 50, of 303 Hickory street, Joliet, whose license number was supplied by witnesses. Weese, a roofer, was married and the father of five children.

Injuries suffered when she was struck by a car Saturday resulted in the death of Mrs. Mary Marggerites in the Little Company of Mary hospital yesterday. She was 55 years old and lived at 7754 South Narragansett avenue, Stickney township. The driver was Charles Maston, 32, of 7440 Rhodes avenue, a war plant inspector.

SMASH WINDOW, STEAL $6,000 FURS IN LOOP GUN DUEL

Five window smashers, who defied a watchman's gun, early yesterday stole three mink coats and two Persian lamb coats from a display window on the Van Buren street side of Goldblatt Brothers' State street store. The furs were valued at $6,000.

The thieves drove up in a car shortly after 7 a. m. and threw two iron pipes thru the window. A store watchman, Harold Grunwald, 39 years old, 6940 Clyde avenue, was hiding behind the window, his special job being to protect the furs.

As the first of the thieves started to climb thru the broken plate glass, Grunwald fired one shot at them. It missed. Then his gun jammed. The hoodlums also drew guns, and Grunwald withdrew. The thieves grabbed the coats, including a mannequin on which one of the coats was draped. The mannequin later was found at Sangamon and Ohio streets.

ARMY RELAXES ALERT STATUS ON JAPS AT TULE

Tule Lake, Cal., Nov. 14 (AP).—The army tonight relaxed the alert status it had maintained for 24 hours at the Tule Lake segregation center and indications were that the tension had eased at the camp for 16,000 disloyal Japanese.

Lifting of the alert meant that a limited number of soldiers could leave the grounds. The army took control of Tule Lake 15 days ago at the climax of weeks of riotous disturbances.

While the federal bureau of investigation and the Dies committee prepared to undertake separate investigations of conditions at Tule Lake under war relocation authority rule, reports emerged that children, under parental supervision, demonstrated on the parade grounds today, waving Japanese flags virtually under the noses of military guards.

GREEK CONSUL ASKS RETURN OF EPIRUS REGION

The Greek government in exile in Cairo, Egypt, will ask the peace makers to return the province of Epirus on the southern tip of Albania to Greece, George Christopoulos, Greek consul general of Chicago, said last night. He spoke at the first anniversary dinner of the National Epirotic society in the La Salle hotel. The society was formed to support a move to return the province to Greece, which was awarded to Albania after World War I. Christopoulos said the province was predominantly Greek and rightfully a part of Greece.

Five of 10 Children Die When House Is Burned

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 14 (AP).—Five of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver's 10 children died tonight when fire destroyed their home in suburban Mattydale. The dead were Shirley, 10 years old; Richard, 8; Gerald, 7; Carol, 5; and Nancy Lee, 3. The fire was caused when an oil stove exploded. Jean Marie, 15, and Patricia, 12, escaped, carrying with them May, 2. Charles, 13, and James, 11, were in a theater when the fire started.

Girl Found Unconscious in Gas-Filled Kitchen

Shirley Fulton, 17 years old, was found unconscious last night in the gas-filled kitchen of her home at 15950 South Cicero avenue, Oak Forest. After she had been revived at Oak Forest infirmary, where she was taken by Midlothian firemen, the girl was reported to have told attendants that she was despondent over a love affair.

Patriotism of Swedish Society Lauded by Green

Gov. Dwight H. Green and State Sen. Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, president pro tem of the Illinois senate, were guests yesterday at a 35th anniversary program of the Vasa Order of America in the Finnish community center at 4219 Lincoln avenue. Welcoming visitors from Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan, the governor praised the patriotism of the Swedish fraternal society members and their contributions to the war. Sen. Benson is a Republican candidate for secretary of state.

LADY OF LATHE WINS PLACE IN YULE SHOPPING

Special Counter to Meet Her Needs.

Christmas gifts in the State street stores this year have hit a new high in classification. To the counters for women in war service, for their brothers and their mothers, has been added a new one for the "lady at the lathe."

This newest presentation offers a wide range of selections, all keyed to the mental attitude of the woman war worker. If she is interested in her work there is a large selection of coveralls, and technical books are suggested. If it is escape that interests her, perfumes in fragrant florals and other scents are suggested. One store offers a kit that promises to take the dust and grit from her face and hands in not more than five seconds.

Yule Gifts for War Dogs.

As a result of a telephone call last week from a woman whose Dobermann-Pinscher had gone to war, one of the State street stores is arranging a display of Christmas gifts suitable for dogs in the country's service. Candy specially prepared for dog consumption promises to be a big item at this counter, and attempts are being made to get red woven socks, replete with a ball, and a toy designed to please even a war dog.

The toy departments, too, are filled with the evidences of war. There are wood and fiber guns on tripod mounts that are offered with the invitation to "Crack a Jap" or "Nip a Nazi."

Medical Lure for Boys.

Opportunity for the young to play war is offered abundantly in sets for "junior" army doctors and "little" army nurses. They contain candy capsules, candy pills, and bandages and stethoscopes, all to make the boy in the family think he is a real army doctor.

Christmas cards are selling furiously. The trend, the salesgirls say, is away from those with the nation's capitol and the flag on the front and Christmas inside. This type, which sold quite well last year, is almost being ignored this season. The trend is back toward cards with evergreen and holly, and snow and fireplaces.

A VERY COMPLETE PHYSICAL EXAMINATION that includes blood and other laboratory tests can be obtained here at small cost

The Public Health Institute is well known for the thoroughness of its medical examinations. Skilled physicians go over you from head to foot—check your heart, lungs and other vital organs, nervous system, blood pressure, etc. Careful blood and other necessary tests are made in the Institute's own laboratory.

Yet, because the Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT," its charge for such a physical examination, including blood and other tests, is only $3.00. It has given more than 5,500,000 examinations and treatments since its establishment in 1920.

COURT MAY RULE IF CONGRESS CAN TRIM PAY ROLLS

Report 3 Fired Employes Plan Wage Suits.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 [Special].—Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, it was learned tonight, has agreed to help speed to the Supreme court the issue involved in the cases of three federal employes whose names will be stricken today from the pay roll by action of congress.

The three are Dr. Robert Morss Lovett, 72 years old, executive assistant to the president of the Virgin Islands; Dr. William E. Dodd Jr., assistant news editor, foreign broadcast intelligence service, federal communications commission, and Dr. Goodwin B. Watson, chief analyst of the same service of the FCC.

Agree to Work and Sue.

All three, by agreement with their department heads, it was learned, will continue to hold their positions, working without pay. When a suitable time has elapsed, they will file suit for their salaries in the United States Court of Claims, charging that the action of congress in depriving them of their pay beginning Nov. 15 constituted a violation of the Constitution.

With the attorney general's cooperation, the cases can be pushed thru the Court of Claims and brought to the Supreme court.

Unfortunately for the hopes of the three employes, a member of the appropriations committee observed, the chances are a thousand to one against their collecting a penny even if they win judgments for back salary. Their judgment claims, he said, must go back to the very committee that ordered them ousted in the first place, and this committee has only to pigeonhole the claims and the three men will have worked for nothing.

Accused of Subversive Acts.

Lovett, Dodd, and Watson were found unfit for government office by the house appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. John H. Kerr [D., N. C.], which held them guilty of subversive activities.

By overwhelming vote, the house upheld the stand taken by its committee, but the senate refused to agree, causing a deadlock. Finally a compromise was reached in which it was agreed that the three men would be separated from the pay roll on Nov. 15.

President Roosevelt signed the deficiency appropriation bill containing a rider to this effect, but condemned the action of congress as an interference with executive powers.

SUBMIT 7 POINT PLAN FOR U. OF I. POST-WAR STUDY

Include Labor School in New Setup.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 14 (AP).—University of Illinois faculty committees have reached agreement on seven specific educational proposals for the school, after having decided that if universities are to offer programs "strong and vital enough to hold the interest of war veterans when they come back," conventional academic requirements must be adjusted.

Provost A. J. Harno announced the seven proposals, which, he said, summarize a year of study by post-war planning groups within the faculty. They are:

1. Flexible admission and credit requirements taking into consideration training and experience in the fighting forces.
2. A year round accelerated program geared to the tempo of army and navy life.
3. Individual curricula that will not restrict mature students to one division of the university.

Stress Aeronautics.

4. An aeronautical program reaching into all departments.
5. A special school to study and give instruction in the field of labor relations.
6. New scientific courses to train men for work in world reconstruction.
7. An extensive program of adult education, with extension classes all over the state to fit persons in war industries for peace time pursuits.

The program of aeronautical training, which will center about a recently acquired 740 acre airport, Harno said, will be one of the university's largest new programs.

Labor Asks School.

Disclosing that the proposal for a school of labor was presented last year by the Illinois Federation of Labor, Harno observed that a university cannot become partisan. Its studies and instructions, he said, must be impartial and objective.

In outlining the university's peace plans, Harno suggested that a program for putting veterans in school after the war might serve as an alternative to the program of slow demobilization advocated by some to avoid dislocation of the nation's economy.

Expendable gifts to the university during the last year totaled $253,505, Controler Lloyd Morey said today in his annual financial report. Eighty-three of the gifts, totaling $192,206, were for research; four, totaling $33,966, for instructional purposes, and 19, totaling $27,333, for scholarships and fellowships.

Novelist P. G. Wodehouse in Paris, Swedes Hear

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 15 [Monday] (AP). — P. G. Wodehouse, English novelist who has made broadcasts from Germany directed to England, has gone to Paris where he is "playing a prominent part in social life," a Berlin dispatch to the Swedish press said today. Wodehouse was captured by the Germans during their 1940 offensive and was imprisoned. However, the Nazis said he was made comfortable and was allowed to continue his literary work.

MERCHANDISE AND COINS STOLEN.

Sporting goods valued at $1,172 and a coin collection worth $372 at par value were stolen from Joseph Vodraska's sporting goods store at 3359 West 26th street yesterday.

"He's writing it 500 times because he spilled an Old Fashioned made with Calvert Reserve"

The gentleman doing all the chalking may well pay penance for spilling an Old Fashioned made with Calvert Reserve. For this whiskey's rare "soft" flavor has a simply super way of blending with—rather than overpowering—the other ingredients in a mixed drink. And now that every precious drop of Calvert Reserve comes from a limited supply* of costly, irreplaceable reserves—it's even more than ever "the choicest whiskey you can drink or serve"!

Before Your Post-War Gutters Give Out!

CORRONIZED
For Enduring Protection Against Rust

IT'S GREATER than you think—your share in the billion dollars stolen in America every year by corrosion. The gutters and downspouts on your home, for example—demanding costly upkeep and all-too-frequent replacement . . . And the parade of garbage cans you buy, each a quick victim to rust . . . And your window screens, and wire fence, lawn mower, automobile muffler, tools and many other things . . .

When war ends, this constant raid on your purse can be ended, too! A new miracle of protection—called Corronizing—can give your post-war gutters and screens, and a host of other things, four times as many years of life! Four times as many happy birthdays before corrosion steals the usefulness you've paid for!

New, simple and inexpensive, Corronizing is the result of years of development by Standard Steel Spring Company. Under the most gruelling conditions, Corronizing has proved its amazingly longer and better protection against destructive rust.

Now Corronizing waits only upon Victory to make scores of post-war products serve you better—give you more for your money. For the present, the full facilities of Standard Steel Spring Company are devoted to production of armor plate, bombs and other war materials. But after Victory, the "Corronized" label on things you buy will be your guarantee of better value and far longer service.

NO PUNCHBOARDS IN COOK COUNTY, M'GINNIS RULES

Highway Police Break Up Roadhouse Racket.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Punchboards were declared contraband yesterday by Chief John J. McGinnis of the Cook county highway police, thereby ruining an extremely profitable racket in which Ed Vogel and George Sax enjoyed a monopoly in the country town territory, where they represented the Guzik gambling syndicate. The order of Chief McGinnis was said to have dissipated the hopes for a cheery Christmas for hoodlums who sought to test the attitude of the department since McGinnis took charge 10 days ago.

During the last few weeks, it was learned, county highway police in some instances confiscated punchboards and again merely told tavernkeepers to keep them off the bars. They learned, finally, it was announced yesterday, that Chief McGinnis will not tolerate either the crooked boards or those on which prizes might actually be won.

Trinkets Go to Orphans.

Some orphan asylums received the trinkets seized by county highway police along with the boards. Several hundred of the gaudily decorated devices were reported to have been burned. McGinnis said he would not tolerate any of the conditions that the October grand jury found were in existence under the administration of McGinnis' predecessor, Hugh McCarthy.

Some roadhouse proprietors were said to prefer the punchboards to slot machines. Tipsy customers and young men with girls who wanted to win handsome trinkets contributed several carloads of dimes to the Guzik syndicate every year, the grand jury was advised.

After the death of Sheriff Peter B. Carey on Oct. 31, there was a scramble among novelty dealers for "punchboard concessions" under whatever new regime was to follow, according to members of the highway police. Those with powerful political connections began maneuvering for "territories," it was reported. McGinnis stopped the scramble.

Duffy Boomed for Sheriff.

The question of who is to be the new sheriff was still unanswered yesterday. Politicians generally said Mayor Kelly had not made up his mind and consequently the county board—which has the power to fill the vacancy—is helpless. It was reported, however, that a boom for the appointment of Ald. John J. Duffy of the 19th ward is growing.

Ald. Duffy was named as "administrative assistant" to Sheriff Carey a few weeks before Carey died. Carey and Ald. Duffy were both allies of Thomas D. Nash, democratic committeeman of the 19th ward and heretofore regarded as one of the top ranking leaders of the party. It was known that Nash wanted Duffy for the office.

Opposed by Mayor Kelly.

Why Mayor Kelly opposed Duffy was not disclosed. Nash, it was learned, has meanwhile been seeking indorsement of other democratic leaders for Duffy and it was said yesterday the alderman is still in the running.

The grand jury's investigation of the protection and business angles of the Guzik gang's operations will be resumed this morning. The jury is expected to give considerable attention to the monopoly said to have been enjoyed by Charles Bidwill in the field of selling supplies to the 1,000 or more handbook operators who formerly did a comfortable business hereabouts.

Bidwill last week defied the grand jury and refused to answer questions or produce his books. It was announced Saturday, however, that he will appear before the jury today or tomorrow.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

G. M. M. writes: "I am 34 years of age and have had considerable experience in working with metals. I have done soldering, brazing, riveting, etc., as well as some copper work. What are my chances of obtaining a rating and in what branch?"

ANSWER: At present the navy is recruiting men with experience such as yours for duty with the ship repair units. The ratings range from third class to chief petty officer, and are determined by the years of experience and type of work done. Applicants must furnish letters of recommendation as proof of their skill in a trade, and they must volunteer for induction before receiving orders to report for induction. Visit the navy recruiting office, 321 South Plymouth court, Chicago, or the nearest navy recruiting office and determine what your rating will be. If you are in the draft age group, you'd better look into this right away—it may be your last chance to get a rating.

J. A. M. asks: "Can a woman who has been honorably discharged from the WAACs or the women's reserve of the navy or coast guard be enlisted in the marine corps women's reserve?"

ANSWER: Yes. We have had many letters from women who have been discharged from some reserve unit who wish they were back into uniform. The marines tell us these women may be enlisted in the marines "if they meet all of the requirements for such enlistment; if they submit with their application, evidence of an honorable discharge; if the circumstances which led to their discharge would not be liable to recur during the period of their service in the women's marine corps reserve." It is assumed also that prior service in any unit will also count in determining longevity pay and previous service will help in getting rapid promotion. Apply, room 1170, Board of Trade building.

R. S. asks: "By what right does the army and the veterans administration receive premium payments and then refuse to pay benefits on insurance to an aunt and uncle who have reared and educated a nephew? The application for insurance was made by a homeless boy to whom we stood effectually, and by the boy's own declaration as foster parents. The officer who accepted application told him we were 'loco parentis.'"

ANSWER: Neither the army nor the veterans administration have any way of knowing at the time of application if the "foster parents" actually qualify to receive payments. They can only go on the assumption that they do. When the time comes to prove the claim, certain requirements of the law have to be met. The simplest solution to the problem is for the man to prepare proper affidavits attesting to the relationship before entering service or doing it as soon as he takes out the insurance. In our series of articles under the general heading of "Active Duty," is a specific guide sheet for preparing such affidavits. The "Active Duty" series also includes articles on insurance, the new allotment act, soldier and sailor civil relief act, and suggestions about getting business and personal affairs in order before entering service. The "Active Duty" series is available on request and a large self addressed envelope with four cents postage for city delivery and six cents for out of town.

FORUM ON W-G-N POINTS WAY TO SAVE U. S. FARMS

Soil conservation programs must be widely extended and a more stable and continuous family system on the land must be evolved if land waste and rural population depletion are to be stopped in time to save America's farming, speakers on Northwestern university's Reviewing Stand program over W-G-N and the Mutual network said yesterday.

Taking part were Louis Bromfield, novelist, farmer, and lecturer; Hugh Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, and Baker Brownell, professor of philosophy at Northwestern.

Migration of eight or nine million farm workers, including three to five million children, is one result of inefficient American farming, Bromfield declared, adding that such children "are being reared to vagrancy." Scientific conservation methods were advocated to stop waste of land still in good condition.

Mary Bacon to Be Bride of Physician

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS MARY ALICE BACON, who recently returned to Chicago after two years in New York, will be going back to that city within a few months as a physician's bride. Today her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson Bacon Jr., are announcing her engagement to Dr. Adrian Lambert, son of Dr. and Mrs. Adrian Van Sinderen Lambert of New York.

Dr. Lambert was here for a weekend recently but could not come west again to be here when the engagement is announced. He has one brother, John, also a physician, who is a captain in the army medical corps, serving in the South Pacific.

Miss Bacon, who made her debut at a New Year's night dance several seasons ago, attended the Girls' Latin school and the Shipley school, and is a member of the Chicago Junior league. She has an elder sister, Mrs. Charles Porter Atherton of Boston, and a brother, Lt. Edward Bacon III., a bombardier in the army air forces, who was reported missing in action last August. His wife, the former Blair Porter, and baby daughter, Blair, live in Winnetka.

Dr. Lambert prepared at the Hotchkiss school and was graduated from Yale in 1930 and from the Columbia Medical school. He is associated with the Roosevelt and Bellevue hospitals in New York. He also has a sister, Mrs. Seymour Preston of New York.

Other Engagements.

At a tea yesterday in their home in Wilmette, Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert Peacock announced the engagement of their daughter, Geraldine Susan, to 2d Lt. James Reilly Veeneman of the marine air force reserve, son of Harold Anthony Veeneman of Louisville, Ky., and Chicago, and of the late Mrs. Veeneman. Miss Peacock attended the Marywood School for Girls, Northwestern university, and the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Her fiancé, a graduate of Notre Dame, received his wings at Corpus Christi, Tex., and is now at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The wedding will take place during the Christmas holidays. Miss June Peacock and Mrs. Grier Patterson will be their sister's honor attendants, and the latter's daughter, Patsy Sue, will be junior bridesmaid. Lt. Veeneman's sisters, Mary Dale and Dorothy Marie, will be bridesmaids. Their other brothers are on active duty, Sgt. John Kenneth Veeneman and Harold A. Veeneman Jr. with the army, and Ensign Robert Stuart Veeneman with the navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Quinn of Lincoln Park West have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Catherine, to Army Aviation Cadet Patrick Edward Henneberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Henneberry of Ardmore avenue. Miss Quinn is a senior at Mundelein college. Her fiancé, who was home on leave recently, attended Loyola university and is stationed in Albuquerque, N. M.

Today's Events.

Mrs. John R. Reilly, sister-in-law of Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, will be at the speakers' table when Gen. Reilly discusses "The Military Importance of the Balkans" today at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. The luncheon will be held at 12:15 p. m. in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Gen. Reilly's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Odell, also will be at the table with him, and in the ballroom will be a number of the speaker's comrades from the last war. Walter T. Fisher, Clarke Lawrence, and the Meyer Kestnbaums are others who will be at the speakers' table. Frederic Woodward, president of the council, will preside. Gen. Reilly served in the Philippines and was with the army of occupation in Germany.

Hostess menu books are among the popular items in the stock of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins, which wiii open its annual Christmas sale today in the shop at 628 North Michigan avenue. The sale will continue tomorrow and Wednesday.

On the Calendar.

The Society of Mayflower Descendants in Illinois has invitations out for its 47th annual banquet at 7 p. m. on Saturday at the Blackstone hotel. John D. Black, senior member of the Chicago Bar association, will speak on "The Constitution." Reservations for the dinner are being taken by Mrs. Seymour Morris, secretary, and members may bring guests. The society, which has board meetings once a month, is headed by Charles Lord Blatchford.

The north shore service league of the Chicago Maternity center will give a benefit cocktail party from 5 to 8 p. m. on Friday, Dec. 10, at the Racquet club. The party will be a return to the large annual benefits the group gave up to last year, when it decided on a series of smaller parties instead. Mrs. Wayne E. Rapp is chairman of the party with Mrs. Clifford Guental, Mrs. George Harrison, Mrs. Parker Smith, and Mrs. John R. Trost among those on the committee.

The Illinois Association for the Crippled is collecting wares for its annual Christmas craftmart, which will open soon in one of the loop stores. More than 500 persons who are confined to their homes by infirmities will supply handmade articles to the society thru a number of agencies, including the Janeil shop, the Craft shop, the Illinois Wing of the Shut-Ins and the North Shore Association for Crippled children.

Engagement to Flyer Announced

Catholics Hail Centenary of Archdiocese

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's Catholic archdiocese formally became a century old yesterday. Altho among the most youthful of Roman Catholic sees, it is in many respects foremost in Christendom.

The 100 years in which the archdiocese has grown to its present eminence from its modest beginning as a diocese in November, 1843, when Pope Gregory XVI. spoke the words that established it, were celebrated in Holy Name cathedral under the Gospel keynote, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's."

Things of God were adorned at the cathedral, but that adornment was a living thing; a promise of missionary action. There was the adornment of liturgy by the singing of five choirs, by the symphonies of the cathedral orchestra, and by the color and movement of the service. The history of the archdiocese was adorned in eloquence from the cathedral pulpit. Archbishops and bishops from more than four score sees attended.

Caesar, figuratively represented by flags and by emissaries of city, state and nation, bowed before the things of God. This was exemplified in the positions of the flags of the church and the nation, as well as the presence of representatives of the nation's cabinet, the state of Illinois, Mayor Kelly, and the federal, state, and municipal benches. The flag of the United States, draped from the north side of the nave, a few feet from the sanctuary, bowed to the papal flag with its triple tiara and crossed keys, which was directly across the church.

The sermon gave voice to the action implied in liturgy and sacrament, celebrated by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, with the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison, rector of the cathedral, as assistant priest. The centenary preacher, the Most Rev. Francis J. Magner, bishop of Marquette, Mich., formerly of Evanston, in swift, biographical lines, traced Chicago's succession of bishops and archbishops who "builded better than they knew."

"Yet the golden age of the church in Chicago really had its beginning under its first archbishop, Patrick Augustine Feehan, who like the present illustrious archbishop of Chicago, was Nashville's [Tenn.] gift to this see," Bishop Magner said. "With the passing of Archbishop James E. Quigley, Chicago was ready for the strong hand to bring about the closing of its ranks; the tying up of the various elements for ever greater integration.

"A great ecclesiastic came out of the east. But few of his new flock even knew his name until Rome announced that the third archbishop was the Most Rev. George William Mundelein. He built, and built magnificently. . . . Men and women of every belief began to recognize that a great power for lasting good was epitomized in Chicago's new archbishop."

Bishop Magner praised the late Cardinal Mundelein's leadership of youth thru Bishop Bernard J. Sheil's Catholic Youth organization, and the pioneering missionary zeal of the Catholic Church Extension society, under the leadership of the archdiocese's other auxiliary, Bishop William D. O'Brien. The latter was founded under Archbishop Quigley in 1905, and because of its efforts, Bishop Magner said, sees of many bishops seated in the cathedral sanctuary yesterday, benefited immeasurably.

The Extension society meets in 38th annual session today under the chancellorship of Archbishop Stritch at 360 North Michigan avenue. Attending archbishops and bishops will be guests of the society at luncheon in the Palmer house.

Uniforms Mingle with Rich Robes Inside Cathedral

The return of a war time world to religion was seen again in the solemn visages of the thousands who filled Holy Name cathedral yesterday to mark the 100th anniversary of the Chicago Archdiocese. Men and women from every military service joined civilians in prayer in Chicago's cradle of Catholicism. Sitting directly beside the pulpit were Mayor Kelly and the President's representatives, Postmaster General and Mrs. Frank W. Walker.

The exquisite gold brocaded robes, which in most instances replaced the green vestments of the day, caught the lights of each altar candle and sent them—magnified—to dance across the floor. The brightly colored medals of papal knights added additional color to the already brilliant raiment of these laymen.

One of the best known of those who marched in the long procession of archbishops, bishops, mitred abbots, and other clergy was Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York. He recently returned from a tour of the world's war fronts.

Jeanette MacDonald Ill; Song Recital Postponed

Jeanette MacDonald's Civic Opera house recital, scheduled for yesterday afternoon and sold out even to the orchestra pit, has been indefinitely postponed because of the singer's sudden illness. This statement was made at concert time by the Harry Zelzer management, which added that the new performance date will be announced in a few days. Tickets will be honored at that time, or money will be refunded at the box office.

Able Singing Saves Ragged 'Il Trovatore'

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

When the Chicago Opera company ceased to cultivate the local operatic garden for a season, it probably did not foresee the mushroom growths which would spring up in the untilled field. One of these plants a few weeks ago bore fruit of a quite respectable ripeness in a modest but adequate "Romeo and Juliet." "Il Trovatore," presented last night at the Eighth Street theater by the Midwest Opera company, proved to be of ranker growth, but again demonstrated the fertility of Chicago operatic soil.

Unlike the earlier flowering, this one's chief merits were in individual performances rather than in a well balanced ensemble. This could scarcely have been otherwise with a conductor in the pit who could rarely strike an exact tempo or hold to a steady rhythmic course. In consequence the chorus sang raggedly and the orchestra for the most part played the same way.

Of the principals, Stefan Kozavevich gave the smoothest and best routined performance, singing consistently with ease and agreeable tone quality. Naomi Cook might have been accorded this position if all her vocal line had the opulence and brilliance of her upper range. But her middle and lower registers were unfortunately marked with a vibrato of such proportions as often to give the effect of a trill in an already sufficiently embellished score. This same defect marred the singing of Vera Jeske, the Azucena, who, however, overcame it sufficiently in moments of dramatic stress to make a telling effect. The performance moved too leisurely to permit us to hear what Josef Cristea accomplished in his later and most important scenes. Earlier he disclosed a genuine tenor voice, which is something, but little conviction as to what might be done with it. The Ferrando was Lee Whitezel, who chose a middle course and stuck to it.

Two aspiring young recitalists made their debut yesterday afternoon before an audience that crowded the pleasant concert room of the Cordon club. Robert King disclosed a talent for playing the cello that should earn him a definite place in the ranks of his profession. He has technical problems still to master and a curious sort of apathy to overcome if he expects consistently to interest the public, but he has made a good start. Jean Breyfogel has a soprano voice of charming quality but she will need to acquire a less artificial method of production and better judgment about her repertoire.

Greek Women's Club Plans Party for Consul General

The Greek Women's University club will give a reception for the new Greek consul general in Chicago, George Christopoulos, on Wednesday at the Alliance Francaise headquarters, 410 South Michigan avenue. Mr. Christopoulos came to Chicago from London, where he was secretary general of the Greek ministry of press and information. Mrs. Mary Spannon is in charge of the reception, and Miss Theodora Limberopoulos is president of the club.

"THE FALLEN SPARROW."

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

A grim and baffling story about an American escaped from Nazi torture. . . . He's dedicated to the task of wreaking vengeance on those who had tried to break him and who had caused the death of his friend, a New York detective. The detective had been responsible for his deliverance and had arranged for him the months on an Arizona ranch that had restored his tottering mind and body.

In a group of supposed refugees he finds grave reason for suspicion. And he falls in love with one of them—lovely Toni Donne. . . .

The film would not interest you if I were to tell you more of the story.

John Garfield gives a very convincing—and therefore very painful—portrayal of John McKittrick—tortured because he will not reveal the hiding place of the tattered flag under which he had fought with the International Brigade in the Spanish revolution. Hitler has sworn to add it to his collection of flags of lost causes. . . . Walter Slezak is ominous as usual. . . . Martha O'Driscoll grows on you. As for Maureen O'Hara -- SHE IS GORGEOUS, playing the so sweet, so sad so—and so—Toni.

But, as some one remarked in the projection room, what GETS you, is the realization that things could be so simplified by just calling in the FBI. . . . Of course then, there would be fewer movie mysteries and, of course, that might be all right.

See you tomorrow.

'Courage Stout'

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1943: By William MacLeod Raine)

INSTALMENT I.

> "Cowards fear to die; but courage stout,
> Rather than live in snuff, will be put out."
> Sir Walter Raleigh.

Austin Reynolds tied his horse in the cottonwood grove that ran up to the draw at the foot of the hill. He could tell by the number of mounts there that most of those coming to the funeral must have arrived already. As he read the brands on some of the cow ponies, he smiled grimly. They belonged to gentlemen who had come a long way to pay their respects to the memory of Stuart Lane, much farther than they would have come to see him if he had been alive.

He followed the path up the hill, taking the ascent with an easy stride. His strong figure moved with a confident assurance, none the less because he knew he would not be welcome here.

The Lane family stood alone at one side of the grave. Janet was about 18. Now she would have to be the head of the house. The little girl clinging to her hand was crying. Harry, a weedy boy 13 years old, gulped down the sobs that kept rising to his throat. Once Janet put an arm around his shoulders to comfort him, but she did not let it stay long for fear of hurting his pride.

With the exception of three women the rest of those present were men. Reynolds let his gaze drift coolly over them as Finn Wood read selections from the Scriptures. They were brown, hard-bitten sons of the saddle, wearing levis or chaps, spurs attached to their dusty boots. When the eyes of any of them met those of Reynolds, the owner of the Triangle R read in them a fierce hatred, an angry resentment of his audacity in attending the funeral. Stuart Lane had been shot down from ambush, and the general opinion was that the killer was some assassin hired by the big cattlemen because the settler had homesteaded a quarter section along a stream Reynolds and other large ranchers wanted to dam in order to irrigate alfalfa fields for their stock.

Finn Wood was not a preacher, but he had been a Christian many years. He spoke very simply about the dead homesteader they were here to bury. Stuart Lane was a God-fearing man, he told them, with no ill will in his heart for anybody. None of them knew why this good man, so greatly needed by his family, was called from them now. Somewhere in their community was an unknown man with the brand of Cain on him. He might think he had escaped, but this was not so. God had his eye on him, and to the day of his death and afterward he would have to pay for his evil deed.

As soon as the services were ended, Finn Wood and his wife drove the Lanes home in their wagon. On the path back of Reynolds walked a group who took occasion to talk at but not to him.

"I reckon he came to make sure his killer got Lane," a heavy voice sneered bitterly.

The owner of the Triangle R did not look around. It was not necessary. Jess Blackburn was talking, a huge hulk of a fellow with little pig eyes set in a beefy face. He had been out of circulation lately.

Reynolds recognized the next voice as that of Allan Dunn. He knew it well, for Allan had worked as a rider for the Triangle R before he slipped across the line and became a rustler.

"Hush yore mouth, fellow," it jeered. "Don't you know you are talkin' about one of the big moguls of this Floor River country? You're liable to get yore name on the black list if you don't watch out."

The third man of the group tittered. He was Luke Fox, a person of no account, not expert even in his own lawless specialty of branding other men's calves.

Austin Reynolds strode down the path, paying no apparent attention to those behind him.

A dozen men were in the cottonwoods, some moving toward their mounts and others in the saddle. Their gazes focused on Reynolds as if he had been a magnet for them.

He faced them almost disdainfully, altho he knew he had walked into a situation that might at any moment become perilous. These men were not all scoundrels. Some were homesteaders, decent enough citizens, even if they might at times under the pressure of hunger eat slow elk. That's what they called rustled beef.

One was a storekeeper from Sundog patronized largely by the nesters and another ran a saloon in the same town. In the background, a cynical but interested observer, stood Neal MacGowan, a cattleman with a big spread but one ostracized by the other stockmen of the district. In the entire group the searching gaze of Reynolds could not find a friendly face.

Blackburn put the feeling into words. "Take a good look at him, boys—the fellow who laid Stuart Lane in that wooden box and has come to gloat to over what he has done."

A smooth faced lad on a pinto horse ripped out an oath. "What harm had Lane ever done him, outside of taking up a homestead he had a right to locate?" he demanded.

"What's eatin' you, Russ?" Dunn asked with scornful irony. "Are you claimin' any nester has a right to his own water holes when Mr. Big here wants them?"

Reynolds pulled the slip knot that tied the bridle reins of his cow pony to the limb of a cottonwood.

"Any more than I have a right to my calves when Mr. Little wants them," he replied hardily.

Dunn took a threatening step toward him. "If you's claimin' I take yore calves—"

"I'm claiming nothing just now, except that I do not know who killed Stuart Lane or why he did it," Reynolds interrupted.

"That sounds fishy to me," Blackburn cried, and moved closer. "Who wanted that stretch of water Lane homesteaded? Whose cattle did he aim to keep off it by fencing?"

Reynolds' voice was dry and scornful. "Lane was not a rustler. Do you think I was starting to rub out every settler nesting round the Triangle R?"

Dunn answered that. "Starting with Lane. Why not? He was in yore way more than the others. You figured you needed that stretch of water, and the others might scare and light out after you had bumped him off. Don't try to pull the wool over our eyes. We know yore high and mighty crowd. You used to pay us five bucks apiece to put the Triangle R on maverick calves, but when we burned our own brands on 'em we were rustlers, by God. You made the laws to suit yoreselves, and we were only a bunch of slaves working for you."

The cattleman sensed a rising tide of hatred that might sweep over and destroy him. He had thought his reasons good for coming to this funeral, but he realized he had made a mistake.

For an instant his glance fell on Neal MacGowan, who was taking in the scene with detached and sardonic amusement, the bridle of his chestnut cow pony held negligently in one hand.

"The Chimney Crashed"

By Alice Ormond Campbell

Copyright: 1943: by Alice Ormond Campbell

CONCLUSION.

"Stop a minute, Ronald," said Wren. "What put Cyril and Jo onto the treasure?"

"Their ears. More vital, their eyes. You know the old powder cupboard between Peter's room and Sam's? Its inner panels are split into inch-wide cracks. I, myself, spotted Joanna coming from Sam's quarters, while a bit earlier Cyril prowled in. Joanna made her own plan. She reached Bexminster on Monday, found a hotel and —"

"I knew it!" Wren cried. "She registered as me. Why me? It proves she's loony—unless she believes her identity would never be questioned?"

"Spite probably warped her judgment, Wren. A fictitious name would have been better. All she intended was that if she did contrive to lift stuff from this cottage Joanna Fripp's presence hereabouts needn't be known. A trunkcall to Auberley Court informed her your arrival was delayed. She took pains to park herself in a room she could step out of easily and what followed is her secret. We'll never know how many night tramps she made to and from Foxgloves, or what induced her to check her suitcase at the station and vanish utterly on Wednesday night, but the odds are she came here meaning to put in an all-night hunt, found you in residence, and had to turn back.

"With her open descent on you," Ronald concluded grimly, "you were to be her cover. It was the one respect in which she and Cyril saw eye to eye. That's how I found you, my darling — unsuspecting, hemmed in by blood-suckers, and worse. Podder might have been you. A ton-weight of garden roller — Molesey's booby-trap — barely missed crushing you to pulp. Not to mention my own failure to put the murderer out of action—"

"Don't!" her eyes misted. "You still couldn't know."

"Some nerve," he said bitterly, "getting you half murdered and then expecting you to share my captain's pay!"

"Dunce! You will keep forgetting your first editions." Her swathed arms drew him down. For long moments his face, warm and humble, pressed close against hers. "By the way," she asked presently, "purely as a matter of interest, what becomes of this stuff now?"

"Search me!"

Her heart sang. She knew now the true reason he had burned to find this accursed treasure. As long as it lay hidden it was an adder, coiled to strike at herself

Suddenly she gave a cry. "The ring, Ronald! I'm still wearing it. Here, take it along. O, dear, isn't it rather marvelous. I must say I hate giving it up."

Together they admired the big, shallow emerald, water-pale against her brown skin. From the doorway a voice said quizzically,

"Finder?" she repeated bluntly. "The finder's dead."

"Never having declared her find. That alters things, if I've any understanding of the law. Will it interest you two to learn that the inspector and sergeant have just upturned a welter of gold pieces from a moss grown drain? And that in my opinion none of this wealth can possibly rank as residuary estate?"

"Can't, you mean, be inherited?" Ronald frowned.

"Treasure trove, captain? You've heard it defined. The victim has made it abundantly clear that at her death the St. Mary Axe valuables were in a legal sense ownerless. Not, therefore, hers to bequeath. If she had informed the treasury . . . but that's the whole point, she didn't. Technically, then, the treasure reverts to its former status. Found hidden. Yes, and by whom? The coins must be our detectives' pigeon. The jewels and so on—surely, Miss Dancey, you will put in your claim?"

Wren's mouth was dry. "Won't those two contest—?"

"Brockett and his cousin? Not a leg to stand on. Brockett's already wading knee-deep in mire. As for Miss Fripp"—a slow grin. "It's an understood thing all her actions last night were performed in a state of profound somnambulism. Just as well, with three witnesses to swear she tore a certain bag from the protectress by brute force."

Still the entranced pair stared. Still the stunned fingers clung. The chief constable smiled as he backed thru the door.

Kidney Loaf: Buy a 1 pound beef kidney, wash in cold water, drain well and grind, including the internal fat. Soak 8 slices of bread in 1 cup milk. Combine ground kidney and bread with ¼ cup bacon drippings, 2 beaten eggs, ½ minced green pepper, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons finely minced onion, and ½ teaspoon sage. Bake in loaf pan in moderate [350 degree F.] oven for 1½ hours. [If kidneys are unobtainable, buy another unrationed meat, such as ox joints, tripe, brains and make into a tempting dish.]

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Grow your own bean sprouts for chop suey and other Chinese dishes. It's easy, and fun. When you buy the soybeans, ask the dealer about their sprouting qualities. I have found that some stores can't tell you what variety of soybeans you are getting, but that they usually know whether they are good sprouters or not. Small, light colored beans usually are preferred. They may be sprouted in a flower pot, or in a large can with an opening cut in the bottom for drainage.

We have found that it isn't practical for most families to try to sprout more than ½ pound of soybeans at one time, for once sprouted, the beans are perishable and should be used promptly. They increase in volume at least three times, during sprouting, so they should be placed in a large enough container.

To sprout the beans, wash and discard split ones. Soak over night in water to which a pinch of chlorinated lime has been added. Drain, place in clean flower pot or other container with drain at bottom. Sprinkle with lukewarm water three times a day. At night water them well and add a pinch of chlorinated lime. The lime prevents the beans from souring. For white sprouts, cover the container with a paper sack to exclude light. Make it a big enough sack so that there will be circulation of air. The beans will start sprouting by the third day, if not before, and after four or five days, are ready for use. Wash them well to flush away the loosened skins. Cook about 15 or 20 minutes in water to cover. The cooking will loosen the remaining skins, which may be skimmed off. The bean sprouts are then ready for use.

Chop Suey.
[Serves six.]

- ½ pound pork, veal, or beef, cut in cubes
- ¼ cup drippings or oil
- 2 large teaspoons salt
- 2 large onions, sliced
- 1 green pepper, cut in long shreds
- ¾ pound sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup celery, cut in strips
- 4 chicken or beef bouillon cubes
- 4 cups hot water
- 2½ cups fresh soybean sprouts
- 1 tablespoon sugar or molasses
- ¼ cup cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce

Brown cubed meat in fat, add salt, and cook gently until meat is tender. Add onion, green pepper, mushrooms, and celery. Cook for about 1 minute. Add bouillon cubes dissolved in hot water. Mix cornstarch and sugar to paste with a little cold water, and add, stirring, to mixture. Cook, stirring frequently, until sauce thickens and becomes clear. Simmer about 10 mintes longer, add bean sprouts and soy sauce and heat just to boiling. Serve over cooked rice. This chop suey may be reheated several times.

To obtain complete directions for sprouting soybeans and other recipes for using them, write to me in care of THE TRIBUNE, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Toasted Loaf.

- 1 unsliced sandwich loaf of bread
- ½ cup softened margarine
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon celery seed

Cut all crusts except bottom one from bread. Cut bread from top to bottom, crosswise 8 or 10 times, and lengthwise once. Combine remaining ingredients and spread between slices and on top and sides of loaf. Toast in a slow [300 degrees] oven about half and hour or until heated thru and delicately browned.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Mrs. Mucklestone.

The Woman's City club will have a tea for distinguished guests next Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the clubrooms, 210 South Michigan avenue, to honor the women's army corps. Major Doris Epperson, WAC director in the 6th service command, her staff, and Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, chairman of the woman's division of Gov. Green's committee on WAC recruiting, have been invited to be present.

The Chicago unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services is aiding the WAC recruiting drive in Illinois by providing motor transport drivers and clerical assistants for district 3 of the 6th service command. The women are co-operating with 25 army officers in the campaign.

Col. C. J. Otjen, commanding district 3, reports that more volunteers for the AWVS motor transport service are needed. They must provide their own cars and be on call either day or evening. Clerical volunteers will assist the army during the evening hours only.

Woman interested in signing up with the AWVS to help the WAC recruiting drive should apply to the placement division, AWVS, 160 North La Salle street, Andover 3380. The drive closes on Dec. 7.

The WAC campaign will receive added impetus at a meeting of the Chicago Altrusa club, to be held tonight at 6:30 p. m. in the Cordon club. Mrs. Bernice T. Van Der Vries will be toastmaster, and speakers will include Lt. Col. C. C. Curtis Jr., commanding officer of the induction station in the Insurance Exchange building, Capt. Margaret R. Stewart, head of WAC procurement in the Chicago area, and Mrs. Mucklestone.

Christmas already is a reality in Red Cross ranks. The production department's display, in room 304 at 506 South Wabash avenue, will be open to the public until Thursday, but the work will continue up to the holiday.

New clothing, layettes, dolls, other toys, quilts, books, sweaters and many other practical articles which will go to needy families of service men are being exhibited. About 1,500 Chicago area families, selected by the home service corps, will receive the gifts.

Mrs. Charles Krutckoff is in charge of Christmas packaging, which has been going on for several weeks in a flurry of green and red tissue. Mrs. Krutckoff, who also is chairman of the disaster emergency closet, has as her assistants Mrs. Emily Bates, Mrs. Hazel Kellerman, and a committee composed of heads of production units.

Also participating in the Red Cross Christmas program is the Junior Red Cross, whose members have made gift boxes which have been sent to children overseas and also have created Christmas decorations for overseas camps, Noel menus for navy use on board ship, and decorations for several camps and hospitals. The junior unit also is supplying dolls and other toys for the disaster closet baskets for Chicago area families.

The Red Cross motor corps is ready to distribute the packages, and the Gray Ladies hospital and recreation corps is handling gifts for men in army and navy hospitals. The camp and hospital committee is responsible for holiday trees and decorations, phonograph records, refreshments, gift wrappings and special Christmas gifts for military and naval hospitals in the Chicago area.

Persons who wish to contribute new clothing or other items to this Christmas project should call Red Cross headquarters, Wabash 7850.

White Topper Is Contrast for Winter Suit

BY REA SEEGER.

New white hopes for any new or dated black or winter navy blue suits and costumes are chalk white hats. They're usually small and smart hats, the kind to nestle down in your short curled coiffure or to curve dashingly down over one side of the head. The flirtatious little tricornes or snippy little bicornes all make exciting new headline collections.

You'll find suave coronet shaped hats of panne velvet, in white, some with a black foil of velvet or grosgrain ribbon bow or a mist of black veiling to shadow the eye line. White felt, manipulated to form a high outline and then twisted in the center, makes the smartest of serene brow hats without anything to mar the snowy perfection of fabric and draping. Wool fabrics, also in white, are swathed in outline to dramatize a headline without covering the coiffure. Many hats are designed and cut to make the most of a widow's peak hairline or the precision center part of a madonna head dress.

There are spanking white bengaline hats, some of elliptically shaped discs with pert bows of the bengaline attached to the sides. Other models have the alluring tricorne silhouette with a tiny shallow crown and deftly upturned brim to accentuate the three corners.

All these new white hats stress sleek, small outlines. Add the flattery of a veil and you have midwinter millinery to keep spirits high.

Women to Recall World War Service at Reunion Tonight

The 17th annual reunion of the Patriotic Service League of War Camp Community Service, scheduled at 8 o'clock tonight at the Woman's City club, 410 South Michigan avenue, will bring together women who as girls during the first World war organized to offer their services in camps, hospitals, and recreation centers. More than 2,000 were in the league, and some of the former leaders and founders are expected to be on hand tonight. Among them are Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, now of the Woman's City club; Miss Myrtle Carpenter, now with the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Mable Morrow, head of the Chicago Half-Orphans' home; Mrs. Harvey Tyler, and Mrs. Thomas H. Ratcliffe.

Miss MacKay to Talk.

The Educational Secretaries of the Chicago Board of Education will have Miss Ruth MacKay of the editorial staff of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as guest speaker at an 8 o'clock meeting tonight at headquarters.

Sally Receives New Appeals for Baby Furniture

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The present scarcity of nursery furniture of all kinds presents a perplexing problem for many young mothers. We have calls for baby beds of all sizes from every part of the city. Many of the requests come from the young wives of service men who are living on a family allowance. As a rule, they are unable to afford to purchase baby furniture.

The same problem confronts an agency which cares for children thruout the entire state. There are many dependent infants who could be placed in boarding homes, if nursery furniture could be obtained. There are five or six women who are willing and able to care for infants but lack baby furniture, particularly cribs and buggies. We hope that readers who have either of these items will notify us, so that we can place them where they are most needed.

If any reader has a large size stroller, Mrs. B., on the south side, would be grateful for it. Her five year old son wears a brace and is not able to walk. Because the mother is frail, it is impossible for her to carry the child any distance. A heavy stroller would be of great assistance to her.

MARY LOUISE MANN.

Miss Mary Louise Mann's engagement to Chaplain Richard C. Hertz, first lieutenant in the army, stationed at Fort Ord, Cal., has been announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Louis L. Mann of Woodlawn avenue. Miss Mann's fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hertz of Milwaukee, is on leave from the North Shore Congregation Israel in Glencoe, where he is assistant rabbi. Dr. Mann is rabbi of the Chicago Sinai congregation.

White Collar GIRL

—BY RUTH MACKAY—

Day and Night.

Morn—
My collar is white,
My nails are red,
My hair is an upsweep
High on my head.
Noon—
My collar is wilting,
My nails are chipping,
My very sleek updo
Is definitely slipping.
Night—
My collar's a mess,
My nails are horrid,
My pompadour's falling
All over my forehead.
So-o—
Tho fresh you may be
By the dawn's early light,
One day in an office
And you are a fright!
BETSY OF LA SALLE-WACKER.

White Collar Mother.

While waiting for a package to be wrapped I was writing a letter to my son in service. It was a little on the scribble side and part of it was written on an empty envelope, but nonetheless it was about the dog and a new winter dog coat, about a birthday cake just mailed, about a new job, about a ride on the subway. As I finished it, a woman remarked she had not written her son in service for two weeks because she is too busy. So, I told her I am busy, too, but I snatch time by writing on trains, buses, street cars, or in waiting rooms, and that I always carry a pencil and paper with me.

It's strange how many pertinent thoughts come to mind while riding on a bus or street car—less serious, perhaps, than in the privacy of a home. Interesting things spring up, such as noting that the only sign in the new subway is "No Smoking" or that there is a store where a real Indian sits in the window making jewelry [just as we saw on our trip to the southwest]. Or maybe a funny cartoon is glimpsed over the shoulder of the person sitting in the seat ahead. Surprising how many different ideas come casually this way so that there is never a lack of things to write.

This suggestion, then, I pass along to other white collar mothers. It is good for the letter writer as well as for the boy in service, for by the time home is reached the tired feeling is gone and the letter is written. No need to wait two weeks to write—it's simple to send a pleasant chat full of everyday things which mean so much to the son in service. MOM.

Want to Help?

Today the U. S. O. at 131 South Wabash avenue opens a shopping and gift wrapping service for men in service. Paper, string, cardboard, corrugated paper, inclosure cards, gift wrappings—all are needed. If you have some on the top shelf of your closet will you leave them at the U. S. O. center?

Adwomen's Club to Give 26th Anniversary Dinner

The Women's Advertising Club of Chicago will celebrate its 26th anniversary with a dinner program tomorrow night at the Medinah club. Guest speaker will be Paul Hollister of the Columbia Broadcasting system in New York, whose topic will be "United States Radio in War and Post-War." A musical including numbers by the male quartet, "The Pie-eyed Pipers of Harmony," also will be given.

Rotate Duties of Household with Children

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"We were a large family," said a woman to me the other day, "and we could not afford to have any help, so the housework had to be shared, and the boys as well as the girls were expected to help. Like all children, none of us really liked sweeping, dishwashing, and preparing vegetables, but it all got done without much 'grousing.' And I believe the chief reason for that was that Mother let us choose the thing we liked best to do. Of course dishwashing was the most disliked of any chore, but by having several of us do it together it wasn't so bad. Incidentally, that was one thing we did do turnabout."

If you have several children you might try that system in getting the housework done. But if you want the children to learn the various angles of housekeeping you might let them change about. Also, boys and girls get "fed up" with doing the same job day after day, but if you will let them exchange when you see this happening you will prevent the boredom that so often comes with monotony.

You may notice that the friend I was talking with remarked, "Of course dishwashing was the most disliked of all the work we had to do." In a survey made among school children of all ages, one question was: What do you like least to do at home to help your mother? And the replies were almost unanimously: Do dishes.

So, if possible, don't expect the same child to do dishes all the time. And if you will see that there are plenty of clean dish towels, if you will lend a helping hand with what I call the "organizing" of the kitchen after a meal [not to mention clearing up as you go along in cooking it], I believe you will find that dishwashing will meet with less disfavor.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 14.—All difficulties are forgotten [sometimes] if a picture turns out to be a smash. Anyway, Mitch Leisen has sent the script of "Victoria Grandolet," Henry Bellaman's novel, to Joan Fontaine. It will be John Houseman's first production, and done in color. . . . It's a cinch Van Johnson will get the lead in Ted Lawson's "Thirty Seconds Over Tokio." His test has Mervyn Leroy clapping hands. . . . When Bob Hope finishes "Road to Utopia" and another for Samuel Goldwyn, he'll hit the trail for the South Pacific. While in New York he ran into Madeleine Carroll, who said she'd come back to Hollywood and do a picture if she could do one with him. Paramount writers have bought themselves a new supply of aspirin.

How's That Again?

I don't believe Jack Barrymore's life will be done by Paramount with Fredric March starred. March is good, but not good enough to play Jack. No one is. He stood alone. One of the last and best pictures Jack did was "Midnight," which starred Claudette Colbert. Following that, Arthur Hornblow wanted him for another, but the star wouldn't have him, claiming he was difficult. The truth was, he was too adept a scene stealer. The last two years of Jack's life were made happier by Rudy Vallee's sharing the spotlight with him on his air show, but the movies treated him badly. Most of them refused to have him. Now, less than a year after he's gone, they're willing to put his life on the screen. There might be profit in it.

Done with Mirrors.

Paulette Goddard has had her dressing room done over entirely with mirrors except for the ceiling. That's done in baby blue. . . . Frederic Lonsdale mighty chummy with Victor Saville. Does that mean he's up for a Columbia job, too? Time will tell. Frederic's Broadway play is poor, but is doing big business. Heck! Any show does business in New York these days. . . . Roy Roberts, who played in "Roger Touhy," had a letter from an inmate of the prison at Joliet, Ill. The prisoner said he'd be out in three months and he liked Roberts so much on the screen he'd like to make Roberts an offer, but neglected to say what for.

Arizona Trips Fruitful.

Charles Ruggles' trip to Arizona was fruitful. He picked up the diary, woven into a novel, of an Arizona pioneer, George Hand, who died in 1887. He was butcher, miner, Indian fighter, barkeep, and died as janitor of the county jail. Chuck wants some one to produce it with himself starred. . . . He's now playing Betty Hutton's pa in "Incendiary Blonde." . . . Dennis O'Keefe and Paul Parry have saved themselves from the laundry shortage. They bought their laundress a second hand car and now she drives herself to and fro. Which reminds me that butchers of Beverly are fair haired boys these days. They have regular customers who weekly bring them pies, cakes, and homemade candy. They couldn't be happier, and know their glory will be over soon as rationing flies out the window.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The line between success and failure is much thinner than most players imagine. In countless cases there is no need for a complicated or "advanced" squeeze or coup—only for a small amount of foresight and a smattering of technique. For example:

South, dealer.

♠ 10 3
♥ Q J 10 6 4 2
♦ 6 4 3 2
♣ A

WEST
♠ A K 9 6
♦ Q 10 9 8
♣ K Q J 4

EAST
♠ 8 7 5 4 2
♣ 9 8 7 5 3 2

SOUTH
♠ Q J
♥ A K 8 5 3
♦ A K J 7
♣ 10 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Double	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

If East had been bold he would have bid four spades over North's four heart shutout, but admittedly it is not conducive to aggressiveness to be dealt no higher card than a nine. A four spade contract would have been cold except against double-dummy defense.

West opened the spade king, cashed the ace, then shifted to the club four. Declarer drew the outstanding trumps, then led a diamond from dummy, and finessed the jack, not caring greatly whether or not the finesse succeeded since it appeared that the rest of the tricks would be his. This, however, was wishful thinking. Not only did West capture the diamond jack but he still had a second diamond stopper, and the excellent contract was down one.

Declarer did not distinguish himself in this deal. Ten tricks, and the contract, were there for the taking. The diamond break, tho bad, was not unforeseeable, and in any case it was an absolute cinch to guard against such a break. After drawing trumps all declarer had to do was ruff his remaining club [to strip his hand of that suit as well as spades], then lead a diamond from dummy and merely cover whatever card East played. In this case it would be the five spot, so declarer's seven would be called for. West, upon winning, would either have to return a diamond to South's A-K-J, or a black card that declarer could ruff in either hand while discarding a diamond from the other.

Up-Tilted Nose Means Feeling of Inferiority

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

It's odd but true, there's many a girl who considers herself such a rare little bundle of charm that she finds other people just too utterly boring. She classes herself as a pretty neat little pigeon because she may happen to have more than two smooth sweaters in her wardrobe, a face and figure that can arouse a stag line or perhaps just a little more of that folding money than the next girl. She thinks her I. Q. is just a little higher, her dating-appeal just a little stronger and when all God's chillun got shoes—well, she's got two pair.

You can catch her by the cool attitude toward other girls or fellows who aren't in her crowd. You see her at dances refusing to speak to girls she has sat next to in history class all year just because they don't clique. You catch her slinging those cold and haughty looks that would really freeze you. She has so much on the ball that she's afeared that the bourgeoise wouldn't do right by little Nell. So she refuses to mix. She's a snob and proud of it.

Such an attitude is strictly stock, strictly off the cob. It usually comes from an inferiority complex hidden under an expensive, all-wool sweater or a station wagon coat with an expensive, sewed-in label. It's easier to stay aloof than to fail to make the grade by mixing. It's easy to explain away the cause but it's harder to wipe out the hurts that these same sweet chicks give to many girls who have much more on the ball but whose families aren't in the country club financial bracket.

And odds are ten to one that a girl with her nose in the air is strictly a light operator—short on real poise, charm and personality. Put her in a crowd by herself, dependent on her own resources to make friends and influence people and—whoops! there goes Mrs. Astor!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—Sid Luckman, the kid who used to chuck a cheap football while dodging automobiles in the streets of Brooklyn, today pitched a pigskin as it was never pitched before. He flicked his devastating right arm 32 times and with that smashed a truckload of National Football league records while pitching the Bears to a 56 to 7 massacre of the Giants, the worst thrashing ever absorbed by New York.

Only two other teams, in fact, ever amassed more points in the entire league history: The Bears themselves, when they routed Washington 73 to 0 in the playoff three years back, and the 1934 Philadelphians who piled up 64 against Cincinnati.

But, in both those instances, the huge total was the product of an entire team. Today, it was the work of virtually one man—Luckman. Before the amazed eyes of 56,681 admiration-filled fans—the season's largest gathering—the famed Columbia alumnus flipped seven of the eight Bear touchdowns, toppling Sammy Baugh's mark of six set against the Dodgers only two weeks ago.

Statistics Tell Story.

But that's only the beginning. Just cast a hungry eye at these other juicy record statistics. [If not interested, skip over lightly and pick up further down the line]:

1. Sid, in completing 21 of his 32 tosses, piled up a new individual high of 453 yards that far exceeded Packer Cecil Isbell's mark of 333 yards set last year against the Cardinals.
2. His staggering yardage made possible the team's total passing distance of 508 yards, which easily shattered the 423 of the Packers set that same day against the Cards, and also supplied the major portion of:
3. The 702 total yards gained by the Bears, which smashed their own 613 high accumulated against the Cards in '41.
4. The Luckman touchdown parade made it possible, too, for Bob Snyder to kick eight points after touchdown, topping Redskin Riley Smith's old mark set in '37. Today's work also gave Snyder a season total of 33 points to tie the season record set last year by Don Hutson of the Packers.

But, you can disregard every figure completely and get a vivid pic-

November.

Along the pathway of the ebbing fall
Comes bleak November with its pick and spade
To dig the graves and have the bells to toll
Announcing winter's frosty cavalcade.
And squirrels sniff the scent of coming snow,
While the grim sexton waits for you and me;
But age is kind, we have not far to go
And Easter bells will ring within four months or so.

REDSKINS BEAT LIONS, 42 TO 20; BAUGH STARS

Sinkwich Hurls Two Scoring Passes.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 (AP).—Sammy Baugh turned in one of his greatest football performances today to lead the champion Washington Redskins to a 42 to 20 triumph over Frankie Sinkwich and the Detroit Lions before 35,540 chilled fans.

Baugh passed for four Washington touchdowns, intercepted four of Sinkwich's tosses and set the Lions back on their heels repeatedly with accurate quick kicks.

Sammy's feats shaded the fine work of Sinkwich, the former Georgia All-American, who connected with two touchdown passes, scored another himself on an interception and made several long runs, including a 79 yard sprint.

The Lions struck twice in the third. Sinkwich's 79 yard dash and his pass to Jack Matheson accounted for the first tally. Then Sinkwich raced 40 yards for another touchdown after intercepting a Baugh pass.

PACKERS DEFEAT CARDS, 35 TO 14

23 Points for Hutson; Handler Perturbed.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 14.—The Green Bay Packers had as much fun this afternoon as they had woe last week. They bounced back from their seven day old 21 to 7 loss to the Bears by walloping the Cardinals today, 35 to 14, before 10,831 in State Fair park at suburban West Allis.

The Packers dedicated the afternoon to Don Hutson, who scored three touchdowns and kicked five consecutive points. The 23 points were one short of Hutson's personal scoring record for one game established last year against the Cardinals. The all-time individual record for one game is the 40 points Ernie Nevers scored for the Cards against the Bears in 1929. Hutson now has 78 points for the season.

Hutson Has Busy Day.

It was the eighth straight defeat for the Cardinals this season and the Packers didn't keep the chilly clients waiting very long. They scored after six minutes in the first quarter, when Hutson took a 9 yard pass from Irv Comp. Midway in the second quarter, Hutson grabbed a 4 yard scoring pass from Tony Canadeo. In the same quarter Ted Fritsch smashed over from the 1 yard line after Hutson had set up the score on a 41 yard pass from Canadeo.

After the Cardinals scored early in the third quarter on Bob Morrow's series of four plunges for 21 yards, Jacunski took a pass from Lou Brock on an 86 yard scoring play. The Packers let Hutson close the scoring books when he intercepted Ronnie Cahill's pass on the Green Bay 16 and ran all the way. The Cards scored their second touchdown with less than a minute to play on Cahill's 7 yard pass to Eddie Rucinski.

Card Scores Called Back.

On two other occasions the Cardinals crossed the Packer goal line for apparent touchdowns, but, to their dismay, both were called back. Other items ruffling the usual serenity of Phil Handler, the Cards' coach, were penalties inflicted for

Trojans Will Meet Huskies in Rose Bowl

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 14 (AP).—The University of Washington and the University of Southern California will be the rival football teams in the annual Rose bowl contest at Pasadena New Year's day, a special committee of the Pacific Coast conference decided today.

This game also will decide the Pacific Coast conference championship.

The committee, after its closed meeting, said in a statement:

"The Tournament of Roses association and the Pacific Coast conference explored in full the possibility of playing a game of traditional east-west character, but from all points of view, including the military, the Washington-Southern California contest was chosen as the most desirable and practicable under present war conditions.

Dragons Win 6th; Defeat Gaels, 14 to 6

BY FRANK NORRIS.

St. George High school, north section champion of the Catholic league, closed its sectional schedule yesterday with a 14 to 6 victory over St. Philip before 2,500 in the latter's stadium.

It was the sixth straight sectional victory for the Dragons, the only undefeated and untied team in league competition. St. George will meet Mount Carmel, south section champion, Sunday in Soldiers' field for the league title and the right to participate in the 10th annual Mayor Kelly bowl game on Nov. 27 against the City league champion. Proceeds from the bowl game will be turned over to Chicago's service men centers.

Gaels Score First.

St. Philip's Gaels outrushed and outpassed the Dragons thruout the entire first half and scored in the last minute on a pass play that covered 48 yards. Dick Forbes, Gael full back, pitched a pass 33 yards to Bill Nathan who caught it be-

HOOSIER TENPIN VICTORS NAMED

Riffert, Braun to Vie for National Title.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Hoosierdom yesterday announced two of its candidates for the third All-Star National individual match game bowling tournament, to be conducted over the alleys of the Auditorium Service Men's Center from Dec. 4 thru Dec. 12 by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

The Indiana representatives in 1943 bowling's biggest show are Earl Riffert, victor in the tourney held by Dan Scism of the Evansville Courier, and Gene Braun, who won the event conducted by Harry Scholl, sports editor of the Vidette-Messenger of Valparaiso.

Plenty of Coöperation.

Riffert and Braun are Nos. 5 and 6 among the qualifiers from tournaments sponsored by the newspapers who are coöperating with the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America. The other newspaper representatives to date are Bruce Slanker of the Oklahoma City Daily Times; Charles Stonebarger of the Dayton, O., News; Bob Eaves of the Nashville Tennessean, and Eddie Scott of the Kalamazoo Gazette. Norm Werry, sports editor of the Gary Post-Tribune, also plans to hold a qualifying trial, making three Hoosiers who will toe the line against the brilliant field headed by Champion Connie Schwoegler, Ned Day, and Johnny Crimmins.

Riffert, Evansville district champion, and a foreman in the wing machine shop at Servel, is 38 years old and the father of a 12 year old son. Earl's been knocking over pins for 15 years. He won the title with an average of 193½, tumbling 2,312 sticks in the 12 game battle to beat out Runner-up Michael Spotilla by 10 pins.

Braun Ex-Classic Leaguer.

Braun, the Valparaiso qualifier, is no stranger to big league bowling, having taken up the game in 1927 in Chicago, where he bowled with the Classic league and in several American Bowling congress tourneys. He was a member of the All-Star Traveling league in Iowa for five years

BY EDWARD BURNS.

In the flood the Hawks cascaded to a second place tie in the National league standings, Bill Mosienko of the Hawks became the league's individual scoring leader with 12 points—5 goals and 7 assists, and Doug Bentley, his line mate and last season's scoring champ, became runner-up, with four goals and seven assists.

High scorer for the night, however, was Cully Dahlstrom, with three goals and two assists.

Third Straight Victory.

The victory was the fourth of the season for the Hawks, their third in a row and their second over the Rangers.

The Rangers would have been more severely whipped but for their knack of scoring first in each period—in 33 seconds of the first period, in 1:56 of the second period, to effect a 2 to 2 tie, and in 2:36 of the third period, to shave the count to a comparatively short 6 to 4 lead. The Hawks in the remainder of the third period played spectacularly, topping off their 10 goal total when, with two Hawks and one Ranger in the penalty box, Capt. Earl Seibert skated the length of the rink for the tally.

Bill Thoms and George Allen made the goals which gave the Hawks a 2 to 1 lead at the end of the first period. Dahlstrom, Mush March, and Virgil Johnson got assists.

Dahlstrom Scores Twice.

In the second period, Dahlstrom scored twice, Bentley once, and Johnny Gottselig once. Thoms got two assists, Allen, Seibert, Mosienko, Don Campbell, and March one each during this session.

In the third period, Mosienko, March, Dahlstrom, and Seibert scored. Thoms got his second assist and third points. Dahlstrom and Mosienko also got assists.

The Hawks will meet the Boston Bruins here again Thursday. They beat the Bostonians here last Thursday, 6 to 4, for their first home victory.

Undefeated Irish and Seahawks Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The football season in the midwest will reach its climax Saturday as Michigan and Purdue, undefeated leaders in the Western conference race, complete their schedules against Ohio State and Indiana, respectively. Topping this program, however, is Notre Dame's engagement in its stadium with undefeated Iowa Pre-Flight.

Notre Dame won its eighth consecutive victory in an undefeated campaign by trouncing Northwestern, 25 to 6. In this amazing season, Notre Dame now has scored 312 points and 49 touchdowns and Saturday's result before a record crowd of 49,124 in Dyche stadium is the low total in the Notre Dame record.

Seahawks Not Tested.

The Iowa Seahawks conceivably may whip Notre Dame. The strength of the navy team has not been accurately measured since its eight victories have been marked up against second division teams in the Big Nine, against Missouri and Iowa State of the Big Six, Marquette, Fort Riley, and Camp Grant. As one of the officers scouting for Coach Don Faurot, Pre-Flight coach, remarked at Saturday's Notre Dame-Northwestern game, the Seahawk season begins and ends this week.

The Seahawks definitely have not been extended in any game this year. The squad of cadets is bolstered by officer material and includes several players who have had professional experience in addition to their full span of collegiate competition. Just how well this group will function under pressure of combat with the nation's No. 1 eleven remains to be determined, and the contest unquestionably will attract the largest crowd of the year in Notre Dame's stadium.

Superior Power Settles It.

Notre Dame has a great team, perhaps the best in its history, because it has speed and balanced power. The Irish can attack by running, by passing, and by power plays with equal proficiency. We believe Northwestern's young men played their best game of the 1943 season Saturday, yet after the first half they could not withstand the implacable application of superior line power. Notre Dame ran up the impressive total of 18 first downs by rushing and gained 320 yards on the ground.

JOHNNY SMALL BEATS NED DAY IN MATCH GAME

Making a comeback in the final five games after trailing by 39 pins thru the first half of the match, Johnny Small, Windy City Major league star, defeated Ned Day, former national match game champion from West Allis, Wis., by 74 pins in a special ten game duel that headlined the benefit program on Bensinger's Randolph street alleys yesterday afternoon. Small compiled an average of 206.3 pins against Day's 198.9 and picked up 113 pins in the second five games.

ST. GEORGE MOVES INTO FINALS

Van Verva, left half back of St. Philip, went around left end for seven yards in the second quarter of yesterday's game before he was tackled by John Pflum (76). Jim O'Donnell (22), St. George second string center, broke thru the line but not in time for the tackle. St. Philip was leading, 6 to 0, at the time but St. George tightened its defense and scored twice in the second half to win, 14 to 6.

and figured prominently in Detroit bowling during a six year residence there. The Valparaiso tournament, sponsored by the Vidette-Messenger and Inman's Recreation, attracted all of the outstanding tenpin athletics in Porter county.

Braun, who owns Valparaiso's largest laundry, led the qualifying round with a total of 1,991 for 10 games. His high game in this round was a 265.

Near Final Stage.

The Chicago qualifying rounds are nearing the round robin stage, which will begin at the five local centers next Saturday. The top eight men at each of the five sites on the basis of three game totals will become eligible for these round robins by next Friday night. They will then bowl their rivals seven four game blocks, with the two leaders gaining the main tournament in the Auditorium. Any bowler in the city is eligible to move into the final eight at any of the five centers by paying a $2 entry fee and bowling.

St. George Scores Twice in 2d Half; Defeats St. Philip, 14-6

St. George didn't hesitate in the second half. Alcock grabbed Jim Cassidy's kick off on his 10, reversed to the western sidelines, and galoped to the St. Philip 9 yard line, where he was shoved out of bounds by Van Verva.

St. George Leads, 7-6.

St. George made absolutely sure of its first sectional championship with its fourth period touchdown that began with Jim O'Malley's interception of a pass thrown by Capt. Tom O'Malley of St. Philip. Jim O'Malley was downed immediately by Nathan on the Dragons' 19.

A gain by Pflum and a penalty of 15 yards for unnecessary roughness on the Gaels gave St. George a first down on the 38. Ratcliffe then completed passes to Marty Wendell and Alcock and St. George had a first down on St. Philip's 47.

Ratcliffe Goes Over.

On the first play Ratcliffe drifted back and fired a 27 yard pass to Herb Hanson on the St. Philip 20 and he was shoved out of bounds by Van Verva on the Gaels 1 yard line. Ratcliffe lost a yard before going over for the game winning touchdown. He again booted the extra point.

Forbes and Tom O'Malley kept St. Philip in the ball game with their lightning short and long passes. St. Philip made 11 first downs, 8 by passing, two by rushing, and one on a penalty. The Dragons had nine first downs, five by passing, three by rushing, and one on a penalty.

Durnan Shuts Out Wings, 2-0, for Canadiens

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP).—The Montreal Canadiens, alone undefeated in the National Hockey league, extended their winning streak to five games tonight by blanking the Detroit Red Wings, 2 to 0, before 13,515. Elmer Lach and Gerry Heffernan scored for Montreal.

Bill Durnan, 29 year old rookie goalie, stopped 20 shots and gained the league's first shutout of the season. It likewise was the first time Detroit had been blanked in 67 games since the 1942 league playoffs. Durnan now has yielded eight goals in six games for a record in this season of wide open hockey.

The victory boosted Montreal's league lead to a game and a half over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

ture of how completely Luckman mastered the Giant secondary by just one incident. It wasn't one of Sid's spectacular scoring plays, which ranged anywhere from 4 to 54 yards. It was, in fact, a mere nine yard gain, but the circumstances involved demonstrates the absolute confidence Sid possessed in his art—and his complete disdain for the Giant defenders.

The play occurred early in the second period when Chicago led by only 14 to 7 and the game still shaped up as a real battle. The Bears were on a march that had bogged down on the Giant 40 as they faced a fourth-down-five-to-go situation. Instead of calling for the logical punt, Luckman lined up in short formation and casually shot a pass to Ray Nolting for first down on the 31. From there they struck to a swift touchdown and the rout was on.

Previously Sid had tossed the Bears to a two touchdown lead on a 4 yard flip to Jim Benton, a 31 yard effort to Connie Mack Berry, which the North Carolina State end took on the Giant 23 and sped across with just as the gun ended the first period.

27 Yard Pass to Pool.

But Luckman's gambling toss to Nolting on the next march tore the game wide open. That drive ended with Sid passing 27 yards to Hampton Pool, who bobbled the ball momentarily in the end zone, but held tight just before stepping out of the field.

Touchdown number four was the only overland tally of the day, Harry Clark crashing over from the 4 after Dante Magnani had sped 31 yards around the left flank on a picturesque run.

From then in it wasn't just skill, it was Luckman. He shot a 32 yard pass to Clark who took it flying on the 5 and hurtled over. The next one was a 13 yard pass on the goal line to Benton, capping a quick 76 yard march, and it was followed by a 4 yard pass to George Wilson after a march starting from the Giant 31 on Tuffy Leeman's fumble. Then came the record smashing pitch of 33 yards to Pool, who grabbed it right under Dave Brown's nose and scored.

PRO GOLF GROUP TO OPEN ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

The Professional Golfers' Association of America, one of sport's outstanding contributors to the war, began assembling yesterday for its 27th annual convention, which will get under way this morning at the Medinah club of Chicago, 505 North Michigan avenue.

Reeves Starts Up Comeback Trail in Bout Tonight

Jimmy Reeves, 1939 Golden Gloves and National A. A. U. light heavyweight champion, will open a comeback against Otis McGraw of Detroit in an eight round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Reeves, who is a moulder in a defense plant in Cleveland, has not boxed since being knocked out by Fitzey Fitzpatrick, also of Cleveland, on July 21. It was his ninth defeat in 36 professional starts. In his last Chicago appearance Jim stopped Johnny O'Brien of Calumet City a year ago.

SCHWABENS AND VIKINGS WIN IN SOCCER TOURNEY

BY OFFSIDE.

The Vikings defeated the Necaxas, 3 to 1, and the Schwabens won over the Hansas, 3 to 1, in the postponed Illinois state soccer first round matches, played in Winnemac park stadium yesterday.

Playing with the wind in the opening game the Necaxas executed a splendid short passing game, but Jimmy McDermott, after missing a penalty shot, slipped between the backs to give the Vikings a one goal lead at the interval. He again found the range after 28 minutes of play in the second half, receiving from Nels Brostrom, and driving from 15 yards into the net.

SCHWABENS TOP HANSA.

Both penalties came in the second quarter and led to the second and third Green Bay touchdowns. These decisions, plus the two Cardinal scores called back, so incensed Handler he dashed onto the field, with Owner Charlie Bidwill following and pushing Phil back off the gridiron. This incident was touched off when Ronnie Cahill grabbed a punt in the fourth period and ran 63 yards. An official called clipping on Johnny Grigas, who apparently had cleanly blocked two Packers.

The first interference penalty came when Tony Canadeo passed from the Cardinal 24 to the 15, where Andy Puplis and Hutson collided. The Packers were given the ball on the spot. After they scored and kicked the point for a 14 to 0 lead, Handler's salty language from the bench led to a most unusual penalty.

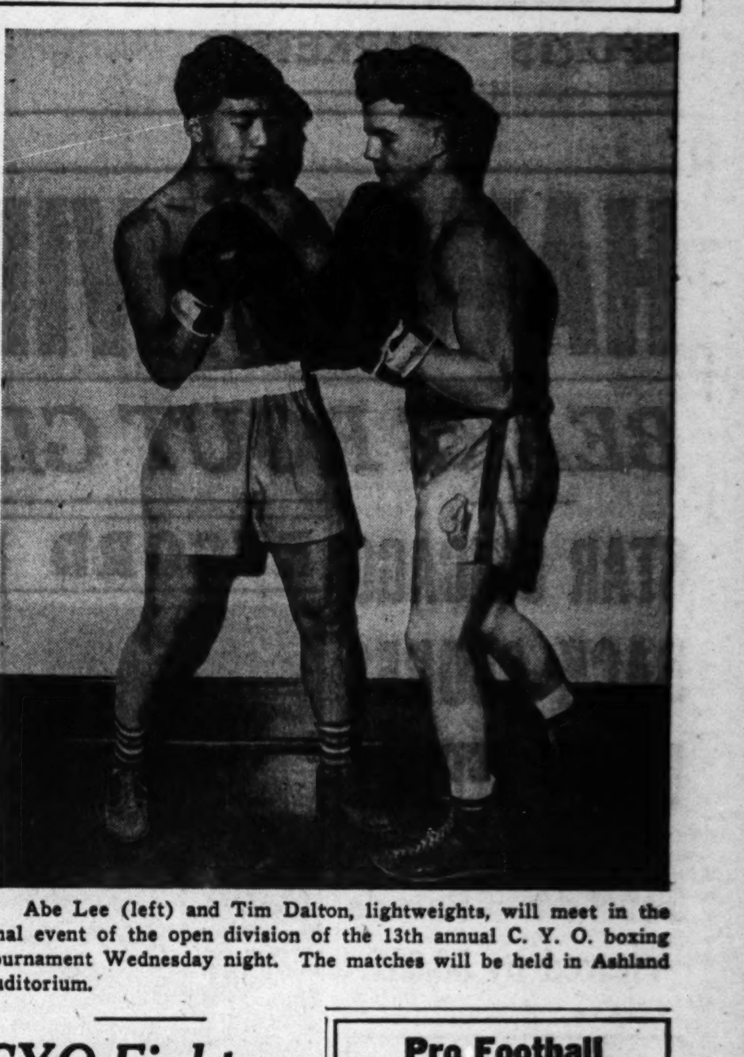
Penalized Twice on Kick-off.

When the Packers lined up to kick off, the ball was placed on the Cards' 45 yard line, a 15 yard penalty. After Chet Adams kicked off out of bounds, the officials then repeated the penalty, placing the ball in play on the Cards' 30, 15 yards back from the customary 45.

National league officials last night said the procedure was according to rule. This was their interpretation: Normally, the ball is put in play on the kicking team's 40; if the kickoff goes out of bounds the ball is placed on the receiving team's 45. When there is a penalty moving the kickoff nearer the receiving team's goal, the line on which the ball is put in play if the kickoff goes out of bounds also moves back a corresponding distance. In this case the Cards were penalized 15 yards before the kickoff, therefore the yard line on which the ball is to be put in play in case of a kickoff out of bounds also was moved back 15 yards.

The other apparent Cardinal touchdown was called back after Bob Morrow, late in the second quarter, took a lateral from Ed Rucinski on the Cards' 31. He ran down the sidelines all the way, but it was ruled he had stepped out on the Packers' 37.

C. Y. O. FINALISTS



Abe Lee (left) and Tim Dalton, lightweights, will meet in the final event of the open division of the 13th annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament Wednesday night. The matches will be held in Ashland auditorium.

CYO Fighters in Excellent Physical Trim

The 32 finalists in the 13th annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament ended hard training yesterday in C. Y. O. center gymnasium for 16 championship bouts in Ashland auditorium Wednesday, eight each in the open and novice classes.

All appeared in excellent physical condition but one of the most impressive performances displayed during the afternoon was turned in by Abe Lee, American-Chinese lightweight.

Matched with Dalton.

Lee, who is 17 years old, is matched with Tim Dalton, 1943 city Golden Gloves lightweight winner, for the C. Y. O. 135 pound open title.

Abe will be making his first appearance in a tournament. He joined the Saturday morning junior classes at the C. Y. O. when weighing only 100 pounds two years ago.

Fought Under Fitzpatrick.

In 17 contests, Lee has won all except one. Fitzpatrick said he will be mighty disappointed if Abe doesn't beat Dalton.

PULLMAN, INC., THIRD QUARTER PROFIT SLUMPS

Gross Is Up 83 Pct., but Net Falls 29.

Altho third quarter gross income of Pullman, Inc., increased 83 per cent over the corresponding period of 1942, net income dropped 29 per cent, the company reported yesterday.

Arms production and sleeping car traffic, at record levels along with some railroad equipment construction, lifted the gross income for the quarter to $126,107,557, compared with $68,736,096 last year, David A. Crawford, president, reported. Consolidated net income was $2,933,929, equal to 89 cents a capital share, compared with $4,156,325, or $1.26 a share, in the third quarter of 1942.

Gross income in the first nine months was $340,389,471 against $212,720,898 in the first three quarters of 1942. Net income was $7,434,252, or $2.25 a share, compared with $11,245,166, or $3.40 a share, in the 1942 period.

Taxes Take 78 Per Cent.

"Provision of $34,113,442 [$10.33 per share] for federal taxes on income for the first nine months took 78 per cent of taxable earnings for the period, and with rising expenses of operation and provision for increased contract revenue payments to railroads, forced net income below the level of a year ago," the report said.

Net working capital of Pullman, Inc., reached an all time high of $100,746,297, or $30.50 per share, the statement showed.

Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Ltd., reported consolidated profit of $10,039,503 for the fiscal year ended July 31 compared with $10,897,440 for the 1942 fiscal year. Provision for possible future inventory price decline of 3 million dollars was made in this year's report compared with a "provision for contingencies" of 1 million dollars in the preceding fiscal year.

Britons Think Lend-Lease to Be Permanent

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Publication of the British treasury's lend-lease white paper last week encouraged the belief in financial circles in London that whatever methods may be devised for ultimate settlement of the comprehensive mutual aid transactions between the United States and Britain, nothing will be done to interfere with Britain's economic recovery after the war.

Many observers apparently take for granted that if, as the treasury insisted, it is a waste of man power to attempt a detailed evaluation of what Britain is lend-leasing to the United States, the problem of reducing to terms of dollars the vastly larger American aid to Britain may also prove too complex for solution and settlement thus would become impossible. Some commentators even suggest that lend-lease will not be a temporary war time expedient, but will be continued indefinitely after the war.

Suggestion Stirs Ire.

The question of repayment of the amounts due from Britain to the United States under lend-lease became prominent earlier this week following publication of the Truman committee report in the United States senate. The recommendation that if Britain cannot pay in dollars the United States should obtain settlement by acquiring rights in British owned oil, rubber, nickel, copper, tin, and iron aroused sharp opposition in London.

Describing the senate committee's attitude as discouraging, a writer in the Financial News urged that the United States should accept goods which Britain or the empire could not export elsewhere and that Britain be given a clear field to develop her overseas commerce so she could accumulate the necessary surplus for debt repayments.

Agrees With President.

The senate committee would have been more helpful and realistic, he suggested, had it recommended that "the United States would not attempt large scale competition with British shipping and air transport; or that she would renounce her export to Britain of motor cars and other manufactures which might be produced in Britain; or that she was prepared to accept increased quantities of British manufactures, or that in order to make good the deficit in Britain's balance of payments she would raise no objection if Britain developed cotton production within the empire to replace American cotton."

The News concluded its editorial by saying "It is time American—and British—opinion realized what President Roosevelt recently said, but was forced to retract, that only coin in which America can expect to be repaid for lend-lease is victory."

MINERS' STRIKE DISRUPTS LAKES COAL SHIPMENTS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 14 [Special].—The recent mine strike broke the Great Lakes coal movement, vessel operators said today. The flow from mines to lake ports remains slow and is not expected to regain its pre-strike pace before the close of the navigation season.

Shipments to American ports on Lake Superior have been close to normal, according to vessel men, but there are deficits at the Canadian head of the lakes and at lower lake ports.

The fleet loaded 978,783 tons of coal in the week ended Nov. 8, or approximately 600,000 tons fewer than were handled in the preceding week.

Johns-Manville Workers' Wage Increase Approved

The war labor board approved wage increases ranging from $2.96 to $9.27 a week for approximately 2,000 clerical employes of the Johns-Manville corporation in 12 factories and 60 sales offices. The board said all workers involved earn less than $3,000 a year.

His subject will be V and VT loans for war production.

Raymond Durrell, former assistant editor of Moody's advisory reports, has been appointed research economist and chief statistician for Allied Liquor Industries, Inc., Stanley Baar, executive director, announced.

Raymond Durrell.

The international outlook will be discussed tomorrow night by A. W. Zelomek of New York, president and economist of the International Statistical Bureau, Inc., before a meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' Costs association in the Hotel Sherman.

V. R. Hawthorne, executive vice chairman, mechanical division of the Association of American Railroads, will discuss car activities of the association before the Western Railway club in the Hotel Sherman tonight.

Robert S. Solinsky, president of Cans, Inc., Chicago, has resigned as chief of the metal can and tube section of the WPB.

Frank H. Deknatel has been elected first vice president of the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet company. He will continue also as treasurer.

CUT PORK POINT VALUE, GRANGE ASKS RATIONERS

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 14 (AP).—The National Grange convention called upon the government today to reduce ration point values on pork and pork products to help prevent hog prices from falling below the war food administration's guaranteed minimum.

With hogs from this year's record crop being marketed in large numbers, prices have declined below the WFA's support price of $13.75 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis.

This drop in price, the convention said in a resolution unanimously adopted, will result in "great financial loss" to hog farmers, in a loss of confidence in government price promises for 1944, in reduced production next year, and aggravated meat shortages.

Extend Study of Simplified Price Control

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 (AP).—Further conferences looking toward a single price regulation for more than 400,000 of the nation's retail stores were announced today by the office of price administration.

Following a session in Washington tomorrow with representative furniture retailers, Byres H. Gitchell, head of OPA's retail distribution branch, will go to Chicago for meetings Wednesday and Thursday with representatives of mail order houses, officials of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, and a direct selling group. Sessions already have been held with variety store, hardware, and dry goods dealers.

Would Exclude Food, Fuel.

The single regulation would supplant numerous individual rules for various trades and cover the retail sale of virtually every commodity except food, fuel, and a limited number of other items.

Based on suggestions made to OPA by retailer groups, the plan calls for a base period of "historical" markup as the overall control for maximum prices in most kinds of retail stores.

Fixed Ceiling for Some.

In addition, there would be dollars-and-cents ceilings for a limited list of critical low cost items, and fixed, limited markups for certain other commodities figuring in the cost of living.

When the series of conferences is completed, a draft of the proposed regulation will be submitted to an informal council of retail merchants for discussion. Following this, OPA will decide whether to adopt it.

Report Brazilian Debt Pact Nearly Completed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 14 [Special].—The negotiations for a new agreement on the Brazilian foreign debt, which began months ago, are near completion, it was learned today, and it is possible that the new accord will be signed this month. Details are unobtainable, but it is believed that both American and British loan representatives are satisfied with the results.

AM. DISTILLING TO SELL WHISKY TO ITS HOLDERS

New York, Nov. 14 [Special].—The American Distilling company today announced that it would sell to its 1,700 common stock holders approximately 245,000 barrels of whisky, representing its entire bulk whisky inventory. Its value was estimated at approximately 8 million dollars.

Russell K. Brown, president, said all stockholders of a record date to be fixed later would be given adequate time to participate in the purchase on a pro rata and equitable basis. The whisky to be disposed of was described as of various types, 4 years old or less, and is being sold at the book value and cost to the corporation. This, it said, is approximately one-half of the OPA ceiling prices.

Altho the disposal of this merchandise will mean that the company for the time being is withdrawing from the whisky business, Brown said it will continue to make industrial alcohol for war purposes and will maintain its presently profitable bottling and rectifying operations. The company will bottle the whisky for purchasing stockholders for a fee.

In anticipation of some important development, the common stock of the company has been advancing rapidly in the last few weeks. From a low of 25⅛ on Oct. 1 the stock subsequently advanced to a high of 85¾, closing on Saturday at 74¼ for a loss of 7¼ points for the day.

The outstanding 156,273 shares of preferred stock will be redeemed Dec. 20 at $10.25 a shares plus 7 cents accrued dividend.

SEC Authorizes Utility to Buy Own Debentures

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 14 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission has authorized New England Power association to spend not more than 1 million dollars within the next six months, in addition to the amounts permitted under the holding company act, to purchase in the open market its outstanding 5 per cent debentures due 1948, and 5½ per cent debentures due 1954.

Wheat Crop Gets Poor Start; Acreage Below Goals in West

With acreage planted apparently far below the goal sought by the government and moisture conditions subnormal in western states, the winter wheat crop is reported off to the poorest start in eight years. Crop experts last week said the 1944 harvest would be small unless there is a material improvement in weather conditions. Parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas, embracing some 10 million acres of wheat land, report near drouth conditions.

Planting Falls Under Goal.

Seeded acreage in principal winter wheat producing states is reported substantially below the areas suggested by the war food administration. Nebraska fell some 700,000 acres short of its planting goal, Kansas 2 million below, and Oklahoma and Texas together are reported 500,000 to 1 million acres short of the desired acreage.

Crop experts believe there is little chance that the goal of 68 million acres of both winter and spring wheat for the 1944 crop will be realized. A total of 54 million acres was seeded for the 1943 crop.

Live Stock Liquidated.

A shortage of winter wheat pasture in parts of the west and southwest, combined with smaller crops of corn and small grains, has forced farmers in the affected areas to liquidate live stock on a large scale. The supply of the four principal feed grains—corn, oats, barley, and grain sorghum—is 10 million tons less than in 1942-'43, the department of agriculture reported.

APPLE PRODUCTS PRICES TO RISE, OPA ANNOUNCES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 (AP).—The OPA today fixed maximum processor ceilings for apple products which it said would result in "substantial increases" in retail prices over 1942 levels.

Effective Tuesday, the processor ceilings will mean a consumer price increase of approximately 50 per cent for cider vinegar. Apple base jellies will cost about 10 per cent more. The retail cost of apple sauce, packed apples, apple juice, and sweet cider also will be sharply boosted, OPA said, adding that since these four products will be priced under a varying processor formula, the percentage of increase also will vary.

CIO Steel Union to Collect Data to Fight Pay Formula

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 14 (AP).—Technical and economic experts of the CIO-United Steel Workers of America will meet at international headquarters here tomorrow to start assembling data to support the union's assertion that the "little steel" formula no longer is in line with living costs, and to prepare for reopening of contracts for adjustment of wage scales.

VAST MANUFACTURING INCREASE FORECAST BY AYRES AFTER WAR

Cleveland, O., Nov. 14 (AP).—Recalling that "after the first World war and after the Civil war we experienced phenomenally rapid increases in manufacturing output," Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres declared today "we shall surely have similar developments this time."

"Our expanded resources will do a large part of our post-war planning for us," the retired army officer asserted in the monthly business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust company, where he is a vice president.

Ayres said the nation's industrial plant is nearly 70 per cent larger than when the European war broke out four years ago.

October Dividend Total Drops Below Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14 [Special].—Cash dividends paid by corporations in October totaled 201 million dollars, compared with 297 million in October, 1942, the department of commerce reported today. The total for the first 10 months of 1943 was 2 billion 690 million,

WESTERN RAILS LIMIT ADVANCE SALE OF SEATS

Hold Reservations to Next Month.

Western railroads, in order to make more space available to military and other essential travelers, effective today, are placing a time limit on passenger reservations. Under the new system, announced yesterday by the Trans-Continental and Western Passenger associations, a reservation may be made for a trip only in the current month or the succeeding month.

H. W. Siddall, chairman of the associations, said, however, that all reservations made before today would be protected.

No January Sales Until Dec. 1.

He explained that under the new system a reservation may be made today or any day this month for a trip up to and including Dec. 31. On Dec. 1, reservations would be acceptable for any day in December and January.

Siddall said that, altho the action of the western lines brings passenger reservations under nation-wide curbs, the western system of the "current and following month" was adopted in preference to the flat 30 day limitation imposed by the eastern roads. This was because of problems peculiar to western travel, he said.

Urges Early Cancellations.

He explained that distances are longer on the western roads, requiring passengers to plan longer trips and thus to make train and hotel reservations farther in advance. Explaining that the innovation is experimental, Siddall said changes may be necessary.

He urged that travelers cancel unneeded reservations promptly, asserting that "with travel on railroads at an all time high, and further increases expected, it is essential that no space be wasted."

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Tired American marines, crouched low to avoid Jap bullets, drink coconut milk as refresher after their landing on Torokina cape in Nov. 1 invasion of Bougainville Island.
